TWO CENTS

NUMBERS OF VICTIMS.

More Known Ships and Lives Lost.

DEADLY COAST OF CAPE COD.

Hills and Miles Filled High With Wreckage—In Vineyard Haven Hulls Are Piled Upon Shore—Wreck of the Portland Overshadows All.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Reports of wrecks and loss of life up and down the New England coast, as the outcome of Sunday's terrific storm, continued. From Cape Cod the most terrible accounts of rain and death came, and of these the loss of the steamer Portland, a side-wheeler, plying between Boston and Portland, with all on board, nearly 100 souls, overshadows all. The graveyard of the coast, the treacherous bars and reefs on the outside of Cape Cod, have claimed victims without number.

Miles and miles of coast line are piled high with wreckage, most of which is ground so fine by the waves that identification of hapless craft is impossible. As the fury of the wind was as great on the bleak sand hills which make up the cape it will be some hours before all places are heard from. Telegraph wires are down and railroads cannot break out the snow drifts, and this feature is distressing, as much suffering from cold and hunger must ensue among the poorer people in the near by hamlets.

The only means of reaching Cape Cod was by steamer across Massachusetts Bay, a disagreeable voyage, as the sea was yet boisterous. Word from Provincetown told of nearly 30 total wrecks, with the number of lives lost unknown. Matters are improving slightly along Vineyard Sound, so far as means of communication are concerned. The best summing up of the disasters in that section is made by Captain Hard, Jr., of the revenue cutter Dexter, who has cruised along shore all day.

He says that in Vineyard Haven hulls are piled upon shore and those vessels which are adrift seem mere shells. The Dexter reports possible additions to the wreck list, in two schooners sunk off Menemsha light, and two big ones sunk abreast of Presque Isle. The fate of their crews is unknown. Three wrecking steamers are around the Fairfax shoal on Sow and Hys reef.

BODIES CAME ASHORE.

Life Belt on One Was Marked From the Portland—It is Probable That Over 100 Lives Were Lost.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., Nov. 28.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The steamer Portland of the Boston and Portland line has been lost on Cape Cod with all on board. The life saving men, through a blinding storm yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, heard the distress whistle of a steamer and last night, at midnight, the body of a man was found on shore. On the body of the man was a life belt marked "Steamer Portland of Portland." A gold watch in his pocket had stopped at 10 o'clock. This man was well-dressed, wore black clothes and tan shoes and had light hair and moustache and a piece of card in his pocket bore the words "John W. Congress street, Portland."

The body of a large woman, without covering of any kind, washed ashore at Plover river, but there was no means of identifying it. It is believed that the steamer Portland was disabled by the storm about 10 o'clock last night, being unable to longer hold up against the gale and drifted on to Peaked Hill bars and went to pieces. No part of the ship has drifted ashore, and it is not known just where she struck.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Figures obtained at the office of the Boston and Portland Steamship company, whose steamer Portland was dashed to pieces on the treacherous Cape Cod coast Sunday morning, show that the ill-fated vessel carried 101 persons, 52 passengers and a crew of 49 men. Every soul aboard is supposed to have perished, not one being left to tell the story of the disaster.

Thirty-four bodies were recovered from the surf by the life savers at Highland station.

The complete list of passengers follows:

M. L. Sewell, Portland; Fred Sherwood, Portland; Charles H. Thompson, wife and child, Woods, Me.; William L. Chase, Master Philip Chase, Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. Kate Coy, East Boston; Arthur F. Heron and wife, Chelsea, Mass.; Miss Alice Swift, Portland; Harry Smith, East Boston; Mrs. Cornelia N. Mitchell, North Easton, Mass.; Miss Jennie C. Hoyt, North Easton, Mass.; Mrs. J. A. Carroll, Lowell, Mass.; Miss Jennie Edmunds, East Boston; Mrs. Anna Rounds, Portland; George B. Kennison, Jr., South Portland, Me.; Perry Jackson, South Portland, Me.; Mrs. Perry Jackson and child, South Portland, Me.; George Cole, South Portland, Me.; Mrs. Mary Welch, South Portland, Me.; Elizabeth Collins, L. Forman, W. G. Latimer, J. G. Mitchell, Boston; Mrs. G. O. Chickering, Weymouth, Mass.; Mrs. Augustus Wheeler, South Weymouth, Mass.; Mrs. Ezekiel Bennis and Morong Fessenden Park; Owen Hooper Portland; Fred Hooper, Portland, his son, H. True Hooper, Harvard student; Miss Rose, Miss Edna McGilg, Boston; Mrs. Theodore Allen, Portland; Miss Allen, Portland; Leah Frye, Portland; Miss Ruth Frye, Portland; Miss Maud Sykes, Portland; Arthur C. Bass, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Bemis, Auburn, Me.; Mrs. Hattie A. Lord, East Deering, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fogg, Salem, Mass.

The officers of the ship are as follows: Captain, W. H. Banchard of East Deering, Me.; pilot, Lewis Strout of East Boston; second officer, Lewis Nelson; purser, F. A. Ingram; clerk, Horace Moore; mate, Edward Deering; second mate, John McKay; watchman, R. Blake; watchman, T. Sewell; watchman, J. Whittier; first engineer, Thomas Merrill; second engineer, John Walton; third engineer, Thomas Merrill; second steward, Eben Huston.

The crew were: Deckmen—John Daly, George McGilvary, Arthur Sloan, James Davidson, Peter Collins, Morris Graham, Cornelius O'Brien, D. Bruce, Matthew Barron, Richard Hartley and George Cropley. Firemen—Hugh Merriam, William Dougherty and four others. Oilers—James McNeil, Albert Dillon. Electrician—Frank Leighton. Porter, Allen; first cook, Stephen Howard, second cook, Joe Watson; third cook, Fred Wells; waiters, Lewis Johnson, Arthur Johnson, Lee Forman, George Graham-Catlin, Samuel Smith; head saloonman, Latimer; barber, Comer; stewaresses, Mrs. Carrie M. Harris, Mrs. Margaret Barry.

CONTEMPT CITATION.

A Cashier Refused to Testify on a Bank Tax Case Being Heard at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—Thomas Wilson, cashier of the First National bank of this city, was cited to appear before the United States circuit court for contempt, for refusing to answer a question put to him by Attorney General Monnett in the bank tax hearing.

Several bank cashiers were summoned to appear before Special Examiner Belford, the object being to compel the bankers to explain the variation of the figures given in their reports to the comptroller of currency and their returns to the auditor for taxation. While Mr. Wilson was being examined by Attorney General Monnett he made the statement that there was not a taxpayer in the county that returned his property for taxation at more than 60 per cent of its true value.

"Can you name one person who makes his tax return at 60 per cent of the true value of his property?" asked Mr. Monnett.

"I can, but I do not wish to be the cause of other people being involved in this matter, and I refuse to mention any names," replied the witness.

Mr. Monnett had Mr. Wilson certified to the United States court for contempt.

Johnson Defense Rests.

AKRON, Nov. 30.—The defense in the Johnson murder trial caused a sensation by resting its case after one witness had been examined. The signed confession of the accused man was introduced. The defense offered no objection, contrary to expectation. Johnson claimed that he was attacked by Osborne with a cane before he ever struck him, and on this point the defense dwelt in cross-examination the officers who had taken Johnson's confession. Attorney Ed Voris of the defense was put on the stand and testified as to bruises which he had seen on Johnson's legs, and which he claimed had been inflicted by Osborne.

Burke Case Practically Decided.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—The trial committee of the Bar association will not meet again until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when its report on the charges against Senator Vernon H. Burke will be drawn up and signed. The committee is practically agreed upon the verdict, but has not yet reached a decision upon the wording of the report. Judge Dellenbaugh was in Chicago on matters pertaining to the Burke case, and it is reported that he has gone to secure additional evidence.

Want a Mission Building.

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 30.—A petition signed by 500 representative citizens has been presented to the city council requesting that it lease for a long term of years at a nominal rental the city markethouse lot to the City mission, which desires to erect thereon a building for the carrying out of its charitable and benevolent work. It is probable a portion of the lot will be given for the worthy cause.

Elected President of Oberlin.

OBERLIN, O., Nov. 30.—The trustees of Oberlin college elected Rev. John Henry Barrows of Chicago as president of that institution. It is understood he will accept and assume the position on Jan. 4, 1899, when the winter terms begins.

TO COMBINE SUGAR REFINERIES.

A Move to Unite Different Companies, With Large Capitalization.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An attempt is being made to consolidate the American Sugar Refining company, the Doscher sugar plant, the Arbuckle concern and all of the other independent refineries and the Glucose Sugar Refining company of Chicago.

Whether the scheme will succeed depends upon Mr. Havemeyer and certain interests in the Glucose company.

It is proposed to capitalize the organization at $150,000,000, half preferred and half common stock.

Choate Called on McKinley.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Among the visitors at the White House was Mr. Joseph Choate of New York, who is in Washington on business before the United States supreme court. Mr. Choate called to pay his respects to the president and remained only a few minutes. His presence here, however, has revived the rumor that he may be appointed ambassador to London.

PEACE ARTICLES READY

Prepared to Submit to Peace Commissions Today.

AGUINALDO IS SOMEWHAT FEARED

Apprehension Not Entirely Disappeared, Though the Administration Believes Insurgents Will Accept the Situation Without a Conflict.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—As the result of the work of Mr. Moore and Senor Ojeda the draft of the articles embodying the protocol agreements was completed last evening and are expected to be presented to the two commissions today at their separate sessions and at the joint session, when it will receive final consideration. There will be little delay on these articles.

Mr. Moore will also submit to the United States commissioners the subjects to be presented to the Spaniards for negotiations. These for convenience and greater dispatch are being drafted into the form of articles.

The release of the insurgent prisoners held by Spain will go into the protocol agreements, it having been already agreed that Spain is to release them upon the United States undertaking to secure the release of Spanish prisoners in the hands of Aguinaldo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The apprehension which manifested itself some time ago over the attitude of Aguinaldo and the Philippine insurgents has not entirely disappeared, though the administration believes they will accept the situation without any conflict with the United States. The matter was discussed at the cabinet meeting and some of the views expressed indicated a possibility that the insurgents may yet have to be dealt with. On the whole, however, the president expects that serious trouble with Aguinaldo will be avoided, but at the same time has guarded against an outbreak by taking precautionary measures.

The American force already in occupancy of part of the Philippines is regarded as altogether adequate to cope with any emergency that may arise. The future government of the islands came up incidentally and Secretary Alger made some suggestions as to details of a military government of the islands.

The government has been officially advised of the successful termination of the peace negotiations with Spain. A cablegram to this effect, which had been received from Chairman Day, was read at the cabinet meeting by the secretary of state.

Before returning to the United States our Paris commissioners will secure from the Spanish representatives, if possible, a proposition for the sale to the United States of Strong Island, one of the Caroline group, some distance east and south of Luzon, for a cable station. Should Spain, however, decline to sell the island for a reasonable sum the matter will be dropped for the present at least. The possible cession of this island is not involved in the pending treaty and no pressure will be brought to bear to induce Spain to part with it.

A large part of the time of the cabinet meeting was consumed in the discussion of the new customs tariff which is to be put into operation in all parts of Cuba as soon as the United States takes formal possession.

STRIFE AMONG REBELS.

Hostilities Between Rival Republics in Philippines—Loyal Legion Banquet, at Manila.

MANILA, Nov. 30.—At the Loyal Legion banquet here 64 guests were present.

General Anderson presided and Rear Admiral Dewey was received by a guard of honor from the Oregonian.

The speakers were Generals Anderson, Harrison, Grey, Onis, Reeve, King and McArthur, Captains Glass and Coghlan and Colonel Hawkins.

The transport Zealandia has arrived here with reinforcements. There are other transports expected daily.

It is reported that a section of the insurgents called the guards of honor, who are opposed to Aguinaldo, have captured San Ignacio, in the province of Pangasinan, island of Luzon, at the instance of the Spanish priests.

Charles McKinnon, a member of an Oregon regiment, died of smallpox.

Advices from Iloilo say the natives of the Visayas islands have established a republic, independent of Luzon.

In some of the islands hostilities are proceeding between rival republics.

THE SPANISH EVACUATION.

General Butler Spoke of It—Criticized Spanish Soldiers and Cubans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Major General M. C. Butler had another conference with the president concerning affairs in Cuba. In an interview he said:

"Since the American commissioners have been in Havana about 20,000 soldiers have been sent back to Spain. Thirty-two transports will soon arrive there and take away from 50,000 to 60,000 more. The remainder will depart about Jan. 1 or soon afterward."

General Butler said that it was hard to tell how many Spanish soldiers will remain on the island to become citizens. He said he had never seen a more orderly or better behaved lot of men.

General Butler said that nobody could approximate the time when this country could turn things over to the Cubans. He had found them bright and well-educated.

SOME VOLUNTEERS MAY RETURN.

A Rumor That 5,000 Regulars Will Be Sent to the Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—A rumor was current at army headquarters that between now and Jan. 1 5,000 soldiers will be concentrated here to embark for the Philippines.

It is said that the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Twentieth infantry will be assigned to duty on the islands, and that some of the volunteers stationed there will be returned to this country for mastering out.

FATAL FACTIONAL FIGHT.

One Man Killed and Others Hurt in a Row Among Republicans at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An attempt to break up the annual meeting of the Eighteenth Ward Republican club at Bricklayers' hall, at Peoria and West Monroe streets, resulted in the death of one of the attacking party and the wounding of several of those who participated in the fight.

The dead man is Charles Lattimer, a bricklayer, instantly killed.

The wounded are William Mahoney, policeman at the Desplaines Street station, shot in both arms and in the side; will recover. John W. Landers, laborer, finger shot off. John Prince, janitor of the building; shot in the left leg; not serious.

The club held its annual election last night, and there was much rivalry between factions headed by Coroner Berg and John Rodgers, an ex member of the city council, over the offices.

Some of the Rogers faction tried to enter the hall where some of the Berg people were holding a meeting.

Coroner Berg was one of the first to fire.

GREAT LAKES DISPUTES.

Taken Up by Special Committees of the Anglo-American Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Anglo-American commission had expected to resume the consideration of the reciprocity discussion, but as the Bering sea question had not been disposed of the consideration of that branch of work was continued. While considerable progress has been made, a final agreement on the sealing question is not yet assured. Besides the present valuation of the Canadian sealing fleet it is said that the relinquishment of the right of sealing is another factor, which the Canadians consider quite as important as the value of the present fleet.

Questions relating to the great lakes were taken up by a special committee. These include controversies over the number of warships which are to be maintained or built on the lakes; fishing rights; navigation and wrecking privileges, and various questions arising out of the treaty of 1817. This branch of work was partly considered at Quebec.

A CHANCE FOR CORBETT.

Sharkey Willing to Fight For Charity, Within Two Weeks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—In a published interview Corbett was quoted as saying that he was willing to fight Sharkey again for nothing providing he was allowed his training expenses. Tom O'Rourke, Sharkey's manager, issued the following card:

"Corbett has stated that he will fight Sharkey for nothing, if allowed training expenses. Sharkey accepts, providing the proceeds go to the poor as a Christmas gift, the press to form a committee, who will distribute the money. Let Corbett name the time, which must not be later than two weeks hence."

Bismarck's Memoirs Issued.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The memoirs of the late Prince Bismarck were issued, but the papers are disappointing to those who expected a sensation and have evidently been well blue-penciled. It is also evident that the author left much to be supplied by the editors who have impressed the writings with their own style. The memoirs contain few of Bismarck's characteristic derogations, but are, however, of vast literary and political interest.

Kasson Gave a Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Hon. John A. Kasson, special reciprocity commissioner of the United States, entertained at dinner the British American joint high commission, now in session here. Toasts to the president, the queen and the emperor of Russia were drunk standing. The response to the toasts to the queen was made by the British ambassador and that to the emperor of Russia by the Russian ambassador.

Saved a Schooner's Crew.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Captain Dobbins of the schooner Maynard Sumner and his crew of five men were brought here by the steamer Mackinaw, from London, which picked them up off Montauk Point. The schooner was abandoned and will prove a total loss.

A ROBBER ENGINEER.

Caught Trying to Hold Up Missouri Pacific Train.

COMPANION REPORTED WOUNDED.

A Posse Out After the Two Fellow Bandits of the Railway Employee—Superintendent of the Road Had Been Informed—Had Armed Men on Train.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 30.—Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 74, which left St. Joe, via Kansas City, running from the latter city over the Lexington branch, was held up four and a half miles west of Sedalia, by three masked men, one of whom, Jim West, an engineer, in the company's employ, was captured, while a second is believed to have been wounded, and the third escaped. Originally the holdup was to have occurred last Friday night, but one of the men implicated weakened and the attempt was postponed.

Superintendent L. D. Hopkins was apprised that the holdup was arranged for and he prepared for it. When the train left Kansas City six secret service men in the company's employ were also on board.

One half mile west of Georgetown, at Muddy creek, Engineer Daniels was signalled to stop and aid so.

At once the three robbers opened fire, which was returned by the company's posse of six men. Fully 20 shots were exchanged, when the robbers realized that they were trapped and began to retreat. The officers gave pursuit, and Engineer Jim West, a freightman, was captured. The officers fired a number of shots, and it was reported that the second robber was wounded, but this was not corroborated.

The train then came on to Sedalia and West was committed to jail. As quickly as possible a posse was organized and proceeded to the scene of the holdup in the hope of capturing the other two robbers.

NEGLECTED FOR DAYS.

Wound of Man Hurt at El Caney Not Dressed Until He Reached Long Island.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The war investigation commission began its hearings in Boston, all the members being present except Colonel Denby. General McCook acted as president.

Leonard W. Johnson of North Cambridge, a contract nurse, testified that no one was taken on board the City of Berlin, from Porto Rico, who was not able to take care of himself, but in spite of that he and a Mr. Sanderson were ordered to look after 12 men who were sick, though the witness was sick himself. Their orders were to keep all at work under penalty of being themselves, as well as the delinquents, placed in irons.

Dr. Brackett of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid association thought there were medicines enough on the Segura. There were, however, almost no prepared food or any kind of food for convalescents. He and Captain McCook bought supplies from the ship's steward and gave them to the men. There was ice on board, to be had once a day by paying for it.

Corporal William Kentinds, Seventh infantry, testified to being wounded in three places at the battle of El Caney. He remained under a tree and it was two days before he was discovered. Eight days afterwards he went aboard the Olive. He did not get his wounds dressed until he reached Long Island.

Private E. F. Houston, Seventh infantry, who was wounded in the action at El Caney, told of his experiences in a hospital at Siboney. The wounded suffered on the way, owing to the springless wagons having no straw in the bottoms. In the hospital the greatest difficulty was in getting food of a proper nature for men in their condition. Canned food could be bought, but those who had no money had to go without. The only food issued was the canned beef and tomatoes. These were issued as rations, but delicacies and oranges had to be purchased. He described a visit of Miss Mills and an unpleasant controversy between her and the doctor, after which the men had better treatment. Witness testified to hearing the men call out for water and then hearing the nurses in the adjacent tents shout "shut up," for reply. One of the wounded died after calling for water in this way.

A Dinner to Iglesias.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Iglesias of Costa Rica had a long conference with Senator Morgan, who has been the manager of the Nicaraguan canal legislation in the senate, relative to canal affairs. Last night President Iglesias was the guest of honor at a dinner given by President McKinley.

Deaths Reported by Wood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—General Wood reported from Santiago the following deaths: Private M. Thomas, Company K, Eighth Illinois, dysentery; Private Arthur Smith, Company M, Ninth volunteers, pneumonia; Private Bennett M. Clemens, Fourth volunteers, apoplexy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The apprehension which manifested itself some time ago over the attitude of Aguinaldo and the Philippine insurgents has not entirely disappeared, though the administration believes they will accept the situation without any conflict with the United States. The matter was discussed at the cabinet meeting and some of the views expressed indicated a possibility that the insurgents may yet have to be dealt with. On the whole, however, the president expects that serious trouble with Aguinaldo will be avoided, but at the same time has guarded against an outbreak by taking precautionary measures.

The American force already in occupancy of part of the Philippines is regarded as altogether adequate to cope with any emergency that may arise. The future government of the islands came up incidentally and Secretary Alger made some suggestions as to details of a military government of the islands.

The government has been officially advised of the successful termination of the peace negotiations with Spain. A cablegram to this effect, which had been received from Chairman Day, was read at the cabinet meeting by the secretary of state.

Before returning to the United States our Paris commissioners will secure from the Spanish representatives, if possible, a proposition for the sale to the United States of Strong island, one of the Caroline group, some distance east and south of Luzon, for a cable station. Should Spain, however, decline to sell the island for a reasonable sum the matter will be dropped for the present at least. The possible cession of this island is not involved in the pending treaty and no pressure will be brought to bear to induce Spain to part with it.

A large part of the time of the cabinet meeting was consumed in the discussion of the new customs tariff which is to be put into operation in all parts of Cuba as soon as the United States takes formal possession.

STRIKE AMONG REBELS.

Hostilities Between Loyal Republics in Philippines—Royal Legion Banquet, at Manila.

MANILA, Nov. 30.—At the Loyal Legion banquet here 64 guests were present.

General Anderson presided and Rear Admiral Dewey was received by a guard of honor from the Oregonian.

The speakers were Generals Anderson, Harrison, Grey, Otis, Reeve, King and McArthur, Captains Glass and Coghlan and Colonel Hawkins.

The transport Zealandia has arrived here with reinforcements. There are other transports expected daily.

It is reported that a section of the insurgents called the guards of honor, who are opposed to Aguinaldo, have captured San Ignacio, in the province of Pangasinan, island of Luzon, at the instance of the Spanish priests.

Charles McKinnon, a member of an Oregon regiment, died of smallpox.

Advices from Iloilo say the natives of the Visayas islands have established a republic, independent of Luzon.

In some of the islands hostilities are proceeding between rival republics.

THE SPANISH EVACUATION.

General Butler Spoke of It—Praised Spanish Soldiers and Cubans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Major General M. C. Butler had another conference with the president concerning affairs in Cuba. In an interview he said:

"Since the American commissioners have been in Havana about 20,000 soldiers have been sent back to Spain. Thirty-two transports will soon arrive there and take away from 50,000 to 60,000 more. The remainder will depart about Jan. 1 or soon afterward."

General Butler said that it was hard to tell how many Spanish soldiers will remain on the island to become citizens. He said he had never seen a more orderly or better behaved lot of men.

General Butler said that nobody could approximate the time when this country could turn things over to the Cubans. He had found them bright and well-educated.

SOME VOLUNTEERS MAY RETURN.

A Rumor That 5,000 Regulars Will Be Sent to the Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—A rumor was current at army headquarters that between now and Jan. 1 5,000 soldiers will be concentrated here to embark for the Philippines.

It is said that the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Twentieth infantry will be assigned to duty on the islands, and that some of the volunteers stationed there will be returned to this country for mustering out.

FATAL FACTIONAL FIGHT.

One Man Killed and Others Hurt in a Row Among Republicans at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An attempt to break up the annual meeting of the Eighteenth Ward Republican club at Bricklayers' hall, at Peoria and West Monroe streets, resulted in the death of one of the attacking party and the wounding of several of those who participated in the fight.

The dead man is Charles Lattimer, a bricklayer, instantly killed.

The wounded are William Mahoney, policeman at the Desplaines Street station, shot in both arms and in the side; will recover. John W. Landers, laborer, finger shot off. John Prince, janitor of the building; shot in the left leg; not serious.

The club held its annual election last night, and there was much rivalry between factions headed by Coroner Berg and John Rodgers, an ex member of the city council, over the offices.

Some of the Rogers faction tried to enter the hall where some of the Berg people were holding a meeting.

Coroner Berg was one of the first to fire.

GREAT LAKES DISPUTES.

Taken Up by Special Committees of the Anglo-American Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Anglo-American commission had expected to resume the consideration of the reciprocity discussion, but as the Bering sea question had not been disposed of the consideration of that branch of work was continued. While considerable progress has been made, a final agreement on the sealing question is not yet assured. Besides the present valuation of the Canadian sealing fleet it is said that the relinquishment of the right of sealing is another factor, which the Canadians consider quite as important as the value of the present fleet.

Questions relating to the great lakes were taken up by a special committee. These include controversies over the number of warships which are to be maintained or built on the lakes; fishing rights; navigation and wrecking privileges, and various questions arising out of the treaty of 1817. This branch of work was partly considered at Quebec.

A CHANCE FOR CORBETT.

Sharkey Willing to Fight For Charity, Within Two Weeks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—In a published interview Corbett was quoted as saying that he was willing to fight Sharkey again for nothing providing he was allowed his training expenses. Tom O'Rourke, Sharkey's manager, issued the following card:

"Corbett has stated that he will fight Sharkey for nothing, if allowed training expenses. Sharkey accepts, providing the proceeds go to the poor as a Christmas gift, the press to form a committee, who will distribute the money. Let Corbett name the time, which must not be later than two weeks hence."

Bismarck's Memoirs Issued.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The memoirs of the late Prince Bismarck were issued, but the papers are disappointing to those who expected a sensation and have evidently been well blue penciled. It is also evident that the author left much to be supplied by the editors who have impressed the writings with their own style. The memoirs contain few of Bismarck's characteristic derogations, but are, however, of vast literary and political interest.

Kasson Gave a Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Hon. John A. Kasson, special reciprocity commissioner of the United States, entertained at dinner the British American joint high commission, now in session here. Toasts to the president, the queen and the emperor of Russia were drunk standing. The response to the toasts to the queen was made by the British ambassador and that to the emperor of Russia by the Russian ambassador.

Saved a Schooner's Crew.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Captain Dobbin of the schooner Maynard Sumner and his crew of five men were brought here by the steamer Mackinaw, from London, which picked them up off Montauk Point. The schooner was abandoned and will prove a total loss.

A ROBBER ENGINEER.

Caught Trying to Hold Up Missouri Pacific Train.

COMPANION REPORTED WOUNDED.

A Posse Out After the Two Fellow Bandits of the Railway Employee—Superintendent of the Road Had Been Informed—Had Armed Men on Train.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 30.—Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 74, which left St. Joe, via Kansas City, running from the latter city over the Lexington branch, was held up four and a half miles west of Sedalia, by three masked men, one of whom, Jim West, an engineer, in the company's employ, was captured, while a second is believed to have been wounded, and the third escaped. Originally the holdup was to have occurred last Friday night, but one of the men implicated weakened and the attempt was postponed.

Superintendent L. D. Hopkins was apprised that the holdup was arranged for and he prepared for it. When the train left Kansas City six secret service men in the company's employ were also on board.

One half mile west of Georgetown, at Mudley creek, Engineer Daniels was signaled to stop and aid so.

At once the three robbers opened fire, which was returned by the company's posse of six men. Fully 20 shots were exchanged, when the robbers realized that they were trapped and began to retreat. The officers gave pursuit, and Engineer Jim West, a freightingman, was captured. The officers fired a number of shots, and it was reported that the second robber was wounded, but this was not corroborated.

The train then came on to Sedalia and West was committed to jail. As quickly as possible a posse was organized and proceeded to the scene of the holdup in the hope of capturing the other two robbers.

NEGLECTED FOR DAYS.

Boston, Nov. 30.—The war investigation commission began its hearings in Boston, all the members being present except Colonel Denby. General McCook acted as president.

Leonard W. Johnson of North Cambridge, a contract nurse, testified that no one was taken on board the City of Berlin, from Porto Rico, who was not able to take care of himself, but in spite of that he and a Mr. Sanderson were ordered to look after 12 men who were sick, though the witness was sick himself. Their orders were to keep all at work under penalty of being themselves, as well as the delinquents, placed in irons.

Dr. Brackett of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid association thought there were medicines enough on the Segurana. There were, however, almost no prepared food or any kind of food for convalescents. He and Captain McCook bought supplies from the ship's steward and gave them to the men. There was ice on board, to be had once a day by paying for it.

Corporal William Kentinds, Seventh infantry, testified to being wounded in three places at the battle of El Caney. He remained under a tree and it was two days before he was discovered. Eight days afterwards he went aboard the Olivette. He did not get his wounds dressed until he reached Long Island.

Private B. F. Houston, Seventh infantry, who was wounded in the action at El Caney, told of his experiences in a hospital at Siboney. The wounded suffered on the way, owing to the springless wagons having no straw in the bottoms. In the hospital the greatest difficulty was in getting food of a proper nature for men in their condition. Canned food could be bought, but those who had no money had to go without. The only food issued was the canned beef and tomatoes. These were issued as rations, but delicacies and oranges had to be purchased. He described a visit of Miss Mills and an unpleasant controversy between her and the doctor, after which the men had better treatment. Witness testified to hearing the men call out for water and then hearing the nurses in the adjacent tents shout "shut up," for reply. One of the wounded died after calling for water in this way.

A Dinner to Iglesias.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Iglesias of Costa Rica had a long conference with Senator Morgan, who has been the manager of the Nicaraguan canal legislation in the senate, relative to canal affairs. Last night President Iglesias was the guest of honor at a dinner given by President McKinley.

Deaths Reported by Wood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—General Wood reported from Santiago the following deaths: Private M. Thomas, Company K, Eighth Illinois, dysentery; Private Arthur Smith, Company M, Ninth volunteers, pneumonia; Private Bennett M. Clemens, Fourth volunteers, apoplexy.

NO SOUTHSIDE MILL

Mr. Banfield Says He Knows
of No Project.

PLANT WILL STAY IN IRONDALE

The Company's Property Has Been Absorbed by the Trust, and There Will Be No Change—Refused to Talk on the Branch Extension.

W. H. Banfield, of Irondale, passed through the city this morning going to his home from Pittsburg where he has been for several days attending to some business connected with the tin plate
combination. In speaking to a reporter
he said:

"It was never the intention of the company to erect a mill on the Virginia
side and the land in which I am interested was purchased
for speculative purposes only.
There are no prospects at present for
any factory of any description being
erected on the other side of the river,
and if there is I don't know of it. The Irondale mill will remain where it is,
and neither the old company or the new owners ever had any intention of moving."

When Mr. Banfield was asked if the Panhandle road would soon begin work
on the extension of the Cumberland
branch, he said that was out of his line,
and he could not give any information
on the subject.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Will the Funeral of the Late Mrs. Bulger
Take Place.

Mrs. Julia A. Bulger, who died yesterday at her home in Sixth street, was born in Plymouth, N. H., in 1815, and
her maiden name was Miss Julia A.
Worcester. When she was quite young her parents moved to Brownsville, and
in 1835 she was married to Henry Bul-
ger, and they made their home in Brownsville until the death of Mr. Bulger, which occurred in 1885. Mrs. Bulger a short time afterward moved to this city and has since resided here.

Deceased has been an invalid for a number of years, and her death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was an earnest member of the Cumberland
Presbyterian church of Brownsville.
She was beloved and respected by all
who knew her and had many friends in the city who will be pained to hear of
her death.

Seven children are left to mourn her
loss: J. W. Bulger, Akron; Miss Ada
Bulger, A. H. Bulger, this city; Mrs.
R. P. Thistlethwaite, Erie, Pa.; William F. Bulger, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs.
Alfred Myers, Toronto; L. M. Bulger,
Bellevue, Pa.

The funeral will take place tomorrow
afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late
residence in Sixth street, Dr. Clark Crawford, officiating. Interment at Riverview.

A CLEVER RUSSIAN.

He Found a Method of Beating His Persian Creditor.

In Persia, when a creditor fails to get
his money in any other way, he appears
in the debtor's house and sits down.
Then he does not move away till the debtor pays up. He enters the debtor's sleeping apartments, if possible, and
has his meals brought in. A few years ago a Persian held an unsatisfied claim against the British government, and he presented himself before the British minister one day and camped out in his private office. The minister did not see the joke, and sent for a policeman. That made a lot of noise and trouble, and the Russian representative in Teheran evidently learned a lesson from it, for he managed a case of the same kind much differently.

The Persian who demanded money
from the Russian (Count Kolomeisow)
was a holy man, a dervish, and when he sat down in the Russian's anteroom to wait till the latter paid his disputed claim Count Kolomeisow knew that he could not get rid of him without much fuss and explanation. It is against the laws, or at least the custom, which is just as firm, to touch a creditor who
takes this means of collecting money,
so the count could not throw him out.
He thought over the matter, and one
morning he sent for a lot of masons.
Then he ordered them to build a wall
around the dervish, who was sitting in the middle of the room. The dervish
watched them placidly at first, but
when the wall grew and it became apparent that it would be completed soon
he jumped over it, ran away and has not been seen since. They say that the count is the first man in Teheran who
has beaten a creditor of this kind without recourse to the police.—New York

DEEP SEA WATER.

At One Thousand Fathoms Its Pres-
sure Is a Ton to the Square Inch.

When marine life began to command
notice, the question of the depth to
which life could extend divided scientific thought into warring camps. About 1840, it was generally believed that the
bathymetric limit was about 300 fathoms, and some strange ideas were current as to the physical condition of water when under a pressure such as a depth of two miles would produce. It was thought that skeletons of drowned
men, or even heavy cannon and the
"wedges of gold" that popular imagination places in the sea, floated at certain
levels, beneath which is water so compressed as to be impenetrable. In fact,
water is almost incompressible, and the
weight of a cubic inch of it at the depth
of a mile is very little more than at the surface, but it was assumed that no living being could survive a pressure
which at 1,000 fathoms is about a ton
to the square inch.

We ourselves live under a pressure of
about 15 pounds per inch, and are unaware of it. Indeed we sometimes
waken on a morning when the barometer has risen, say, half an inch during
the night, and consequently find ourselves sustaining an increased pressure
of several tons not only without suffering, but with a positive feeling of buoyancy and good spirits. On the other hand, if the tremendous pressure under
which we live be relieved as by a surgical "cup," severe injury may follow.
Aeronauts suffer from this cause, and
marine animals dredged from great
depth often reach the surface in a most lamentable condition, with eyes protud-
ing and viscera distended.—Dr. C. M.
Blackford, Jr., in North American Review.

Not Reassuring.

That an answer may be cheerful and
yet far from reassuring is once more
proved out of the mouth of a young Irishman.

He was acting as guide to a party of Americans who, in the course of a day's
excursion during their visit to Ireland,
were wandering over a picturesque, deserted castle.

"It seems very unsafe," said one of the party, as they groped and stumbled
along a dark passage. "These floors are
loose, I know."

"Yes," said another timid person,
"and I wish I could see the blue sky
above me. This seems like a dungeon,
not a ruin!"

"Is it the blue sky ye'd be seein',
miss?" said the voice of the guide, some
feet in advance. "Why, may the saints
preserve ye for an innocent! It's the roof, an nowt else, that kapes the walls
together, miss!"—Youth's Companion.

He Could Get Them.

When he was a Harvard student, the late Sherman Hoar became famous as a maker of epigrams. One evening he had been indulging in his usual style of conversation in the rooms of Professor
D., a man after his own heart, but too
apt to interlard his lectures with apparently original witticisms taken, after
the manner of Moliere, wherever he found them. When Hoar and a fellow
student had left the academic presence,
the latter enthusiastically cried: "By Jove, Sherman, how do you manage
it? I wish I could remember all the bright things you said just now."

"Go to D.'s lecture tomorrow and
take notes," said Hoar. "You'll get
them then."—Exchange.

THE TOBACCO HABIT.

HAVE YOU GOT IT, AND DO YOU
WANT TO LOSE IT?

A Chicago Specialist Says That a
Sure Cure For "My Lady Nicotine"
Can Be Found in the Plentiful Use
of the Humble Peanut.

However fantastic my particular
method of dealing with the tobacco habit may seem on paper it will effect a cure if faithfully carried out. In the first place, be sure that your patient
really desires to break off the habit of using tobacco. In the second place, remember that your patient will react according to the impression your manner
makes upon his mind. If you speak
lightly of your method of treating him,
he will hold that method in small esteem. Therefore, speak impressively,
and if he smiles at your modus operandi
frown him into a decent humility.

Suggestion alone is not sufficient to hold the average tobacco user, and you
will therefore add a material medicine
in the shape of—peanuts! Yes, my friend, ludicrous as the idea seems, there
lies in the vulgar peanut a charm to sap
the power of "My Lady Nicotine" and
free the fettered slave.

In all drug habits there are two conditions to combat—physical and mental, or physiological and psychological.
I use peanuts to offset the physical crav-
ing and suggestion to calm the mind.

What is the condition of the user of tobacco if the weed is withdrawn? It is important to understand this, because there is but a slight variation in one
dozen cases from the average.

The condition is one of mental unrest, some physical sensations and nervousness. The withdrawal of tobacco
acts as a withdrawal of a powerful
nerve tonic, because this weed, used
first as a nerve sedative, becomes by force of usage a nerve stimulant. Let us take the mental condition first under consideration. I do not try to put a tobacco user to sleep, because it is an unnecessary performance, but give him
positive suggestions while he is sitting
opposite me to the following effect:

That it will be easy to break him of
the habit.

That he will not suffer, despite the fact that he has tried to break off previously, but has failed on account of
the discomfort ensuing.

That he is not a hero or a being to be pitied or sympathized with, because he will not be called upon to display any
heroic qualities of endurance.

That if he follows directions he will
not suffer from nervousness or "sink-
ings" at the pit of the stomach.

That he will begin at once to gain in weight; that his memory will be sharper and more tenacious, and that his digestive organs will regain tone; that
his nerves will be as steel, his muscles
as iron and his complexion will lose the
muddy hue which mars its comeliness.

That the habit is uncleanly—in fact,
degrading—and that its gratification
entails a gross waste of money. What right has he to literally burn his income
when his wife is compelled to wear a
gown that is out of date?

Thus, then, do I prepare the patient's
mind for the lightness of the task before him, laying special stress upon the fact that he will at no time consider
himself an object of compassion or self
pity, for if he believe himself to be performing a deed of no small heroism he will suffer agonies, whereas if his ab-negation is ignored and taken as a matter
of course he will react accordingly.

Now, as to the physical symptoms,
they will be but slight if the above
preparation of the mind is properly
done and will show themselves in occasional pains about the region of the heart, sinking at the pit of the stomach,
a lassitude, weak and accelerated pulse
and muscular twittings. Nervousness,
jumping at a sudden noise and irritability of temper will be in evidence, but
will be greatly modified by suggestion.

Prescribe peanuts, to be eaten slowly,
constantly and continually. He must be occupied. Busy him therefore with peanuts. He would, if left alone, think tobacco. He must, on the contrary,
think peanuts. Has he a loathing for peanuts? All the better. He will learn to love them for their nutritious qualities and intrinsic flavor. Does his stomach rebel on the second or third day?
Has he biliousness or colic? It is still
well, because no man when bilious desires tobacco.

Observe that you are supplying him
with material for his digestive organs
to work upon, and that his jaws are
not idle. There is no vacuum, and there will be under this regimen no sinking
at the pit of the stomach. A feeling of fullness perhaps, a plethoric condition,
a sense of satiety, but this is exactly what we desire to bring about. Keep
the system busy and at work; keep the
mind at rest.

Ah, my friends, how true it is that
the mouse may gnaw the ropes that bind the lion! Even the plebeian peanut
may be the means of restoring harmony
to an afflicted household. I have known
this humble agent, taken according to directions, stretch strong men upon beds
of sickness from which they rose in the course of a day or two clean of heart
and purged of the craving for tobacco.
I have known of others whose stomachs
were not upset and who went their way
rejoicing and waxed fat speedily.

I have never known of a failure if
the above directions were carried out.

The tobacco habit is not worthy to be classed as a drug habit.—Sydney Flower, LL. D., in New York Herald.

MICA MINES OF INDIA.

The Methods of Hundreds of Years
Ago Still in Use.

The mica mines of India are in the interior of the country and very inaccessible. The Abruker mine, it is stated, produces the finest mica that has ever
been mined, both for lamination and color. It has been sunk about 200 feet,
following the pitch of the vein, and all
this mica and refuse have been raised
and carried away by the natives. No
machinery of any kind except drill and hammers is used in their mining operations.

The refuse and the mica are placed
in baskets each holding ten pounds, the
baskets being passed up from hand to hand by women, who stand in a line on ladders. The contents of the baskets are deposited at the top, and the baskets are
returned down the ladder in the same manner as they went up, but by another
line of women. Water is taken out of the mines by means of jugs. It is supposed that this method of operation
has been carried on for many hundreds
of years, except that there is more care
to protect the miners.

After the crude mica is taken from
the mines it is first roughly trimmed
and then sorted into different grades,
according to sizes and quality. It is then taken to the mica workers, who
split it up and scribe out the size for it
to be cut into by the shearers, the cut pieces then being cleaned, weighed and packed ready for shipment. The mica
is then transported to general warehouses in baskets on the backs of bul-
locks and in bullock carts. In this way
it is carried hundreds of miles to shipping points at a speed of about ten miles a day.

The mica can be split down to .0003
of an inch in thickness. Being both fireproof and transparent, it is very useful for many purposes in the arts, besides being an excellent insulator.—

COLOR BLIND PAINTERS.

A London Oculist Asserts That There
Are Such Artists.

To speak of a color blind artist sounds
like joking, said a noted oculist; but,
strange as it seems, there are several persons so affected who can nevertheless
paint extremely well. Numbers of color blind people there are, of course, who
draw perfectly in pencil, ink and crayons,
but I myself know a scene painter
attached to a provincial theater who,
though "color blind," paints all its
scenery, and has quite a local name,
not only for his "interiors" and oak
chambers, but even for landscapes.

I can tell you also of two London ladies who consulted me for color blind-
ness who paint really beautiful pictures.
One is the daughter of a late famous artist and was taught painting by her father. She is quite unable to distinguish red from green, but her colors are
all labeled with the names, and she has been taught which to use for certain effects. Possibly her painting may seem to her eyes, as it were, drawing
with a brush and "shading" with the colors.

The other is a lady artist of some celebrity, who has for years exhibited
annually in London. The public is not aware that she is color blind. She painted the "Wedding Group" for a certain noble bridegroom a year or two
ago and also several public men's portraits and one of an eminent physician
fetched 500 guineas.

There is a gentleman residing at Kensington who, having years ago left
the navy through finding his advancement hopelessly barred by his color
blindness, is at present making several hundreds a year by his brush as an artist, designing most artistic and
brightly colored picture posters for advertisement hoardings.—London Answers.

Carved His Epitaph and Died.

"John Harmon died here from the
bite of a rattlesnake."

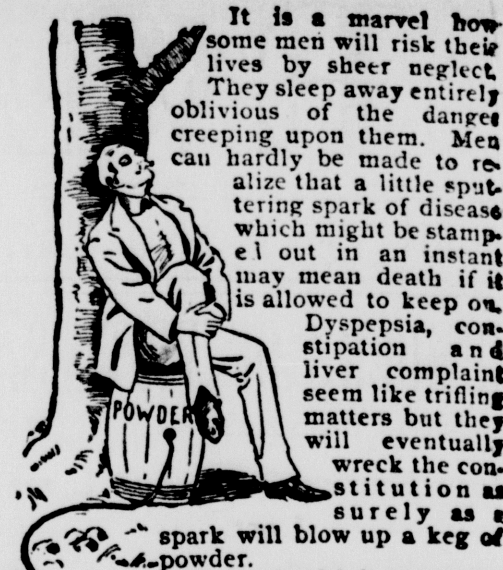

This is an inscription on a beech tree
standing on the knobs, in Monroe township, back of Jeffersonville. A date
once followed the words, but it is now
indistinct. There is a strange story connected with the inscription. An old resident relates it.

"Years ago, when that section of Indiana was little explored and when
the heavy bush was the dwelling place
of the wild turkey, deer and rattlesnake,
John Harmon started to Charlestown
to attend court. He was armed with an old fashioned rifle. A rattler bit Harmon's leg. Harmon killed the reptile.
Then he began to prepare for death. It
was he who carved the words in lighter
lines on the tree, with the request beneath, long since obliterated by the
tree's growth, to bury him on the spot.
A few days later Harmon's body was found. A grave was dug by the tree and there it can be seen today."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Kipling's Response.

The Cantab, the Cambridge university weekly, asked Mr. Rudyard Kipling to contribute to its columns. In response came the following reply:

There once was a writer who wrote
"Dear Sir—In reply to your note
of yesterday's date.
I am sorry to state
It's no good at the prices you quote."

If your health is not strong
and vigorous it is a simple
and sensible thing to write to
Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain from
him and his staff of eminent specialists,
without charge, professional advice which
will enable you to put your constitution on
a solid basis of health and strength forth-
with, before these ailments have a chance
to reduce you to a physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is acknowledged as the most wonderful medicine ever devised for those diseases which
are caused by imperfect action of the liver
and digestive organs.

Mr. F. M. Robinson, of Xenophon, Hancock

heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and torpid liver. I tried different doctors with but little result. I could scarcely eat anything—it would put me in such dreadful distress in my stomach. I had a dull aching pain in my stomach, and continual hurting behind my shoulders, bad taste in my
mouth, tongue coated brown, had faint spells
with a tired worn-out feeling. I took eleven bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and received great benefit. I am now able to work. If it had not been for this wonderful remedy I believe I would not be living to-day."

NO SOUTHSIDE MILL

Mr. Banfield Says He Knows
of No Project.

PLANT WILL STAY IN IRONDALE

The Company's Property Has Been Ab-
sorbed by the Trust, and There Will Be
No Change—Refused to Talk on the Branch Extension.

W. H. Banfield, of Irondale, passed through the city this morning going to
his home from Pittsburg where he has
been for several days attending to some
business connected with the tin plate
combination. In speaking to a reporter
he said:

"It was never the intention of the
company to erect a mill on the Virginia
side and the land in which
I am interested was purchased
for speculative purposes only.
There are no prospects at present for
erected on the other side of the river,
and if there is I don't know of it. The Irondale mill will remain where it is,
and neither the old company or the new
owners ever had any intention of moving."

When Mr. Banfield was asked if the Panhandle road would soon begin work
on the extension of the Cumberland
branch, he said that was out of his line,
and he could not give any information
on the subject.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Will the Funeral of the Late Mrs. Bulger
Take Place.

Mrs. Julia A. Bulger, who died yesterday at her home in Sixth street, was born in Plymouth, N. H., in 1815, and
her maiden name was Miss Julia A.
Worcester. When she was quite young
her parents moved to Brownsville, and
in 1835 she was married to Henry Bul-
ger, and they made their home in Brownsville until the death of Mr. Bul-
ger, which occurred in 1885. Mrs. Bul-
ger a short time afterward moved to this
city and has since resided here.

Deceased has been an invalid for a
number of years, and her death was due
to the infirmities of old age. She was
an earnest member of the Cumberland
Presbyterian church of Brownsville.
She was beloved and respected by all
who knew her and had many friends in
the city who will be pained to hear of
her death.

Seven children are left to mourn her
loss: J. W. Bulger, Akron; Miss Ada
Bulger, A. H. Bulger, this city; Mrs.
R. P. Thistlethwaite, Erie, Pa.; William F. Bulger, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs.
Alfred Myers, Toronto; L. M. Bulger,
Bellevue, Pa.

The funeral will take place tomorrow
afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late
residence in Sixth street, Dr. Clark Crawford, officiating. Interment at Riverview.

A CLEVER RUSSIAN.

He Found a Method of Beating His Persian Creditor.

In Persia, when a creditor fails to get
his money in any other way, he appears
in the debtor's house and sits down.
Then he does not move away till the delinquent pays up. He enters the debt-
or's sleeping apartments, if possible, and
has his meals brought in. A few years
ago a Persian held an unsatisfied claim
against the British government, and he
presented himself before the British
minister one day and camped out in his
private office. The minister did not see
the joke, and sent for a policeman. That
made a lot of noise and trouble, and the Russian representative in Teheran evidently learned a lesson from it, for he managed a case of the same kind much
differently.

The Persian who demanded money
from the Russian (Count Kolomeisow)
was a holy man, a dervish, and when he
sat down in the Russian's anteroom to
wait till the latter paid his disputed
claim Count Kolomeisow knew that he
could not get rid of him without much
fuss and explanation. It is against the
laws, or at least the custom, which is
just as firm, to touch a creditor who
takes this means of collecting money,
so the count could not throw him out.
He thought over the matter, and one
morning he sent for a lot of masons.
Then he ordered them to build a wall
around the dervish, who was sitting in
the middle of the room. The dervish
watched them placidly at first, but
when the wall grew and it became apparent that it would be completed soon
he jumped over it, ran away and has
not been seen since. They say that the
count is the first man in Teheran who
has beaten a creditor of this kind without recourse to the police.—New York

DEEP SEA WATER.

At One Thousand Fathoms Its Pres-
sure Is a Ton to the Square Inch.

When marine life began to command
notice, the question of the depth to
which life could extend divided scientific thought into warring camps. About 1840, it was generally believed that the
bathymetric limit was about 300 fath-
oms, and some strange ideas were current as to the physical condition of water when under a pressure such as a
depth of two miles would produce. It
was thought that skeletons of drowned
men, or even heavy cannon and the
"wedges of gold" that popular imagination places in the sea, floated at certain
levels, beneath which is water so com-
pressed as to be impenetrable. In fact,
water is almost incompressible, and the
weight of a cubic inch of it at the depth
of a mile is very little more than at the
surface, but it was assumed that no living being could survive a pressure
which at 1,000 fathoms is about a ton
to the square inch.

We ourselves live under a pressure of
about 15 pounds per inch, and are unaware of it. Indeed we sometimes
waken on a morning when the barome-
ter has risen, say, half an inch during
the night, and consequently find ourselves sustaining an increased pressure
of several tons not only without suffering, but with a positive feeling of buoyancy and good spirits. On the other hand, if the tremendous pressure under
which we live be relieved as by a surgical "cup," severe injury may follow.
Aeronauts suffer from this cause, and
marine animals dredged from great
depth often reach the surface in a most
lamentable condition, with eyes protrud-
ing and viscera distended.—Dr. C. M.
view.

Not Reassuring.

That an answer may be cheerful and
yet far from reassuring is once more
proved out of the mouth of a young Irishman.

He was acting as guide to a party of Americans who, in the course of a day's
excursion during their visit to Ireland,
were wandering over a picturesque, deserted castle.

"It seems very unsafe," said one of
the party, as they groped and stumbled
along a dark passage. "These floors are
loose, I know."

"Yes," said another timid person,
"and I wish I could see the blue sky
above me. This seems like a dungeon,
not a ruin!"

"Is it the blue sky ye'd be seein,
miss?" said the voice of the guide, some
feet in advance. "Why, may the saints
preserve ye for an innocent! It's the
roof, an' nowt else, that kapes the walls
together, miss!"—Youth's Companion.

He Could Get Them.

When he was a Harvard student, the
late Sherman Hoar became famous as a
maker of epigrams. One evening he had been indulging in his usual style of
conversation in the rooms of Professor
D., a man after his own heart, but too
apt to interlard his lectures with apparently original witticisms taken, after
the manner of Moliere, wherever he
found them. When Hoar and a fellow
student had left the academic presence,
the latter enthusiastically cried: "By Jove, Sherman, how do you manage
it? I wish I could remember all the
bright things you said just now."

"Go to D.'s lecture tomorrow and
take notes," said Hoar. "You'll get
them then."—Exchange.

THE TOBACCO HABIT.

HAVE YOU GOT IT, AND DO YOU
WANT TO LOSE IT?

A Chicago Specialist Says That a
Sure Cure For "My Lady Nicotine"
Can Be Found in the Plentiful Use
of the Humble Peanut.

However fantastic my particular method of dealing with the tobacco habit may seem on paper it will effect a cure if faithfully carried out. In the first place, be sure that your patient
really desires to break off the habit of
using tobacco. In the second place, remember that your patient will react according to the impression your manner
makes upon his mind. If you speak
lightly of your method of treating him,
he will hold that method in small esteem. Therefore, speak impressively,
and if he smiles at your modus operandi
frown him into a decent humility.

Suggestion alone is not sufficient to
hold the average tobacco user, and you
will therefore add a material medicine
in the shape of—peanuts! Yes, my friend, ludicrous as the idea seems, there
lies in the vulgar peanut a charm to sap
the power of "My Lady Nicotine" and
free the fettered slave.

In all drug habits there are two conditions to combat—physical and mental, or physiological and psychological.
I use peanuts to offset the physical crav-
ing and suggestion to calm the mind.

What is the condition of the user of
tobacco if the weed is withdrawn? It is important to understand this, because
dozen cases from the average.

The condition is one of mental un-
rest, some physical sensations and nervousness. The withdrawal of tobacco
acts as a withdrawal of a powerful
nerve tonic, because this weed, used
first as a nerve sedative, becomes by
force of usage a nerve stimulant. Let
us take the mental condition first under consideration. I do not try to put a tobacco user to sleep, because it is an un-
necessary performance, but give him
positive suggestions while he is sitting
opposite me to the following effect:

That it will be easy to break him of
the habit.

That he will not suffer, despite the fact that he has tried to break off previously, but has failed on account of
the discomfort ensuing.

That he is not a hero or a being to be pitied or sympathized with, because he
heroic qualities of endurance.

That if he follows directions he will
not suffer from nervousness or "sink-
ings" at the pit of the stomach.

That he will begin at once to gain in
weight; that his memory will be sharp-
er and more tenacious, and that his digestive organs will regain tone; that
his nerves will be as steel, his muscles
as iron and his complexion will lose the
muddy hue which mars its comeliness.

That the habit is uncleanly—in fact,
degrading—and that its gratification
entails a gross waste of money. What
right has he to literally burn his income
when his wife is compelled to wear a
gown that is out of date?

Thus, then, do I prepare the patient's
mind for the lightness of the task before him, laying special stress upon the fact that he will at no time consider
himself an object of compassion or self
pity, for if he believe himself to be performing a deed of no small heroism he
will suffer agonies, whereas if his abneg-
ation is ignored and taken as a matter
of course he will react accordingly.

Now, as to the physical symptoms,
they will be but slight if the above
preparation of the mind is properly
done and will show themselves in occasional pains about the region of the
heart, sinking at the pit of the stomach,
a lassitude, weak and accelerated pulse
and muscular twitchings. Nervousness,
jumping at a sudden noise and irrita-
bility of temper will be in evidence, but
will be greatly modified by suggestion.

Prescribe peanuts, to be eaten slowly,
constantly and continually. He must be occupied. Busy him therefore with
peanuts. He would, if left alone, think
tobacco. He must, on the contrary,
think peanuts. Has he a loathing for peanuts? All the better. He will learn
to love them for their nutritious qualities and intrinsic flavor. Does his stomach rebel on the second or third day?
Has he biliousness or colic? It is still
well, because no man when bilious desires tobacco.

Observe that you are supplying him
with material for his digestive organs to work upon, and that his jaws are not idle. There is no vacuum, and there
will be under this regimen no sinking
at the pit of the stomach. A feeling of
fullness perhaps, a plethoric condition,
a sense of satiety, but this is exactly
what we desire to bring about. Keep
the system busy and at work; keep the
mind at rest.

Ah, my friends, how true it is that
the mouse may gnaw the ropes that bind the lion! Even the plebeian peasant
may be the means of restoring harmony
to an afflicted household. I have known
this humble agent, taken according to
directions, stretch strong men upon beds
of sickness from which they rose in the course of a day or two clean of heart
and purged of the craving for tobacco.
I have known of others whose stomachs
were not upset and who went their way
rejoicing and waxed fat speedily.

I have never known of a failure if
the above directions were carried out.

The tobacco habit is not worthy to be
classed as a drug habit.—Sydney Flower, LL. D., in New York Herald.

MICA MINES OF INDIA.

The Methods of Hundreds of Years
Ago Still in Use.

The mica mines of India are in the
interior of the country and very inaccessible. The Abroker mine, it is stated,
produces the finest mica that has ever
been mined, both for lamination and
color. It has been sunk about 200 feet,
following the pitch of the vein, and all
this mica and refuse have been raised
and carried away by the natives. No
machinery of any kind except drill and
hammers is used in their mining operations.

The refuse and the mica are placed
in baskets each holding ten pounds, the
baskets being passed up from hand to
hand by women, who stand in a line on ladders. The contents of the baskets are deposited at the top, and the baskets are
returned down the ladder in the same manner as they went up, but by another
line of women. Water is taken out of the mines by means of jugs. It is supposed that this method of operation
has been carried on for many hundreds
of years, except that there is more care
to protect the miners.

After the crude mica is taken from
the mines it is first roughly trimmed
and then sorted into different grades,
according to sizes and quality. It is
then taken to the mica workers, who
split it up and scribe out the size for it
to be cut into by the shearers, the cut
pieces then being cleaned, weighed and
packed ready for shipment. The mica
is then transported to general ware-
houses in baskets on the backs of bul-
locks and in bullock carts. In this way
it is carried hundreds of miles to ship-
miles a day.

The mica can be split down to .0003
of an inch in thickness. Being both
fireproof and transparent, it is very useful for many purposes in the arts, besides being an excellent insulator.—

COLOR BLIND PAINTERS.

A London Oculist Asserts That There
Are Such Artists.

To speak of a color blind artist sounds
like joking, said a noted oculist; but,
strange as it seems, there are several
persons so affected who can nevertheless
paint extremely well. Numbers of color
blind people there are, of course, who
draw perfectly in pencil, ink and crayons, but I myself know a scene painter
attached to a provincial theater who,
though "color blind," paints all its
scenery, and has quite a local name,
not only for his "interiors" and oak
chambers, but even for landscapes.

I can tell you also of two London ladies who consulted me for color blind-
ness who paint really beautiful pictures.
One is the daughter of a late famous
artist and was taught painting by her
father. She is quite unable to distinguish red from green, but her colors are
all labeled with the names, and she
has been taught which to use for certain effects. Possibly her painting may
seem to her eyes, as it were, drawing
with a brush and "shading" with the
colors.

The other is a lady artist of some
celebrity, who has for years exhibited
annually in London. The public is not aware that she is color blind. She painted the "Wedding Group" for a
certain noble bridegroom a year or two
ago and also several public men's por-
traits and one of an eminent physician
fetched 500 guineas.

There is a gentleman residing at Kensington who, having years ago left
the navy through finding his advancement hopelessly barred by his color
blindness, is at present making several
hundreds a year by his brush as an artist, designing most artistic and
brightly colored picture posters for advertisement hoardings.—London Answers.

Carved His Epitaph and Died.

"John Harmon died here from the
bite of a rattlesnake."

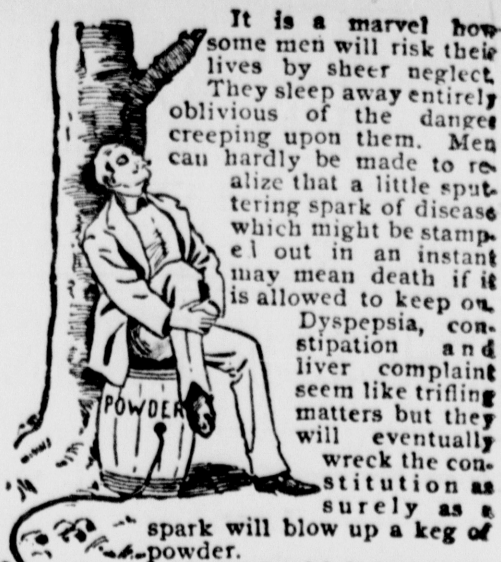

This is an inscription on a beech tree
standing on the knobs, in Monroe township, back of Jeffersonville. A date
once followed the words, but it is now
indistinct. There is a strange story connected with the inscription. An old
resident relates it.

"Years ago, when that section of Indiana was little explored and when
the heavy bush was the dwelling place
of the wild turkey, deer and rattlesnake,
John Harmon started to Charlestown
to attend court. He was armed with an old fashioned rifle. A rattler bit Harmon's leg. Harmon killed the reptile.
Then he began to prepare for death. It
was he who carved the words in lighter
lines on the tree, with the request beneath, long since obliterated by the
tree's growth, to bury him on the spot.
A few days later Harmon's body was found. A grave was dug by the tree and
there it can be seen today."—Louisville

Kipling's Response.

The Cantab, the Cambridge university weekly, asked Mr. Rudyard Kip-
ling to contribute to its columns. In response came the following reply:

There once was a writer who wrote
"Dear Sir—In reply to your note
Of yesterday's date,

It's no good at the prices you quote."

If your health is not strong
and vigorous it is a simple
and sensible thing to write to
Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain from
him and his staff of eminent specialists,
without charge, professional advice which
will enable you to put your constitution on
a solid basis of health and strength forth-
with, before these ailments have a chance
to reduce you to a physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is
acknowledged as the most wonderful medicine ever devised for those diseases which
are caused by imperfect action of the liver
and digestive organs.

Mr. F. M. Robinett, of Xenophon, Hancock
Co., Tenn., says in a letter to Dr. Pierce: "I can

WELLSVILLE.
CALLED THE ELECTION
Councilman Will Be Chosen
In the Fourth Ward

THREE WEEKS FROM YESTERDAY

Mayor Dennis Has Issued the Proclamation, and Candidates Are Now Being Discussed—Town In Darkness Last Night. All the News.

Mayor Dennis has issued a proclamation ordering a special election to be held in the Fourth ward, Dec. 20, for the purpose of filling the vacancy in council created by the resignation of Bernard Rand.

A number of candidates have been mentioned in connection with the vacancy, and it is said that others will be in the field within a very few days. It is not believed, however, that the campaign will be particularly lively.

No Light.
Our town was in darkness last night owing to an accident at the electric light plant. Yesterday morning a cylinder was blown out, and though the men worked hard it could not be repaired in time for use last night.

The News of Wellsville.
Master Mechanic Sweeley, A. Smith and J. W. Menough are in Allegheny on business for the railroad company.

Miss Ruby Sheets is on the sick list. Louis McCreary, of the shops, is unable for duty on account of grip.

Rev. H. Newton Miller is visiting friends in Pennsylvania. He will return on Saturday.

The teachers of the West End school were entertained at dinner at 5 o'clock last evening at Rev. C. L. V. McKee's residence.

Joseph Wehmer, machinist at the railroad shops, has accepted a similar position in Allegheny and will move his family there.

Miss Mary Bright is in Pittsburg today on business.

Clarence Stahl has accepted a position in the office of the rolling mill. He assumed his new duties today.

John Nixon, Cass Orr and three other bricklayers went out to Hudson today where they will lay a brick platform at the station similar to the one at our upper depot.

Fireman E. J. Aseby caught an owl at Bayard on Thanksgiving and kept it until last evening. The bird carried such a forlorn aspect that it touched the heart of its captor, and it was set at liberty.

There was a meeting of the Young Men's Jolly Athletic association held last evening at the residence of J. W. Myers on Seventh street.

The meetings of the M. E. quarterly conference are now in progress at the First M E church. Dr. H. S. Jackson, presiding elder, is present. Thursday evening a sermon from Dr. Jackson will be followed by a grand conference session.

MANILA STREET SCENES.

Barefooted Milkmen and Human Drays Which Move Planes.

Manila cannot be said to be up with the rest of the world as regards milk carts and express wagons. True, a milk service is there, and it is no trouble for a family to have their household furniture moved, but no horses figure in the operation. The milkman carries his stock in trade, generally the milk of the water buffalo, in a jar hung on a stick over his shoulder. On the other end of the stick is the pitcher with which to dole the milk out to his customers. When passing from one house to the other the milkman, barefooted and barelegged, assumes a regular dog trot and reminds one of the small boy playing stick horse, except that the stick is over his shoulder.

The "drays" of the city are mostly Chinese. Whether it is a grand piano or an office safe that is to be moved, the man who has the placing of the job falls in one or a dozen of these powerfully built and scantily clad fellows, who always seem to be going some place, either with a load on their shoulders or carrying a smooth bamboo pole with some bits of rope or bamboo slings upon it. When the burden is divisible, the Chinaman puts half on each end of the pole and placing his shoulder, which seems to be of pure gristle, in the center of the pole, works his legs until the load arrives at its consignment place. When the burden is cumbersome, it is slung on the center of the pole and one man shoulders each end. The pace assumed reminds one of the person who has swung on to a too heavy load and has resolved to cover as much ground as possible with it before he drops it. The Manila express wagon never drops his load. He even changes shoulders as he glides along. These fellows are perfect specimens of manhood, and never fail to elicit admiration from the American soldier boys as they hustle past, shoulders bared and glistening in the hot sun, barefooted and clad in short pyjamas or breechclout. It is safe to say each one can carry a burden several times his own weight. The muscles in their backs are wonderfully developed, and as to their legs—they would make wonderful bicycle propellers.—Cor. Rocky Mountain News.

QUEEN AMONG SAVAGES.

Two White Women in New Zealand Refuse to Return to Civilization.

A party of explorers in New Zealand say that while traveling the wilds of the colony, where men seldom penetrate and where the natives know no law but that of their own making, they discovered two white women about 40 years old, clothed, like savage Maoris, in extremely scanty attire. They spent a week endeavoring to induce the women to return, but they had become so accustomed to life among savages that they refused the aid of the explorers. They said they had been stolen when young women, had taken Maori husbands and had grown to like their untrammelled existence and were fond of their black husbands.

They were fairly worshiped by the natives and said they would not exchange their lot for that of society belles in an Australian city. They were once English college girls of good families. They refused to give their maiden names, but were known among their adopted people as the Chief's White Plume and Sunshine on Rippling Water.—New York Sun.

 All Union papers of East Liverpool are

 the city by the printing of the above

Has any Democrat ever given any
 good reason why the Philippines should
 not come under the protection of the Stars and Stripes?

LITTLE surprise will be expressed at the announcement of Mr. Banfield that he knows of no tin mill project for the Virginia side. Capitalists are not now putting their money in tin. The supply
 seems to have reached the demand.

THE matter of paying private soldiers
 more than $13 a month is receiving consideration from men high in the government. Whether they will gauge the valor and efficiency of the American soldier at that amount remains to be seen.

Now that East Liverpool will
 take up the tramp nuisance and deal
 with it as some other towns have done
 something interesting can be expected.
 East Liverpool is known far and
 wide among the fraternity as an open
 town so far as tramps are concerned,
 and the fraternity never miss an opportunity to avail themselves of the

ANDREW CARNEGIE has done some
 things which have tended to raise him
 above the heads of ordinary humanity,
 but he has never done anything to warrant the presumptuous utterances he seems so anxious to make since he announced his policy of fighting President
 McKinley. However, if he can find
 amusement in a cause so unwarranted,
 Andrew should not be interrupted, for he
 certainly can do the President no harm.

A MORMON IN CONGRESS.

The election to congress of B. H.
 Roberts, a prominent polygamist of the church of Latter Day Saints, will doubtless cause more commotion than a similar event in many years, as it shows the power of the Mormon priesthood in politics.

Roberts is perhaps the best example
 of Mormon influence seen in public life
 during late years. When the territory
 was admitted to statehood he manfully
 stood by the promise that church and politics should not go hand in hand. He was deprived of his high position in the church, but continued his fight through
 a Salt Lake newspaper. The elders,
 who, it seems, had never seriously intended to obey the law or keep their promises regarding polygamy, had been
 regaining their influence and preparing
 to control every political power in Utah.
 They needed Roberts and he was summoned before the high church officials
 who wept and prayed with him for weeks. At length he saw the "error"
 of his way, and renounced his former position. For this he was rewarded
 with the election to congress, the church
 using every means at its command to bring about the desired result.

The seat in congress will be contested
 by the Populist candidate, and the Mormon church will fight hard to keep him
 from Washington. Then the country will know what a descendant of Brigham
 Young has already said, "Mormonism
 has thrown down the gauntlet to the nation."

WAS QUICKLY SETTLED

Albert Dinerstein Was Not Tried by Squire Hill

BECAUSE OF GREEN'S LOST MONEY

The Parties Held a Conference After All
 the Witnesses Had Assembled, and Decided to Keep It Out of Court—Terms of
 the Settlement.

The case of Philip J. Green against Albert Dinerstein, to have been heard
 yesterday afternoon in the court of Squire Hill, was settled out of court and
 the charge withdrawn.

Green lost a pocketbook a short time
 ago, and heard that Dinerstein had found
 it and confiscated the money to his own
 use. Dinerstein was arrested by Constable Miller, plead not guilty and gave bail in the sum of $150 for his appearance at court.

Yesterday afternoon at the time set
 for the trial a number of witnesses were present, but Mr. Dinerstein and his attorney and Mr. Green retired to another part of the room and talked the
 matter over, and the charge was withdrawn and the witnesses dismissed.

It is understood that the case was settled by Dinerstein paying Green $50
 and giving his note for the balance of the $96. He also paid the costs in the case.

COMING HOME FROM MANILA.

His Papers Finally Reached the Right
 Source.

Just before the writer left Manila,
 Frank B. Hargrave, Quartermaster Mc-
 Cormick's clerk in the Tenth Pennsylvania Infantry, received a cable telegram
 from the United States, informing him
 that his mother had been stricken with apoplexy and would probably die. Har-grave made application for a furlough.
 Col. A. L. Hawkins did everything in his power to win a favorable response
 from division headquarters, but all in vain, as the imperative order from corps
 headquarters, was that no furloughs
 would be granted and no resignations
 accepted until further orders. Hargrave
 was the nominee of the Republican party for the berth of legislator, and he has since been elected. He told his sad

A MORMON IN CONGRESS.

The election to congress of B. H.
 Roberts, a prominent polygamist of the church of Latter Day Saints, will doubt-
 less cause more commotion than a similar event in many years, as it shows the
 power of the Mormon priesthood in
 politics.

Roberts is perhaps the best example
 of Mormon influence seen in public life
 during late years. When the territory
 was admitted to statehood he manfully
 stood by the promise that church and
 politics should not go hand in hand. He
 was deprived of his high position in the
 church, but continued his fight through
 a Salt Lake newspaper. The elders,
 who, it seems, had never seriously intended to obey the law or keep their
 promises regarding polygamy, had been
 regaining their influence and preparing
 to control every political power in Utah.
 They needed Roberts and he was sum-
 moned before the high church officials
 who wept and prayed with him for
 weeks. At length he saw the "error"
 of his way, and renounced his former
 position. For this he was rewarded
 with the election to congress, the church
 using every means at its command to
 bring about the desired result.

The seat in congress will be contested
 by the Populist candidate, and the Mormon church will fight hard to keep him
 from Washington. Then the country will
 know what a descendant of Brigham
 Young has already said, "Mormonism
 has thrown down the gauntlet to the
 nation."

WAS QUICKLY SETTLED

Albert Dinerstein Was Not Tried by Squire Hill

BECAUSE OF GREEN'S LOST MONEY

The Parties Held a Conference After All
 the Witnesses Had Assembled, and Decided to Keep It Out of Court—Terms of
 the Settlement.

The case of Philip J. Green against Albert Dinerstein, to have been heard
 yesterday afternoon in the court of Squire Hill, was settled out of court and
 the charge withdrawn.

Green lost a pocketbook a short time
 ago, and heard that Dinerstein had found
 it and confiscated the money to his own
 use. Dinerstein was arrested by Constable Miller, plead not guilty and gave
 bail in the sum of $150 for his appearance at court.

Yesterday afternoon at the time set
 for the trial a number of witnesses were present, but Mr. Dinerstein and his attorney and Mr. Green retired to another part of the room and talked the
 matter over, and the charge was withdrawn and the witnesses dismissed.

It is understood that the case was
 settled by Dinerstein paying Green $50
 and giving his note for the balance of
 the $96. He also paid the costs in the case.

McKINNON IS A WINNER

In His Suit Against G.B. Harvey and E. M. Knowles.

TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT

Were Such, According to the Decision of Judge Smith, as to Give Him Advantage and They Must Pay--News Gathered About the Courthouse.

LISBON, Nov. 30 —[Special]—In the case of M. R. McKinnon against George B. Harvey and Edwin M. Knowles, Judge Smith rendered a decision today. The defendants purchased land in East Liverpool from the plaintiff on a land contract with a clause reading as follows: "If the said parties of the second part (the defendants) shall fail to make any of the payments, either of principal, interest or taxes, then this contract shall be forfeited or the parties of the second part, and the party of the first part may retain in his hands the amount paid and possess all improvements on land." The defendants failed in making certain payments and contended their failure to pay broke the contract, and the plaintiff was bound to take back the land.

The court held that the defendants were liable under the contract; that it was discretionary with the plaintiff whether he should take advantage of the default of the defendants. They were ordered to pay the amount claimed by McKinnon, $1,000. While giving his decision, Judge Smith said the contract was written unskillfully or very skillfully.

BIG BOND

COUNCIL AFTER BUMS

Mr. Peach Called Attention to the Ordinance.

MAYOR BOUGH TO ENFORCE IT

A Motion Was Passed Calling Upon Him to Arrest All Tramps as Vagrants and Put Them to Work on the Streets Until Fines and Costs Are Paid.

Council met last evening in special session.

The contract for paving Jethro street, from Division street to the West End bridge, was awarded to Harrison Rinehart at 94 cents per square yard. He was the only bidder, and was given 30 days in which to complete the contract, and a penalty of $5 per day was attached.

Mr. Peach called attention to the number of tramps that infest the city, and said that it had become so that parties living in the suburbs were not safe. He stated that the city had justly earned a reputation for being the most lenient in the state in regard to tramps, and that they came here in large numbers in the fall and many of them remained all winter. The reason for this was they were treated too well by the citizens and he thought it was time the practice was broken up.

A motion was unanimously passed requesting Mayor Bough to enforce the vagrant law, and the tramps will be put to work on the streets until their fines and costs are paid. Council, if necessary, will employ a man to look after them and see that they do the work.

FORFEITED HIS BOND

John Snodgrass Did Not Appear at City Hall

TO ANSWER TO THE CHARGE

Placed Against Him Yesterday of Assault With Intent to Rob--The Witnesses Were Paid and the Police Are Looking For Him.

A charge of assault with intent to rob has been placed against John Snodgrass, the young man who was arrested Saturday night by Officer Woods. It was the intention of the mayor yesterday after consulting with other parties to increase his bond of $50, but that was not done at a late hour this morning. Snodgrass, with his wife, was at city hall for almost two hours yesterday afternoon, but did not see the mayor who was out at that time.

Snodgrass failed to appear at city hall this afternoon at the time set for his hearing, and forfeited his bond of $50. A diligent search for him failed to reveal his whereabouts, and it is thought he has left for other parts.

The witnesses present were William Louthan, Robert Faulkner, Mrs. Alice J. Hunt, George Freeman and Edward McHenry. They were paid their fees and permitted to go.

The police will keep on the lookout for Snodgrass, and he will be arrested should he return to the city.

Last evening a peculiar incident occurred at city hall.

About 9 o'clock a colored man, working in a saloon opposite city hall, came in the mayor's office and said an unknown man had been robbed of a watch and the party who took it was now in the saloon. Officer Mahony, who was there, responded to the call, and when he came back he had a man named Wilson in custody.

"What shall I do with him?" inquired the officer of an individual who was there.

"Lock him up until the mayor or Chief Johnson comes" was the reply.

Wilson was put in jail and at a late hour no charge except suspicion was against him.

Wilson went in the saloon about half an hour previous to the occurrence and noticed a man lying on the floor in a stupor. He remarked that he should be given some air, and he, with another man, carried him to a tent used as a stable in the yard. He came back to the bar, and shortly afterward the man came in and said his watch was missing. He then went out and nothing has been seen of him since.

McKINNON IS A WINNER

In His Suit Against G.B. Harvey and E. M. Knowles.

TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT

Were Such, According to the Decision of Judge Smith, as to Give Him Advantage and They Must Pay--News Gathered About the Courthouse.

LISBON, Nov. 30 —[Special]—In the case of M. R. McKinnon against George B. Harvey and Edwin M. Knowles, Judge Smith rendered a decision today. The defendants purchased land in East Liverpool from the plaintiff on a land contract with a clause reading as follows: "If the said parties of the second part (the defendants) shall fail to make any of the payments, either of principal, interest or taxes, then this contract shall be forfeited or the parties of the second part, and the party of the first part may retain in his hands the amount paid and possess all improvements on land." The defendants failed in making certain payments and contended their failure to pay broke the contract, and the plaintiff was bound to take back the land.

The court held that the defendants were liable under the contract; that it was discretionary with the plaintiff whether he should take advantage of the default of the defendants. They were ordered to pay the amount claimed by McKinnon, $1,000. While giving his decision, Judge Smith said the contract was written unskillfully or very skillfully.

BIG BOND

Is Required of the Administrator of George Nace's Estate.

LISBON, Nov. 30 —[Special]—The will of George F. Nace has been admitted to probate, and in accordance with his expressed desire S. J. Firestone was appointed executor, with a bond of $75,000. David Gailey, W. M. Hostetter and R. Arter have been appointed appraisers.

H. W. Benty has been appointed administrator of the estate of Regina Benty, bond $200. The appraisers are John Kegel, S. S. Sherry and C. McQuillen.

W. Payne has sold to E. H. and A. B. Wells, part of lot 2, Wellsville, $10; Kate Gibbs to J. R. Dobbins, lots 317-18, Columbiana, $2,300; W. H. McMillan to Columbiana county, land in Middleton township, $60; W. A. Hill to J. C. Vanfossen, 17.56 acres in Center township, $1,000.

The case of John Brown against Jack Allison for $7, claimed due for wages, was commenced last evening in the court of Squire Hill, but had not proceeded very far when it was discovered that some necessary witnesses were absent, and the case was continued until this evening.

Trouble With a Sewer.

Workmen are experiencing a great deal of trouble in cleaning the West Market street sewer, and they have been at the work three days. There is not sufficient fall in the sewer. It causes more trouble than all the other sewers in the city.

Dr. Crawford Will Speak.

Next Sunday afternoon an open meeting will be held at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms instead of the usual men's meeting. It will be addressed by Dr. Clark Crawford, pastor of the First M. E. church.

COUNCIL AFTER BUMS

Mr. Peach Called Attention to the Ordinance.

MAYOR BOUGH TO ENFORCE IT

A Motion Was Passed Calling Upon Him to Arrest All Tramps as Vagrants and Put Them to Work on the Streets Until Fines and Costs Are Paid.

Council met last evening in special session.

The contract for paving Jethro street, from Division street to the West End bridge, was awarded to Harrison Rinehart at 94 cents per square yard. He was the only bidder, and was given 30 days in which to complete the contract, and a penalty of $5 per day was attached.

Mr. Peach called attention to the number of tramps that infest the city, and said that it had become so that parties living in the suburbs were not safe. He stated that the city had justly earned a reputation for being the most lenient in the state in regard to tramps, and that they came here in large numbers in the fall and many of them remained all winter. The reason for this was they were treated too well by the citizens and he thought it was time the practice was broken up.

A motion was unanimously passed requesting Mayor Bough to enforce the vagrant law, and the tramps will be put to work on the streets until their fines and costs are paid. Council, if necessary, will employ a man to look after them and see that they do the work.

Finest on the River.

The building of the City of Pittsburgh, the new side wheel steamer which will run in the Pittsburgh and New Orleans trade, is progressing rapidly at Marietta. It will leave Pittsburgh February 4th on its first trip south. Captains Scott and Phillips have declared they will have the finest boat on the Ohio and if reports be true they are fulfilling their promise.

FORFEITED HIS BOND

John Snodgrass Did Not Appear at City Hall

TO ANSWER TO THE CHARGE

Placed Against Him Yesterday of Assault With Intent to Rob--The Witnesses Were Paid and the Police Are Looking For Him.

A charge of assault with intent to rob has been placed against John Snodgrass, the young man who was arrested Saturday night by Officer Woods. It was the intention of the mayor yesterday after consulting with other parties to increase his bond of $50, but that was not done at a late hour this morning Snodgrass, with his wife, was at city hall for almost two hours yesterday afternoon, but did not see the mayor who was out at that time.

Snodgrass failed to appear at city hall this afternoon at the time set for his hearing, and forfeited his bond of $50. A diligent search for him failed to reveal his whereabouts, and it is thought he has left for other parts.

The witnesses present were William Louthan, Robert Faulkner, Mrs. Alice J. Hunt, George Freeman and Edward McHenry. They were paid their fees and permitted to go.

The police will keep on the lookout for Snodgrass, and he will be arrested should he return to the city.

Last evening a peculiar incident occurred at city hall.

About 9 o'clock a colored man, working in a saloon opposite city hall, came in the mayor's office and said an unknown man had been robbed of a watch and the party who took it was now in the saloon. Officer Mahony, who was there, responded to the call, and when he came back he had a man named Wilson in custody.

"What shall I do with him?" inquired the officer of an individual who was there.

"Lock him up until the mayor or Chief Johnson comes" was the reply.

Wilson was put in jail and at a late hour no charge except suspicion was against him.

Wilson went in the saloon about half an hour previous to the occurrence and noticed a man lying on the floor in a stupor. He remarked that he should be given some air, and he, with another man, carried him to a tent used as a stable in the yard. He came back to the bar, and shortly afterward the man came in and said his watch was missing. He then went out and nothing has been seen of him since.

THE S. G. HARD CO.

CAPT. CHARLTON'S TALE

He Says That Officers of the Eighth Ohio

DID ASK HARD TO RESIGN

Colonel Dick's Name Was Not Mentioned, but Adjutant Maynes and Quartermaster Kuhns Are Included in the List—Statement From Bucyrus.

So much has been said concerning the troubles in the Eighth Ohio and an alleged round robin prepared for presentation to Colonel Hard that the following from the Bucyrus Forum is interesting to soldiers and citizens alike. It is the statement of Captain Charlton, commanding A company:

"The fact of the matter is that there was never a petition of any kind in writing, from the officers or men of the Eighth. The dissatisfaction with Colonel Hard's administration dates back to the beginning of service as U. S. volunteers, and had grown to such an extent, that the men demanded their discharges from the O. N. G. If Colonel Hard was going to remain, they were not. The officers, desiring to maintain the regiment, called a meeting and discussed the situation. It was unanimously decided that it was to the best interests of the regiment that Colonel Hard, together with his adjutant, Captain Maynes, and Quartermaster Kuhns retire for the O. N. G. service. According to the officers' wishes Major Chas. Weybrecht was selected to wait upon the colonel and inform him of the situation in the regiment.

"Colonel's Dick's name was not mentioned in connection with Colonel Hard's as there is no complaint of any kind against the former. He is one of the best officers in the regiment and will be elected colonel when Colonel Hard retires. Colonel Dick was one of the most faithful workers with the sick in Cuba and at Montauk Point. His ability was recognized by General Shafter when he selected him to come north and make an appeal to the president to get our army out of Cuba.

"The reasons of the officers and men for Colonel Hard's retirement are many and they are not the outgrowth of ambitious officers desiring promotion; in fact, promotions were not talked of, as it has always been the custom in our regiment to promote in order of rank. In the event Colonel Hard retires the colonelcy would fall to Colonel Dick and the senior major, Edward Vollrath. This would promote Captain Critchfield to a majorship.

M. A. CHARLTON,
Captain Company A."

LEWIS MAY LOSE

Because He Has Been Dabbling Too Freely In Politics.

The political man of the Columbus Journal writes the following of interest to union men:

"It is understood that Tom L. Lewis, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, will have considerable opposition to his re-election at the meeting of that body to be held in Zanesville on the 6th of December. It is charged that Mr. Lewis has been paying too much attention to politics, and that his activity in that line has injured his influence as president of the organization."

On the River.

Another rise is looked for on the Ohio before many days. Rain is predicted, and the present fall in the river may be checked by tomorrow afternoon.

Most of the towboats which went out on the last rise have returned to the Pittsburgh harbor, but those that went through to New Orleans will not get back until Christmas.

The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 53 feet, only a slight fall since yesterday.

The Queen City and Avalon will be down tonight, and the Ben Hur is due up late tonight.

Unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft.

Conspicuous among the brilliant and beautiful women of her time was the lovely and every way unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin, the first agitator of the question of "woman's rights." No woman, with the exception of Mme. de Staël, made so great an impression on the public mind. Her new and startling doctrines were seized with an avidity scarcely credible at this day, and her famous book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Women," was the theme of the most universal praise and abuse.

Thomas Paine, the author of "The Rights of Man," was one of her familiar acquaintances, but their intercourse was an argument, their views neither on this subject nor any other coinciding. In these arguments Paine either lost his temper or became sulky, and the woman champion won an easy victory.

Until her marriage with Mr. Godwin she was the friend of Mrs. Siddons, but she, with the majority of her admirers, declined to sanction this union, for she had married some years before an American called Imlay, to whom she had been a most devoted wife. The man, however, took advantage of the fact that the marriage was only a civil one, performed in Paris, and deserted her. She then married Mr. Godwin, but this act placed her in a position no charity could explain away. Death, however, soon covered her faults with a pitiful oblivion. She left an infant daughter a few hours old, who afterward became the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley.—Exchange.

Excessive Precaution.

A southwest Georgia couple going to be married, the prospective husband said:

"Molly, the last time I was married I lost the ring 'fore I got to the parson's. But I'm shore of it this time."

"What is it, John?" she asked.

"I've got it in my mouth," he said.

"I'm shore of it now."

But when they stood before the preacher the latter asked:

"Where is the ring?"

The groom gulped—choked—stuttered, and finally exclaimed in despair:

"Fore de Lord, I done swallowed it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Feeder.

Bandin—Killumkwick, the reading editor of The Asterisk, is a busy fellow. I saw him at the office today with a wastebasket beside him filled to the brim.

Tetlow—Yes, confound him! But I'll bet I furnished the most of the material. He couldn't fill the basket if he didn't have the stuff to fill it, could he?—Boston Transcript.

Willful Blindness.

As we look through a telescope and obtain a glimpse of the wonders it reveals or as we study the results which have been attained by experts in its use the mind is naturally impressed with the grandeur and power of the Creator of the heavenly bodies. When we learn something of their movements through space, movements so absolutely accurate that their phases and positions can be foretold with perfect certainty long centuries in advance, defying competition by the most perfect instruments of human devising, it is impossible with any show of reason to deny the controlling presence of an infinite mind.—Episcopal Recorder.

After Long Years.

After long years work is visible. In agriculture you cannot see the growth. Pass that country two months after and there is a difference. We acquire firmness and experience incessantly. Every action, every word, every meal, is part of our trial and our discipline. We are assuredly ripening or else blighting. We are not conscious of those changes which go on quietly and gradually in the soul. We only count the shocks in our journey. Ambitions die, grace grows, as life goes on.—Frederick W. Robertson.

Up to the Light.

Hold your dull life up to the light and see how it will be transfigured. Life is not meant to be a path of ease, but steep and rugged, and it is only through self denial, discouragement, discipline and trial that you may attain the higher life. Believe me, you can no more develop the spiritual powers without use and exercise than you can the physical.—"Light on the Hidden Way."

No Other Refuge.

You will never find rest except in God. There is no refuge but in Him. Oh, what rest and composure there are in Him! It is more than sleep, more than calm, more than quiet; deeper than the dead stillness of the noiseless sea in its utmost depths, where it is undisturbed by the slightest ripple.—Episcopal Recorder.

My Portion.

To count no cost in time or will.
To simply try my place to fill.
To do because the act is right.
To live as living in His sight.
To try each day His will to know.
To tread the way His will may show.
To regulate each plan I make.
Each hope I build or hope I break.
To please the heart which pleases me
Through daily tireless ministry.
To live for Him who gave me life.
To strive for Him who suffered strife
And sacrifice through death for me.
Let this my joy, my portion be.
—George K. King.

A CITY NIGHT.

Come, let us forth and wander the rich, the murmuring night.
The sky blue dusk of summer trembles above the street.
On either side uprising glimmer houses pale,
But me the turbulent bubble and voice of crowds delight.
For me the wheels make music, the mingled cries are sweet.
Motion and laughter call; we hear, we will not fail.

For see, in secret vista, with soft, retiring stars,
With clustered suns, that stare upon the throng below.
With pendant dazzling moons, that cast a noontide white.
The full streets beckon. Come, for toil has burst his bars.
And idle eyes rejoice, and feet unhasting go.
Oh, let us out and wander the gay and golden night.
—Lawrence Binyon in New York Tribune.

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

What Can Flit Through a Man's Brain in One Minute.

In proof of this Dr. Sholz tells the following story from his experience: "After excessive bodily fatigue and a day of mental strain of a not disagreeable kind I betook myself to bed after I had wound my watch and placed it on the night table. Then I lay down beside a burning lamp. Soon I found myself on the high sea on board a well known ship. I was again young and stood on the lookout. I heard the roar of water, and golden clouds floated around me. How long I stood so I did not know, but it seemed a very long time.

"Then the scene changed. I was in the country, and my long lost parents came to greet me. They sent me to church, where the loud organ sounded. I was delighted, but at the same time wondered to see my wife and children there. The priest mounted the pulpit and preached, but I could not understand what he said for the sound of the organ, which continued to play. I took my son by the hand, and with him ascended the church tower, but again the scene changed. Instead of being near my son I stood near an early known but long dead officer. I ought to explain that I was an army surgeon during the maneuvers. I was wondering why the major should look so young, when quite close to my ears a cannon sounded.

"Terrified, I was hurrying off, when I woke up and noticed that the supposed cannon shot had its cause in the opening of the bedroom door, through some one entering. It was as if I had lived through an eternity in my dream, but when I looked at my watch I saw that since I had fallen asleep not more than one minute had elapsed—a much shorter time than it takes to relate the occurrence."—St. Louis Republic.

The Ghost in "Hamlet."

Not many years ago at the Queen's theater, Dublin, during one of the late T. C. King's engagements, "Hamlet" was being played to a densely crowded house. The actor portraying the part of the Ghost solaced himself during his long wait from the first to the third act by perusing the evening paper, using his spectacles in so doing. Being interested in some article (probably the "weights" for an important handicap), he delayed leaving the greenroom until the moment of hearing his cue, when, hastily snatching up his truncheon, he rushed upon the stage without his beard of "sable silvered" or removing his spectacles.

A titter greeted his appearance, but still the solemnity of the darkened stage and the fine acting of King as Hamlet prevented any great outburst until the Queen, replying to Hamlet's question, "Do you see nothing there?" answered, "Nothing at all. Yet all that I see," when a voice from aloft exclaimed, "Lend her your specs, old boy," followed by another: "Hould your row. Sure he's put them on to see to shave himself."—Cornhill Magazine.

A Lawyer's Retort.

The greater number of cases are tried before judges without juries, and the occupants of the bench are accustomed to resent an eloquent appeal as something in the nature of an insult to their mental powers.

"Do you think to soften my heart," sarcastically asked a well known chancery judge when a member of the equity bar, making a rare attempt at rhetoric, drew a pathetic picture of his client's wrongs.

"My lord," replied the counsel, who who at once recognized the failure of his appeal, but was quick to find success in his retort, "I know it is impossible."—London Globe.

He Wasn't a Gormand.

That wary old fellow, Baulie Macduff, was enticed into a friend's house the other night, and his host managed to win 50 shillings from him at "nap." What is more remarkable, when the baulie had parted with his last shilling he rose, full of wrath.

"Won't you stay to supper?" pressed his host. "We have a fine bit of ham waiting."

"No, not I. Dae ye think I eat 50 shillings' worth of ham?"—London Answers.

A Trifling Change.

"I guess I'm willing to go," said the

farmer, when they told him his hours would be but few. "It is just a change from havin' my nose to the grindstone to havin' it to the tombstone."—Indianapolis Journal.

Be Still and Know That I Am God.

God takes no pleasure in pain or sorrow, but He will impose both if thereby He may bring us to love Him or make us more like Himself. At such a time it is selfish, unbelieving, to complain and murmur—very wicked to find fault with God. There are medicines which, taken with wisdom and in moderation, baffle disease and restore health; but abused, they weaken and destroy. So with sickness and sorrow, as we please to use them. To some they are what God means them for all, a savor of life unto life; to others, a savor of death unto death. At such a time it is only wise to be very considerate, very humble, very submissive.—Lutheran Observer.

No Sure Sign.

Prominence in the church is no sure sign of personal piety and certain safety. Christ denominated the heads of the ecclesiastical departments of His day as a "generation of vipers," whose warning to flee from the wrath to come was as daring, and their heeding that warning was as astonishing as its worthlessness would be proved unless they "brought forth fruits meet for repentance." Hypocrisy will save no man because he happens to be the head of some ecclesiastical department.—Church Standard.

No Reason.

Because you are not of the most impious class of transgressors is no sufficient reason to despise others nor to boast before God how good you are, so that your prayer does not need to ask for the Divine mercy. Some have prayed for grace just because they have been so dreadfully wicked. Others in this age rather boast of their extra degree of sinfulness, thinking to make them apparently more fit for redemption.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Bagpipe Music.

A Glasgow paper thus analyzes the music of the bagpipe: "Big flies on window, 72 per cent; cats on midnight tiles, 11½ per cent; voices of infant puppies, 6 per cent; grunting hungry pigs in the morning, 5½ per cent; steam whistles, 8 per cent; chant of cricket, 2 per cent."

CAPT. CHARLTON'S TALE

He Says That Officers of the Eighth Ohio

DID ASK HARD TO RESIGN

Colonel Dick's Name Was Not Mentioned, but Adjutant Maynes and Quartermaster Kuhns Are Included in the List—Statement From Bucyrus.

So much has been said concerning the troubles in the Eighth Ohio and an alleged round robin prepared for presentation to Colonel Hard that the following from the Bucyrus Forum is interesting to soldiers and citizens alike. It is the statement of Captain Charlton, commanding a company:

"The fact of the matter is that there was never a petition of any kind in writing, from the officers or men of the Eighth. The dissatisfaction with Colonel Hard's administration dates back to the beginning of service as U. S. volunteers, and had grown to such an extent, that the men demanded their discharges from the O. N. G. If Colonel Hard was going to remain, they were not. The officers, desiring to maintain the regiment, called a meeting and discussed the situation. It was unanimously decided that it was to the best interests of the regiment that Colonel Hard, together with his adjutant, Captain Maynes, and Quartermaster Kuhns retire for the O. N. G. service. According to the officers' wishes Major Chas. Weybrecht was selected to wait upon the colonel and inform him of the situation in the regiment.

"Colonel's Dick's name was not mentioned in connection with Colonel Hard's as there is no complaint of any kind against the former. He is one of the best officers in the regiment and will be elected colonel when Colonel Hard retires. Colonel Dick was one of the most faithful workers with the sick in Cuba and at Montauk Point. His ability was recognized by General Shafter when he selected him to come north and make an appeal to the president to get our army out of Cuba.

"The reasons of the officers and men for Colonel Hard's retirement are many and they are not the outgrowth of ambitious officers desiring promotion; in fact, promotions were not talked of, as it has always been the custom in our regiment to promote in order of rank. In the event Colonel Hard retires the colonelcy would fall to Colonel Dick and the senior major, Edward Vollrath, would be elected lieutenant colonel. This would promote Captain Critchfield to a majorship.

M. A. CHARLTON,
Captain Company A."

LEWIS MAY LOSE

Because He Has Been Dabbling Too Freely In Politics.

The political man of the Columbus Journal writes the following of interest to union men:

"It is understood that Tom L. Lewis, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, will have considerable opposition to his re-election at the meeting of that body to be held in Zanesville on the 6th of December. It is charged that Mr. Lewis has been paying too much attention to politics, and that his activity in that line has injured his influence as president of the organization."

On the River.

Another rise is looked for on the Ohio before many days. Rain is predicted, and the present fall in the river may be checked by tomorrow afternoon.

Most of the towboats which went out on the last rise have returned to the Pittsburgh harbor, but those that went through to New Orleans will not get back until Christmas.

The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 5 3 feet, only a slight fall since yesterday.

The Queen City and Avalon will be down tonight, and the Ben Hur is due up late tonight.

Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania lines went into effect Sunday, Nov. 20th. Under the new schedule the time of trains at East Liverpool, O., is as follows: Depart for the west at 12:30 a. m., 7:17 a. m., 9:05 a. m., 2:49 p. m., 6:14 p. m. Depart for the east at 4:57 a. m., 6:57 a. m., 11:15 a. m., 3:08 p. m., 7 p. m.

Unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft.

Conspicuous among the brilliant and beautiful women of her time was the lovely and every way unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin, the first agitator of the question of "woman's rights." No woman, with the exception of Mme. de Staël, made so great an impression on the public mind. Her new and startling doctrines were seized with an avidity scarcely credible at this day, and her famous book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Women," was the theme of the most universal praise and abuse.

Thomas Paine, the author of "The Rights of Man," was one of her familiar acquaintances, but their intercourse was an argument, their views neither on this subject nor any other coinciding. In these arguments Paine either lost his temper or became sulky, and the woman champion won an easy victory.

Until her marriage with Mr. Godwin she was the friend of Mrs. Siddons, but she, with the majority of her admirers, declined to sanction this union, for she had married some years before an American called Imlay, to whom she had been a most devoted wife. The man, however, took advantage of the fact that the marriage was only a civil one, performed in Paris, and deserted her. She then married Mr. Godwin, but this act placed her in a position no charity could explain away. Death, however, soon covered her faults with a pitiful oblivion. She left an infant daughter a few hours old, who afterward became the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley.—Exchange.

Excessive Precaution.

A southwest Georgia couple going to be married, the prospective husband said:

"Molly, the last time I was married I lost the ring for I got to the parson's. But I'm shore of it this time."

"Whar is it, John?" she asked.

"I've got it in my mouth," he said.

"I'm shore of it now."

But when they stood before the preacher the latter asked:

"Where is the ring?"

The groom gulped—choked—stuttered, and finally exclaimed in despair:

"Fore de Lord, I done swallowed it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Feeder.

Bandin—Killumwick, the reading editor of The Asterisk, is a busy fellow. I saw him at the office today with a wastebasket beside him filled to the brim.

Tetlow—Yes, confound him! But I'll bet I furnished the most of the material. He couldn't fill the basket if he didn't have the stuff to fill it, could he?—Boston Transcript.

Willful Blindness.

As we look through a telescope and obtain a glimpse of the wonders it reveals or as we study the results which have been attained by experts in its use the mind is naturally impressed with the grandeur and power of the Creator of the heavenly bodies. When we learn something of their movements through space, movements so absolutely accurate that their phases and positions can be foretold with perfect certainty long centuries in advance, defying competition by the most perfect instruments of human devising, it is impossible with any show of reason to deny the controlling presence of an infinite mind.—Episcopal Recorder.

After Long Years.

After long years work is visible. In agriculture you cannot see the growth. Pass that country two months after and there is a difference. We acquire firmness and experience incessantly. Every action, every word, every meal, is part of our trial and our discipline. We are assuredly ripening or else blighting. We are not conscious of those changes which go on quietly and gradually in the soul. We only count the shocks in our journey. Ambitions die, grace grows, as life goes on.—Frederick W. Robertson.

Up to the Light.

Hold your dull life up to the light and see how it will be transfigured. Life is not meant to be a path of ease, but steep and rugged, and it is only through self denial, discouragement, discipline and trial that you may attain the higher life. Believe me, you can no more develop the spiritual powers without use and exercise than you can the physical.—"Light on the Hidden Way."

No Other Refuge.

You will never find rest except in God. There is no refuge but in Him. Oh, what rest and composure there are in Him! It is more than sleep, more than calm, more than quiet; deeper than the dead stillness of the noiseless sea in its utmost depths, where it is undisturbed by the slightest ripple.—Episcopal Recorder.

My Portion.

To count no cost in time or will.
To simply try my place to fill.
To do because the act is right.
To live as living in His sight.
To try each day His will to know.
To tread the way His will may show.
To regulate each plan I make.
Each hope I build or hope I break.
To please the heart which pleases me
Through daily tireless ministry.
To live for Him who gave me life.
To strive for Him who suffered strife
And sacrifice through death for me—
Let this my joy, my portion be.
—George Kilgus.

A CITY NIGHT.

Come, let us forth and wander the rich, the murmuring night.
The sky blue dusk of summer trembles above the street.
On either side uprising glimmer houses pale.
But me the turbulent bubble and voice of crowds delight.
For me the wheels make music, the mingled cries are sweet.
Motion and laughter call; we hear, we will not fail.

For see, in secret vista, with soft, retiring stars,
With clustered suns, that stare upon the throng below.
With pendant dazzling moons, that cast a noonday white.
The full streets beckon, Come, for toil has burst his bars.
And idle eyes rejoice, and feet untrailing go.
Oh, let us out and wander the gay and golden night.
—Lawrence Binyon in New York Tribune.

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

What Can Flit Through a Man's Brain in One Minute.

In proof of this Dr. Scholz tells the following story from his experience: "After excessive bodily fatigue and a day of mental strain of a not disagreeable kind I betook myself to bed after I had wound my watch and placed it on the night table. Then I lay down beside a burning lamp. Soon I found myself on the high sea on board a well known ship. I was again young and stood on the lookout. I heard the roar of water, and golden clouds floated around me. How long I stood so I did not know, but it seemed a very long time.

"Then the scene changed. I was in the country, and my long lost parents came to greet me. They sent me to church, where the loud organ sounded. I was delighted, but at the same time wondered to see my wife and children there. The priest mounted the pulpit and preached, but I could not understand what he said for the sound of the organ, which continued to play. I took my son by the hand, and with him ascended the church tower, but again the scene changed. Instead of being near my son I stood near an early known but long dead officer. I ought to explain that I was an army surgeon during the maneuvers. I was wondering why the major should look so young, when quite close to my ears a cannon sounded.

"Terrified, I was hurrying off, when I woke up and noticed that the supposed cannon shot had its cause in the opening of the bedroom door, through some one entering. It was as if I had lived through an eternity in my dream, but when I looked at my watch I saw that since I had fallen asleep not more than one minute had elapsed—a much shorter time than it takes to relate the occurrence."—St. Louis Republic.

The Ghost in "Hamlet."

Not many years ago at the Queen's theater, Dublin, during one of the late T. C. King's engagements, "Hamlet" was being played to a densely crowded house. The actor portraying the part of the Ghost solaced himself during his long wait from the first to the third act by perusing the evening paper, using his spectacles in so doing. Being interested in some article (probably the "weights" for an important handicap), he delayed leaving the greenroom until the moment of hearing his cue, when, hastily snatching up his truncheon, he rushed upon the stage without his beard of "sable silvered" or removing his spectacles.

A titter greeted his appearance, but still the solemnity of the darkened stage and the fine acting of King as Hamlet prevented any great outburst until the Queen, replying to Hamlet's question, "Do you see nothing there?" answered, "Nothing at all. Yet all that I see," when a voice from aloft exclaimed, "Lend her your specs, old boy," followed by another: "Hould your row. Sure he's put them on to see to shave himself."—Cornhill Magazine.

A Lawyer's Retort.

The greater number of cases are tried before judges without juries, and the occupants of the bench are accustomed to resent an eloquent appeal as something in the nature of an insult to their mental powers.

"Do you think to soften my heart," sarcastically asked a well known chancery judge when a member of the equity bar, making a rare attempt at rhetoric, drew a pathetic picture of his client's wrongs.

"My lord," replied the counsel, who who at once recognized the failure of his appeal, but was quick to find success in his retort, "I know it is impossible."—London Globe.

He Wasn't a Gormand.

That wary old fellow, Bailie Macduff, was enticed into a friend's house the other night, and his host managed to win 50 shillings from him at "nap." What is more remarkable, when the bailie had parted with his last shilling he rose, full of wrath.

"Won't you stay to supper?" pressed his host. "We have a fine bit of ham waiting."

"No, not I. Dae ye think I eat 50 shillings' worth of ham?"—London Answers.

A Trifling Change.

"I guess I'm willing to go," said the

farmer, when they told him his hours would be but few. "It is just a change from havin my nose to the grindstone to havin it to the tombstone."—Ludanapolis Journal.

Be Still and Know That I Am God.

God takes no pleasure in pain or sorrow, but He will impose both if thereby He may bring us to love Him or make us more like Himself. At such a time it is selfish, unbelieving, to complain and murmur—very wicked to find fault with God. There are medicines which, taken with wisdom and in moderation, baffle disease and restore health; but abused, they weaken and destroy. So with sickness and sorrow, as we please to use them. To some they are what God means them for all, a savor of life unto life; to others, a savor of death unto death. At such a time it is only wise to be very considerate, very humble, very submissive.—Lutheran Observer.

No Sure Sign.

Prominence in the church is no sure sign of personal piety and certain safety. Christ denominated the heads of the ecclesiastical departments of His day as a "generation of vipers," whose warning to flee from the wrath to come was as daring, and their heeding that warning was as astonishing as its worthlessness would be proved unless they "brought forth fruits meet for repentance." Hypocrisy will save no man because he happens to be the head of some ecclesiastical department.—Church Standard.

No Reason.

Because you are not of the most impious class of transgressors is no sufficient reason to despise others nor to boast before God how good you are, so that your prayer does not need to ask for the Divine mercy. Some have prayed for grace just because they have been so dreadfully wicked. Others in this age rather boast of their extra degree of sinfulness, thinking to make them apparently more fit for redemption.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Bagpipe Music.

A Glasgow paper thus analyzes the music of the bagpipe: "Big flies on window, 72 per cent; cats on midnight tiles, 11½ per cent; voices of infant puppies, 6 per cent; grunting hungry pigs in the morning, 5½ per cent; steam whistles, 3 per cent; chant of cricket, 2 per cent."

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

Captain Palmer Was Tendered a Reception.

VERY PLEASANT EVENING SPENT

For the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Were Also There to Add to the Occasion—Speeches of Welcome, and an Address by the Captain.

The reception tendered Captain Palmer at Grand Army hall last evening was indeed a pleasant affair. The hall was filled with veterans, their wives, sons and daughters, and all who were present enjoyed every minute of the time.

Soon after it was announced that the captain had been honorably discharged from further duty with the Tenth Pennsylvania, committees were appointed by the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief corps for the purpose of tendering him a reception as soon as possible after his return. The meeting last evening was the result of the committees' labors.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Abrams, who stated briefly the object of the meeting and introduced Mrs. Colhoun, who represented the Woman's Relief corps. In a happy little speech the lady welcomed the captain home, and recalled the days when mothers, wives and sweethearts longed for news of their soldier boys, battling bravely at the front that the Union might be preserved. She also paid a splendid tribute to Mrs. Palmer for the manner in which she bore up under the strain of her husband's absence.

N. T. Ashbaugh spoke on behalf of the Sons of Veterans, acknowledging that, while the boys did not know the horrors of the battlefield and the discomforts of camp life, they did know and could appreciate patriotism and sacrifice for country. He, too, extended to Captain Palmer a hearty welcome on behalf of the organization he represented, adding that every member was glad to see him home.

The address for the Grand Army was made by Prof. O. S. Reed, and eloquently did that gentleman fill the position. He brought back to the mind of many a veteran the day he marched away, and the stirring events which followed the early days of the civil war. Then he touched upon the causes of the late conflict and gloried in the fact that General Lyon post was represented among the army that went forth to conquer, remarking that had there been another call for troops and more men had been needed he would have gladly taken a place among the defenders of the flag, as doubtless many other veterans within the sound of his voice would have done.

He was followed by Mrs. Reed who sang "Down on the Ohio," and after the applause had died away Chairman Abrams introduced Captain Palmer, commending him for the part he had taken in the operations in and around Manila.

Captain Palmer spoke particularly of the battle in which the Tenth was engaged the night of July 31 and the two days following. He described minutely the operations of the regiment, and related a number of instances which showed the pluck of American soldiers under the most trying circumstances. He also referred to an article libeling Colonel Hawkins, which appeared in a Pittsburg paper of last Sunday, and said it was untrue since he had been near the colonel during the time mentioned, and noted his splendid bravery, "recklessness" he styled it. So pronounced was it that the colonel's men begged him to move to a place of at least comparative safety. The captain's talk was the most interesting he has made since his return from Manila, and was loudly applauded.

An appetizing lunch was served by the Sons of Veterans, and the remainder of the evening was spent delightfully. It was without question among the most pleasant events ever held in Grand Army hall.

NEW NATIONAL SOCIETY.

Organized to Foster True Patriotism and Honor Heroes of the War.

The National Society of the Spanish-American war, an outgrowth of the relief work done by some of the patriotic women during the late war, has been organized. Before the peace protocol was signed the women of Carlisle, Pa.; Grand Rapids and Baltimore started a movement to found local memorial societies, which has resulted in the organization of the National society with the following officers: President, Clara Barton; vice presidents, Mrs. John A. Logan, Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and Major General Nelson A. Miles; secretary, Dr. Hildegard H. Laggendorf of Carlisle, Pa.; chairman of the executive committee, Professor Guy Carleton Lee, Johns Hopkins university. The National advisory council is composed of the governors of the various states, together with other prominent Americans. The headquarters of the society are at Baltimore, and local councils of the society may, upon approval of the executive council, be formed in any community.

Membership in the society is open to all patriotic white Americans. Applications for membership must be approved by the executive council. Men and women share equally in the honors and duties of membership. The badge is a circular field of dark blue enamel, the edge of the field being worked into 13 points. On the field are 13 golden stars encircling the letters "L. W. F.," which stand for the motto of the society. This is, "Lest We Forget."

The executive officers wear signet rings in the form of eagles' claws grasping a card, upon which are engraved the letters "L. W. F." and the insignia of the rank of the wearer. The membership fee, payable to the National society, is $1 yearly. Patrons and patronesses pay $5 each year, and life members pay $100 in one payment. The local fees are regulated by the local councils. The local councils have great freedom of action. All that is required of them is unswerving fidelity to the purposes of the National society, the payment of the dues and certain work on Memorial day. All other work is left to the local authorities.

The purposes of the society are the building of a battle monument to the heroic dead of the Spanish-American war and the creation of a fund from which to provide memorial lectures commemorating the brave deeds of both the fallen heroes and courageous survivors of the last war. By means of these examples the society hopes to inculcate and foster true patriotism. It will issue from time to time to the press copy for readable articles of a patriotic nature. The main object of the society is "to train the youth of the land, by the examples of the last war, in good citizenship and earnest patriotism."—New York Tribune.

MILITARY NOSTALGIA CURE.

Colored Soldiers in Cuba Are Taking It, and Their Sweethearts Mourn.

Dr. Harrison, a colored physician of Wichita, Kan., recently received a letter from one of the Wichita boys with the Twenty-third Kansas volunteers, the colored regiment now at San Luis de Cuba, which has caused consternation among the colored people, and especially the women who had husbands or sweethearts in the company. In that letter the soldier states that six members of the Wichita company are engaged to marry Cuban girls and that many other members of the regiment are in love with Cuban and half breed Spanish women, who are said to be unusually good looking and attractive.

There were a number of married men among the recruits and others who had promised to marry Wichita girls on their return. It is the women who unwillingly allowed their sweethearts to go to Cuba that are most worried. They are afraid their "men" will fall prey to the attractions of the tropical amorettes and never come back to them. The letter says that it is probable that if the colored troops remain there a year almost one-half of them will marry natives and remain there.

The reason assigned for the wholesale slaughter of soldier hearts is that when the troops went there almost all of the boys were homesick and downhearted, and about the only relief they could find was in the smiles and charms of the beautiful native women. Then they learned something of the language love's charms were working and soon the soldier boys (some of them) forgot all about being homesick, so much were they enamored with their new sweethearts.—Topeka Capital.

Peace.

There is a peace that cometh after sorrow. Of hope surrendered, not of hope fulfilled; A peace that looketh not upon tomorrow, But calmly on a tempest that is stilled; A peace that lives not now in joy's excesses, Nor in the happy life of love secure, But in the unerring strength the heart possesses Of conflicts won while learning to endure; A peace there is in sacrifice secluded, A life subdued, from will and passion free, 'Tis not the peace that over Eden brooded, But that which triumphed in Gethsemane.—American Friend.

A DIPLOMATIC TRICK.

AN INCIDENT THAT PROVED THE CUNNING OF BISMARCK.

The Roundabout Manner in Which He Secured the Safe Transmission of His Official Correspondence to the Foreign Office.

Stepping to the counter, Herr von Bismarck asked a grinning young shop-boy in shirt sleeves, a blue linen apron, not of maiden freshness, and blessed with a pair of large, red, greasy paws, engaged in weighing some Dutch cheese, to oblige him with a sheet of writing paper, some sealing wax and a pen to direct a letter.

On the boy producing the needful with the traditional "What else, sir?" Bismarck said: "My hands are rather cold. You had better do it for me." And he handed the boy a couple of letters wrapped in the sheet of bluish paper forming an envelope, for in those days made up envelopes were still unknown in Germany. Evidently flattered by the request of such an imposing looking client, for Herr von Bismarck's tall hat was almost touching the ceiling of the squalid little shop, the greasy handed youth took the parcel, and, having closed it skillfully with some brown sealing wax and indorsed it with the initials of the firm, he returned it to its owner to write the address.

"Sorry, my friend, to give you more trouble," said the future chancellor in his jovial way, "but I can't manage to write with my gloves on, so just address it for me." And he handed him a penciled slip with the name of Herr Fritz Piepenbrink or some such name, oil and colonial warehouseman, No. 000 Friedrichs strasse, Berlin.

"Thank you, young man; that'll do capitally," and paying for the paper, etc., with a small tip to the oily boy with the stereotyped grin, he pocketed his letter, and we left the place to continue our walk.

"I dare say you are wondering why I treat my correspondents to such greasy, evil smelling missives?" And he showed me the cheery finger marks of the boy on both sides of the improvised envelope. "I'll tell you a secret, and teach you a useful lesson for future times. You may some day thank me for the hint," exclaimed Herr von Bismarck, laughing heartily.

"You know we are blessed here in Frankfurt, as throughout all south Germany, with the Thurn and Taxis postal administration, a mine of wealth to that fortunate family, but the most wretchedly managed concern under the sun. As you may imagine, it is under the thumb of Austria, hence slow and the triumph of red tape, with a pronounced weakness for diving into other people's business and skimming, of course, the correspondence of all German and foreign envoys, accredited to the diet, with a preference for mine, the ever suspected Prussian culprit and traitor.

"They have established a regular black cabinet in the princely postoffice, where specially trained imperial and royal wiseacres peruse our prose with critical eye, transmitting copies of extracts of all 'treasonable' matter, or particularly interesting reports, to the august Ballplatz, where Gentand and after him Klindworth have established a lynx eyed system of political espionage (politisches schnuffeln) extending all over Europe, and comprising eo ipso all German courts and chancelleries.

"Not being particularly anxious to gratify the morbid curiosity of our Austrian ally, I have thought it advisable to send important reports to the Berlin foreign office, as well as all my letters to the king, to Herr von Manteuffel, and to my sister and some particular friends, under cover to some mercantile firm in Berlin, changing frequently and usually asking a counter jumper in a cheesemonger's or oilman's shop to address them for me—and you can easily understand that the imperial and royal sniffers (schnuffler) don't manage to guess the correspondent of the Prussian representative under a greasy, ill smelling cover, such as you have seen.

"It stands to reason that the smell of cheese or herring and the scribbling of a shopboy must deceive sharper men than the Thurn and Taxis post officials and the specially delegated Austrian postoffice clerks. The only precaution I have to take is to go to different shops in quarters of the town where I am not known and to vary the Berlin address from time to time. Thus I'm perfectly safe.

"Le tour est joué, and I snap my fingers at the Ballplatz. It is simple enough, as you have seen, yet it wouldn't do to send everything through that channel, as they would otherwise get suspicious, so I treat my Austrian friends at least once a week to some of my diplomatic prose—unimportant stuff, and occasionally something I want them to know—or to believe," and he indulged in a boisterous laugh.—Baron de Malortie in Cornhill Magazine.

A Close Shave.

A circus paid a flying visit to a small country town, and the price of admission was sixpence, children under 10 years of age half price. It was Edith's tenth birthday, and her brother Tom, aged 13, took her in the afternoon to see the show. Arrived at the door, he put down ninepence and asked for two front seats.

"How old is the little girl?" asked the money taker doubtfully.

"Well," replied Master Tom, "this is her tenth birthday, but she was not born until rather late in the afternoon."

The money taker accepted the statement and handed him the tickets. But it was a close shave.—London Tit-Bits.

FEATHERED BAROMETERS.

Sailors Warned by Them of a Coming Storm.

While a British brig was gliding smoothly along before a good breeze in the south Pacific a flock of small birds about the size, shape and color of parakeets settled down in the rigging and passed an hour or more of resting. The second mate was so anxious to find out the species to which the visiting strangers belonged that he tried to entrap a specimen, but the birds were too shy to be thus caught and too spry to be seized by the quick hands of the sailors. At the end of about an hour the birds took the brig's course and disappeared, but toward nightfall they came back and passed the night in the maintop.

The next morning the birds flew off again, and when they returned at noon the sailors scattered some food about the decks. By this time the birds had become so tame that they hopped about the decks, picking up the crumbs. That afternoon an astonishing thing happened. The flock came flying swiftly toward the brig. Every bird seemed to be piping as if pursued by some little invisible enemy on wings, and they at once huddled down behind the deck-house. The superstitious sailors at once called the captain of the brig, who rubbed his eyes and looked at the barometer. A glance showed that something was wrong with the elements, and the brig was put in shape to outride a storm.

The storm came about 20 minutes after the birds had reached the vessel. For a few minutes the sky was like the waterless bottom of a lake—a vast arch of yellowish mud—and torrents of rain fell. Why it did not blow very hard no one knows, but on reaching port two days later the captain learned that a great tornado had swept across that part of the sea. The birds left the vessel on the morning after the storm and were not seen again.—Maryland Bulletin.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

The Widower Made Plans For His Fourth Honeymoon.

Included in the wide membership of the Pacific Union club is a middle aged man whom everybody knows simply as the Widower. He has been so fortunate as to outlive three consorts without getting tired of any of them. His many bereavements have given him a sort of professional standing in the world of sorrow, and he is rather proud of his reputation for constant mourning.

The Widower, whose grief is interesting to ladies, is never ostentatious in his sighings. On the contrary, he cultivates an air of patient resignation, beautiful to behold. A peculiarity about his case is his habit of associating the memory of each dear, departed spouse with some spot or resort about the city or the suburban towns.

He was recently showing San Francisco and its environs to a friend from New York. Over in Berkeley, he remarked, sighingly:

"Here I once walked on flowers, for my Elizabeth was with me then."

Out in the park he was careful to indicate the exact spot where poor Katharine had sketched the landscape with her right hand, while her left was clasped in his. At Sutro Heights he dropped a single tear, developed with great difficulty, as he gazed on the beach, where, not so very long ago, he sat with his arm around his sainted Caroline.

"If I ever marry again," he remarked musingly, "I think I shall bring her here."—San Francisco News Letter.

Irish Pronunciation.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archaeologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. The summons of course referred to the dean.

In ancient Egypt when a cat died in a private house the inmates shaved their eyebrows. The killing of a cat, even accidentally, was considered a capital offense.

The psalter of Spain is supposed to have been introduced into that country by the Moors. It is still in common use among the peasants.

Captain Palmer Was Tendered a Reception.

VERY PLEASANT EVENING SPENT

For the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Were Also There to Add to the Occasion—Speeches of Welcome, and an Address by the Captain.

The reception tendered Captain Palmer at Grand Army hall last evening was indeed a pleasant affair. The hall was filled with veterans, their wives, sons and daughters, and all who were present enjoyed every minute of the time.

Soon after it was announced that the captain had been honorably discharged from further duty with the Tenth Pennsylvania, committees were appointed by the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief corps for the purpose of tendering him a reception as soon as possible after his return. The meeting last evening was the result of the committees' labors.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Abrams, who stated briefly the object of the meeting and introduced Mrs. Calhoun, who represented the Woman's Relief corps. In a happy little speech the lady welcomed the captain home, and recalled the days when mothers, wives and sweethearts longed for news of their soldier boys, battling bravely at the front that the Union might be preserved. She also paid a splendid tribute to Mrs. Palmer for the manner in which she bore up under the strain of her husband's absence.

N. T. Ashbaugh spoke on behalf of the Sons of Veterans, acknowledging that, while the boys did not know the horrors of the battlefield and the discomforts of camp life, they did know and could appreciate patriotism and sacrifice for country. He, too, extended to Captain Palmer a hearty welcome on behalf of the organization he represented, adding that every member was glad to see him home.

The address for the Grand Army was made by Prof. O. S. Reed, and eloquently did that gentleman fill the position. He brought back to the mind of many a veteran the day he marched away, and the stirring events which followed the early days of the civil war. Then he touched upon the causes of the late conflict and gloried in the fact that General Lyon post was represented among the army that went forth to conquer, remarking that had there been another call for troops and more men had been needed he would have gladly taken a place among the defenders of the flag, as doubtless many other veterans within the sound of his voice would have done.

He was followed by Mrs. Reed who sang "Down on the Ohio," and after the applause had died away Chairman Abrams introduced Captain Palmer, commending him for the part he had taken in the operations in and around Manila.

Captain Palmer spoke particularly of the battle in which the Tenth was engaged the night of July 31 and the two days following. He described minutely the operations of the regiment, and related a number of instances which showed the pluck of American soldiers under the most trying circumstances. He also referred to an article libeling Colonel Hawkins, which appeared in a Pittsburg paper of last Sunday, and said it was untrue since he had been near the colonel during the time mentioned, and noted his splendid bravery, "recklessness" he styled it. So pronounced was it that the colonel's men begged him to move to a place of at least comparative safety. The captain's talk was the most interesting he has made since his return from Manila, and was loudly applauded.

An appetizing lunch was served by the Sons of Veterans, and the remainder of the evening was spent delightfully. It was without question among the most pleasant events ever held in Grand Army hall.

NEW NATIONAL SOCIETY.

Organized to Foster True Patriotism and Honor Heroes of the War.

The National Society of the Spanish-American war, an outgrowth of the relief work done by some of the patriotic women during the late war, has been organized. Before the peace protocol was signed the women of Carlisle, Pa.; Grand Rapids and Baltimore started a movement to found local memorial societies, which has resulted in the organization of the National society with the following officers: President, Clara Barton; vice presidents, Mrs. John A. Logan, Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and Major General Nelson A. Miles; secretary, Dr. Hildegarde H. Langsdorff of Carlisle, Pa.; chairman of the executive committee, Professor Guy Carleton Lee, Johns Hopkins university. The National advisory council is composed of the governors of the various states, together with other prominent Americans. The headquarters of the society are at Baltimore, and local councils of the society may, upon approval of the executive council, be formed in any community.

Membership in the society is open to all patriotic white Americans. Applications for membership must be approved by the executive council. Men and women share equally in the honors and duties of membership. The badge is a circular field of dark blue enamel, the edge of the field being worked into 13 points. On the field are 13 golden stars encircling the letters "L. W. F.," which stand for the motto of the society. This is, "Lest We Forget."

The executive officers wear signet rings in the form of eagles' claws grasping a card, upon which are engraved the letters "L. W. F." and the insignia of the rank of the wearer. The membership fee, payable to the National society, is $1 yearly. Patrons and patronesses pay $5 each year, and life members pay $100 in one payment. The local fees are regulated by the local councils. The local councils have great freedom of action. All that is required of them is unswerving fidelity to the purposes of the National society, the payment of the dues and certain work on Memorial day. All other work is left to the local authorities.

The purposes of the society are the building of a battle monument to the heroic dead of the Spanish-American war and the creation of a fund from which to provide memorial lectures commemorating the brave deeds of both the fallen heroes and courageous survivors of the last war. By means of these examples the society hopes to inculcate and foster true patriotism. It will issue from time to time to the press copy for readable articles of a patriotic nature. The main object of the society is "to train the youth of the land, by the examples of the last war, in good citizenship and earnest patriotism."—New York Tribune.

MILITARY NOSTALGIA CURE.

Colored Soldiers in Cuba Are Taking It, and Their Sweethearts Mourn.

Dr. Harrison, a colored physician of Wichita, Kan., recently received a letter from one of the Wichita boys with the Twenty-third Kansas volunteers, the colored regiment now at San Luis de Cuba, which has caused consternation among the colored people, and especially the women who had husbands or sweethearts in the company. In that letter the soldier states that six members of the Wichita company are engaged to marry Cuban girls and that many other members of the regiment are in love with Cuban and half breed Spanish women, who are said to be unusually good looking and attractive.

There were a number of married men among the recruits and others who had promised to marry Wichita girls on their return. It is the women who unwillingly allowed their sweethearts to go to Cuba that are most worried. They are afraid their "men" will fall prey to the attractions of the tropical amorettes and never come back to them. The letter says that it is probable that if the colored troops remain there a year almost one-half of them will marry natives and remain there.

The reason assigned for the wholesale slaughter of soldier hearts is that when the troops went there almost all of the boys were homesick and downhearted, and about the only relief they could find was in the smiles and charms of the beautiful native women. Then they learned something of the language love's charms were working and soon the soldier boys (some of them) forgot all about being homesick, so much were they enamored with their new sweethearts.—Topeka Capital.

Peace.

There is a peace that cometh after sorrow.
Of hope surrendered, not of hope fulfilled;
A peace that looketh not upon tomorrow,
But calmly on a tempest that is stilled.
A peace that lives not now in joy's excesses,
Nor in the happy life of love secure,
But in the unerring strength the heart possesses
Of conflicts won while learning to endure;
A peace there is in sacrifice secluded,
A life subdued, from will and passion free.
Tis not the peace that over Eden brooded,
But that which triumphed in Gethsemane.

A DIPLOMATIC TRICK.

AN INCIDENT THAT PROVED THE CUNNING OF BISMARCK.

The Roundabout Manner in Which He Secured the Safe Transmission of His Official Correspondence to the Foreign Office.

Stepping to the counter, Herr von Bismarck asked a grinning young shop-boy in shirt sleeves, a blue linen apron, but of maiden freshness, and blessed with a pair of large, red, greasy paws, engaged in weighing some Dutch cheese, to oblige him with a sheet of writing paper, some sealing wax and a pen to direct a letter.

On the boy producing the needful with the traditional "What else, sir?" Bismarck said: "My hands are rather cold. You had better do it for me." And he handed the boy a couple of letters wrapped in the sheet of bluish paper forming an envelope, for in those days made up envelopes were still unknown in Germany. Evidently flattered by the request of such an imposing looking client, for Herr von Bismarck's tall hat was almost touching the ceiling of the squalid little shop, the greasy handed youth took the parcel, and, having closed it skillfully with some brown sealing wax and indorsed it with the initials of the firm, he returned it to its owner to write the address.

"Sorry, my friend, to give you more trouble," said the future chancellor in his jovial way, "but I can't manage to write with my gloves on, so just address it for me." And he handed him a penciled slip with the name of Herr Fritz Piepenbrink or some such name, oil and colonial warehouseman, No. 000 Friedrichs strasse, Berlin.

"Thank you, young man; that'll do capitally," and paying for the paper, etc., with a small tip to the oily boy with the stereotyped grin, he pocketed his letter, and we left the place to continue our walk.

"I dare say you are wondering why I treat my correspondents to such greasy, evil smelling missives?" And he showed me the cheesy finger marks of the boy on both sides of the improvised envelope. "I'll tell you a secret, and teach you a useful lesson for future times. You may some day thank me for the hint," exclaimed Herr von Bismarck, laughing heartily.

"You know we are blessed here in Frankfurt, as throughout all south Germany, with the Thurn and Taxis postal administration, a mine of wealth to that fortunate family, but the most wretchedly managed concern under the sun. As you may imagine, it is under the thumb of Austria, hence slow and the triumph of red tape, with a pronounced weakness for diving into other people's business and skimming, of course, the correspondence of all German and foreign envoys, accredited to the diet, with a preference for mine, the ever suspected Prussian culprit and traitor.

"They have established a regular black cabinet in the princely postoffice, where specially trained imperial and royal wisacres peruse our prose with critical eye, transmitting copies of extracts of all 'treasonable' matter, or particularly interesting reports, to the august Ballplatz, where Gentand and after him Klindworth have established a lynx eyed system of political espionage (politisches schnuffeln) extending all over Europe, and comprising eo ipso all German courts and chancelleries.

"Not being particularly anxious to gratify the morbid curiosity of our Austrian ally, I have thought it advisable to send important reports to the Berlin foreign office, as well as all my letters to the king, to Herr von Manteuffel, and to my sister and some particular friends, under cover to some mercantile firm in Berlin, changing frequently and usually asking a counter jumper in a cheesemonger's or oilman's shop to address them for me—and you can easily understand that the imperial and royal sniffers (schnuffler) don't manage to guess the correspondent of the Prussian representative under a greasy, ill smelling cover, such as you have seen.

"It stands to reason that the smell of cheese or herring and the scribbling of a shopboy must deceive sharper men than the Thurn and Taxis post officials and the specially delegated Austrian postoffice clerks. The only precaution I have to take is to go to different shops in quarters of the town where I am not known and to vary the Berlin address from time to time. Thus I'm perfectly safe.

"Le tour est joué, and I snap my fingers at the Ballplatz. It is simple enough, as you have seen, yet it wouldn't do to send everything through that channel, as they would otherwise get suspicious, so I treat my Austrian friends at least once a week to some of my diplomatic prose—unimportant stuff, and occasionally something I want them to know—or to believe," and he indulged in a boisterous laugh.—Baron de Moltke in Cornhill Magazine.

A Close Shave.

A circus paid a flying visit to a small country town, and the price of admission was sixpence, children under 10 years of age half price. It was Edith's tenth birthday, and her brother Tom, aged 13, took her in the afternoon to see the show. Arrived at the door, he put down ninepence and asked for two front seats.

"How old is the little girl?" asked the money taker doubtfully.

"Well," replied Master Tom, "this is her tenth birthday, but she was not born until rather late in the afternoon."

The money taker accepted the statement and handed him the tickets. But it was a close shave.—London Tit-Bits.

FEATHERED BAROMETERS.

Sailors Warned by Them of a Coming Storm.

While a British brig was gliding smoothly along before a good breeze in the south Pacific a flock of small birds about the size, shape and color of parakeets settled down in the rigging and passed an hour or more of resting. The second mate was so anxious to find out the species to which the visiting strangers belonged that he tried to entrap a specimen, but the birds were too shy to be thus caught and too spry to be seized by the quick hands of the sailors. At the end of about an hour the birds took the brig's course and disappeared, but toward nightfall they came back and passed the night in the maintop.

The next morning the birds flew off again, and when they returned at noon the sailors scattered some food about the decks. By this time the birds had become so tame that they hopped about the decks, picking up the crumbs. That afternoon an astonishing thing happened. The flock came flying swiftly toward the brig. Every bird seemed to be piping as if pursued by some little invisible enemy on wings, and they at once huddled down behind the deck-house. The superstitious sailors at once called the captain of the brig, who rubbed his eyes and looked at the barometer. A glance showed that something was wrong with the elements, and the brig was put in shape to outride a storm.

The storm came about 20 minutes after the birds had reached the vessel. For a few minutes the sky was like the waterless bottom of a lake—a vast arch of yellowish mud—and torrents of rain fell. Why it did not blow very hard no one knows, but on reaching port two days later the captain learned that a great tornado had swept across that part of the sea. The birds left the vessel on the morning after the storm and were not seen again.—Maryland Bulletin.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

The Widower Made Plans For His Fourth Honey-moon.

Included in the wide membership of the Pacific Union club is a middle aged man whom everybody knows simply as the Widower. He has been so fortunate as to outlive three consorts without getting tired of any of them. His many bereavements have given him a sort of professional standing in the world of sorrow, and he is rather proud of his reputation for constant mourning.

The Widower, whose grief is interesting to ladies, is never ostentatious in his sighings. On the contrary, he cultivates an air of patient resignation, beautiful to behold. A peculiarity about his case is his habit of associating the memory of each dear, departed spouse with some spot or resort about the city or the suburban towns.

He was recently showing San Francisco and its environs to a friend from New York. Over in Berkeley, he remarked, sighingly:

"Here I once walked on flowers, for my Elizabeth was with me then."

Out in the park he was careful to indicate the exact spot where poor Katharine had sketched the landscape with her right hand, while her left was clasped in his. At Sutro Heights he dropped a single tear, developed with great difficulty, as he gazed on the beach, where, not so very long ago, he sat with his arm around his sainted Caroline.

"If I ever marry again," he remarked musingly, "I think I shall bring her here."—San Francisco News Letter.

Irish Pronunciation.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archaeologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. LOCAL BREVITIES.
Trades council will hold a special meeting this evening.
Dr. W. N. Bailey is ill at his home in East Market street, threatened with fever.
Fireman Terrence, who has charge of the East End station, moved his effects to that part of the city yesterday.

J. H. Brookes left this morning for Lisbon where he will remain during the week attending to court business.
Private Andrews, who has been spending several days in Pittsburg visiting friends, returned to the city last evening.

A number of young people will tomorrow evening attend a reception to be given in the Masonic hall, Smith's Ferry.
A drunken man caused considerable excitement in Sixth street last evening by falling down the Grand Opera House stairs. He was not injured.

There is little change in the condition of Miss Maggie House who has been ill at the home of her mother in Fifth street since last Friday.

Justice Rose, who badly injured his back by falling Saturday night, is steadily improving. The injury is not keeping him from his office.
Samuel Lee and Miss Mamie Johnson, well known colored people of the city, last evening were united in marriage by Reverend Carson at his residence.

The work of paving Division street will be commenced as soon as the weather permits. Bradshaw avenue will also be completed the first good day.

This morning J. O. McCain and Will Vodrey left for Millport where they spent the day rabbit hunting. They will return home on the late train this evening.

Charles A. Smith, Al Mason and Captain W. M. Hill have returned from a two days' hunt. They brought with them 61 rabbits and 39 quail as a result of their labor.

The three residences now being erected in Mulberry street, East End, by Dr. R. J. Marshall are almost completed. These are the first houses to be built on this street for over a year.

An evening city paper says that the Washington team is willing to trade Mercer and McGuire for Steinfeldt or Irwin of the Cincinnati club. It is probably another fake rumor.

Mrs. Platts, mother of Secretary Platts, of the Young Men's Christian association, arrived in the city yesterday, coming from Utica. She will make her home with her son.

Clarence Thompson, aged 18, this morning was sent to the infirmary by the township trustees. He has no home and was unable to work. The young man was born in the infirmary.

Woman's home missionary tea will be held at the residence of Mrs. John Gardner, Southside, Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Every member requested to be present and bring some friend with them.

The work of waterproofing the parlor of the Young Men's Christian association is completed, and the improvement is noticeable. It is possible other improvements will be made on the building in the near future.

The Epworth league of the First M. E. church will hold their regular monthly business session tomorrow night in the lecture room of the church. It will be the last business meeting the society will hold this year.

Lisbon's council is considering the matter of creating the office of solicitor. Heretofore the council has employed its attorney. Mayor Martin has been instructed to draw up an ordinance. The candidates are John Elliott, George P. Ferrell and C. O. Connell, all well known in this city.

IN BLOCKADED SANTIAGO.

A Spanish Naval Officer's Impressions.
Spanish Fleet Badly Prepared—American Soldiers Fight Admirably.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The bureau of naval intelligence issued another of its war series, this time the "Battles and Capitulation of Santiago de Cuba," by Lieutenant Jose Muller y Tejeiro, the second in command of the naval forces of the province of Santiago de Cuba.

The publication begins with a chapter entitled "The Two Fleets," telling of the arrival of Cervera's squadron on the 19th of May and of the disappointment of the people, who expected no less than eight battleships instead of five. He makes a comparison very carefully and accurately of the vessels of the two squadrons. The lieutenant mentioned the fact that provisions were very short, also that the military element of the province was nine or ten months' in arrears in the payment of consignments, and had been living on credit for some time. Everything was lacking—food, money, credit—and purchasing resources were exhausted.

The Spanish ships did not have to give battle in order to obtain results, and says that if provisions had not been wanting in Santiago and the Spanish fleet had remained there no one could tell to what extremes impatience and despair might have carried Admiral Sampson. Speaking of the Merrimac, he said the real object of the exploit was unknown in Santiago.

The arrival of the army created considerable consternation in Santiago. Provisions were running short, and it is stated that if El Caney and San Juan had not been taken, the Spaniards would not have lost communication with the cultivated region nor would the aqueduct have been cut. The small number of the Spanish forces made it impossible to save these positions. He speaks of the destructive work of the Vesuvius whenever the bombs fell upon any point where there were works or guns.

Speaking of the battles of El Caney and San Juan, he says, the Americans, it must be acknowledged, fought with truly admirable courage and spirit. While the battles were going on at El Caney and San Juan, the enemy sent forces against the whole Spanish line, for the purpose no doubt of harassing and making the attack more general. The casualties of the Spanish side are stated to be 60 officers and 533 men. He claimed that only 520 men defeated El Caney for ten hours, and that 250 defeated San Juan for four hours. He speaks of the lively bombardment by sea and land on July 2, and the sortie of the Spanish fleet on July 3. The commanders of the ships were opposed to the movement, but were ordered to go.

At the time of the surrender there were 2,100 sick and wounded soldiers of the Spanish army. The total losses in all the attacks on Santiago are given as follows:

Officers killed, 16; men killed, 107; officers wounded, 59; men wounded, 556; prisoners and missing, 7 officers and 116 men.

REARRANGED SUB-COMMISSIONS.

Some of the Members of the Industrial Commission Held a Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The session of some of the members of the United States industrial commission was devoted to consideration of the reports of the several sub-commissions, which are to be acted upon by the full commission before being promulgated. Rearrangement was made of the personnel of the sub-commissions, so that they now stand as follows:

On transportation—Phillips, Mallory, Lorimer, Harris and Kennedy.
On statistics—North, Farquhar, Conger and Harris.
On agriculture and agricultural labor—Harris, Kyle, Mantie, Gardner and Conger.
On conditions of labor and capital employed in manufacturing and general business—Smyth, Penrose, Livingston, North and Farquhar.
On conditions of labor and capital employed in mining—Daniel, Otjen, Bell, Kennedy and Ratchford.

THE ADVERTISERS.

The Evening News Review has the largest bona fide PAID daily circulation of any paper published in East Liverpool, and the largest circulation in Wellsville of any daily paper published in East Liverpool. Keen witted and wide awake business men and advertisers will make note of these facts.

HARRY PALMER,
Owner and Manager.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

The combination prices of the NEWS REVIEW, advertisement in paper and bills from said advertisement, are cheaper than any other daily paper in the city, while the workmanship, material and inks made use of are incomparably superior to those of would-be competitors. Test the matter. We will prove the truth of our assertion.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Trades council will hold a special meeting this evening.

Dr. W. N. Bailey is ill at his home in East Market street, threatened with fever.

Fireman Terrence, who has charge of the East End station, moved his effects to that part of the city yesterday.

J. H. Brookes left this morning for Lisbon where he will remain during the week attending to court business.

Private Andrews, who has been spending several days in Pittsburg visiting friends, returned to the city last evening.

A number of young people will tomorrow evening attend a reception to be given in the Masonic hall, Smith's Ferry.

A drunken man caused considerable excitement in Sixth street last evening by falling down the Grand Opera House stairs. He was not injured.

There is little change in the condition of Miss Maggie House who has been ill at the home of her mother in Fifth street since last Friday.

Justice Rose, who badly injured his back by falling Saturday night, is steadily improving. The injury is not keeping him from his office.

Samuel Lee and Miss Mamie Johnson, well known colored people of the city, last evening were united in marriage by Reverend Carson at his residence.

The work of paving Division street will be commenced as soon as the weather permits. Bradshaw avenue will also be completed the first good day.

This morning J. C. McCain and Will Vodrey left for Millport where they spent the day rabbit hunting. They will return home on the late train this evening.

Charles A. Smith, Al Mason and Captain W. M. Hill have returned from a two days' hunt. They brought with them 61 rabbits and 39 quail as a result of their labor.

The three residences now being erected in Mulberry street, East End, by Dr. R. J. Marshall are almost completed. These are the first houses to be built on this street for over a year.

An evening city paper says that the Washington team is willing to trade Mercer and McGuire for Steinfeldt or Irwin of the Cincinnati club. It is probably another fake rumor.

Mrs. Platts, mother of Secretary Platts, of the Young Men's Christian association, arrived in the city yesterday, coming from Utica. She will make her home with her son.

Clarence Thompson, aged 18, this morning was sent to the infirmary by the township trustees. He has no home and was unable to work. The young man was born in the infirmary.

Woman's home missionary tea will be held at the residence of Mrs. John Gardner, Southside, Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Every member requested to be present and bring some friend with them.

The work of waterproofing the parlor of the Young Men's Christian association is completed, and the improvement is noticeable. It is possible other improvements will be made on the building in the near future.

The Epworth league of the First M. E. church will hold their regular monthly business session tomorrow night in the lecture room of the church. It will be the last business meeting the society will hold this year.

Lisbon's council is considering the matter of creating the office of solicitor. Heretofore the council has employed its attorney. Mayor Martin has been instructed to draw up an ordinance. The candidates are John Elliott, George P. Ferrell and C. C. Connell, all well known in this city.

IN BLOCKADED SANTIAGO.

A Spanish Naval Officer's Impressions.
Spanish Fleet Badly Prepared—American Soldiers Fight Admirably.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The bureau of naval intelligence issued another of its war series, this time the "Battles and Capitulation of Santiago de Cuba," by Lieutenant Jose Muller y Tejero, the second in command of the naval forces of the province of Santiago de Cuba.

The publication begins with a chapter entitled "The Two Fleets," telling of the arrival of Cervera's squadron on the 19th of May and of the disappointment of the people, who expected no less than eight battleships instead of five. He makes a comparison very carefully and accurately of the vessels of the two squadrons. The lieutenant mentioned the fact that provisions were very short, also that the military element of the province was nine or ten months' in arrears in the payment of consignments, and had been living on credit for some time. Everything was lacking—food, money, credit—and purchasing resources were exhausted.

The Spanish ships did not have to give battle in order to obtain results, and says that if provisions had not been wanting in Santiago and the Spanish fleet had remained there no one could tell to what extremes impatience and despair might have carried Admiral Sampson. Speaking of the Merrimac, he said the real object of the exploit was unknown in Santiago.

The arrival of the army created considerable consternation in Santiago. Provisions were running short, and it is stated that if El Caney and San Juan had not been taken, the Spaniards would not have lost communication with the cultivated region nor would the aqueduct have been cut. The small number of the Spanish forces made it impossible to save these positions. He speaks of the destructive work of the Vesuvius whenever the bombs fell upon any point where there were works or guns.

Speaking of the battles of El Caney and San Juan, he says, the Americans, it must be acknowledged, fought with truly admirable courage and spirit. While the battles were going on at El Caney and San Juan, the enemy sent forces against the whole Spanish line, for the purpose no doubt of harassing and making the attack more general. The casualties of the Spanish side are stated to be 60 officers and 533 men. He claimed that only 520 men defended El Caney for ten hours, and that 250 defended San Juan for four hours. He speaks of the lively bombardment by sea and land on July 2, and the sortie of the Spanish fleet on July 3. The commanders of the ships were opposed to the movement, but were ordered to go.

At the time of the surrender there were 2,100 sick and wounded soldiers of the Spanish army. The total losses in all the attacks on Santiago are given as follows:

Officers killed, 16; men killed, 107; officers wounded, 59; men wounded, 536; prisoners and missing, 7 officers and 116 men.

REARRANGED SUB-COMMISSIONS.

Some of the Members of the Industrial Commission Held a Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The session of some of the members of the United States industrial commission was devoted to consideration of the reports of the several sub-commissions, which are to be acted upon by the full commission before being promulgated. Rearrangement was made of the personnel of the sub-commissions, so that they now stand as follows:

On transportation—Phillips, Mallory, Lorrimer, Harris and Kennedy.
On statistics—North, Farquhar, Conger and Harris.
On agriculture and agricultural labor—Harris, Kyle, Mantle, Gardner and Conger.
On conditions of labor and capital employed in manufacturing and general business—Smyth, Penrose, Livingston, North and Farquhar.
On conditions of labor and capital employed in mining—Daniel, Otjen, Bell, Kennedy and Katchford.

TO BE SENTENCED TODAY.

Quick Verdict of Death For a Negro Rapist.

BEDFORD CITY, Va., Nov. 30.—Monday an indictment was found by the grand jury against James Webster, a negro, for rape committed on Miss Mary Aunsplugh, an aged white lady of this city, on Nov. 19. Tuesday the case was called at 10 o'clock; at 3:30 it was given to the jury and at 4:05 a verdict was rendered of guilty, with the death penalty.

The prisoner is to be sentenced today.

Hanscom Being Courtmartialled.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—The naval courtmartial appointed to try Naval Constructor Hanscom convened at the League Island navyyard. Mr. Hanscom is accused of approving fraudulent vouchers which gave to workmen at League Island navyyard more pay than they had earned, culpable inefficiency in the performance of his duties, failure to report the false vouchers to his immediate superior and the making of false statements in his report to Washington of labor performed at the navyyard.

Took Chinamen Away.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The steamer Coptic took 500 Chinese away, many of whom were ordered deported by the courts. Many of the Chinese were wealthy residents, who visited their own country to celebrate the new year.

Perished in the Storm.

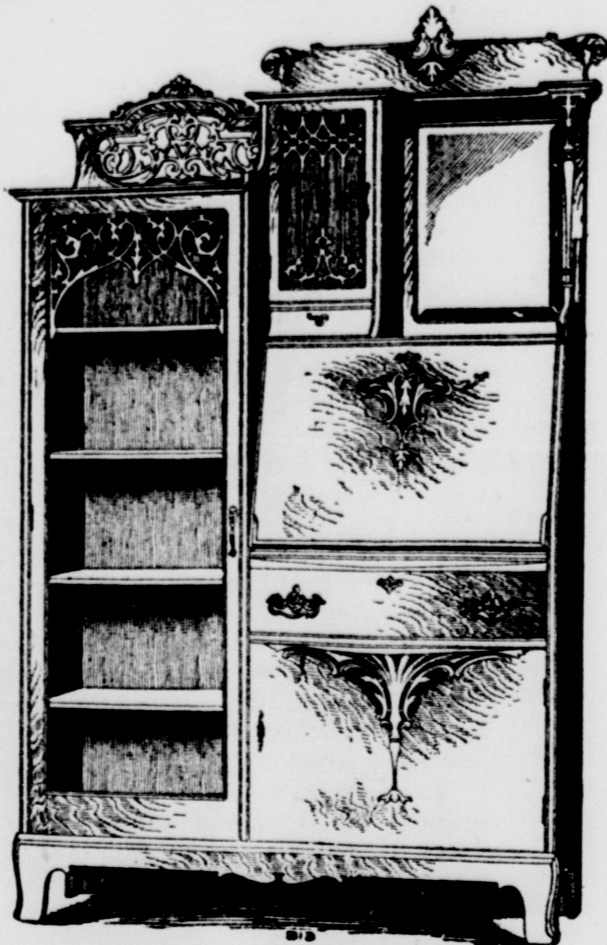

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 30.—The bodies of Russell Haskin and Ernest Raymond of this town, who went hunting Saturday, have been found. It is thought they were lost in the storm and perished.

There's Little Reason

why your home should not be neatly and comfortably furnished, considering the cost of housefurnishings.

You can furnish an entire house for less money than it cost to fit out two or three rooms ten years ago.

A look through our store will convince you of this fact. The better class of furniture is now sold at about the prices you would formerly have paid for the common grade. The new patterns are sure to please you, as will the prices also.

This cut represents the latest pattern in combination cabinets, a book case and secretary combined. We have a variety of styles in oak and mahogany finishes. They make one of the most useful pieces of household furniture, and are very handsome.

Carpets, Rugs, Druggets, Etc

We never sold so much carpets in the fall as this season. If you have not got yours yet now is a good time. The new fall patterns will please you.

An Appreciative Reader.

Thomas Scott, the celebrated commentator on the Bible, published an edition of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" with explanatory notes. A copy of this work he benevolently presented to one of his poor parishioners. Meeting him soon after, Mr. Scott inquired whether he had read it.

"Yes, sir," was the enthusiastic reply.

"Do you think you understand it?"

"Oh, yes, sir," the parishioner answered, with the unexpected and disappointing addition, "and I hope before long I shall understand the notes."

George Gould a Witness.

ALBANY, Nov. 30.—George Gould was a witness in the trial of Mrs. Margaret Cody, charged with blackmailing him and his sister Helen by means of alleged valuable information calculated to effect a compromise of Mrs. Angel's suit for dower rights on the ground that she was Jay Gould's first wife. Mrs. Angel, who has confessed that her claim was baseless, will also testify in the trial.

Death Sentence on Private.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 30.—The death sentence has been imposed upon Private Lindsey T. Holt, Troop F, Tenth cavalry, after trial by the first cavalry brigade courtmartial for the murder of Private Twisby of the same regiment, at Montauk. The findings of the court were referred to President McKinley and the sentence is awaiting action.

Ex-Queen Lili's Proposition.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—Ex Queen Liliokalani of Hawaii and suite passed through this city enroute to Washington, where she will lay before President McKinley her claims to 1,000,000 acres of Hawaiian land. She will also submit a proposition offering to sell it to the United States government for $6,000,000.

Weather Forecast.

Western Pennsylvania and Ohio—Fair; fresh west winds.

Bomb Found at Marseilles.

MARSEILLES, Nov. 30.—A bomb containing 140 grammes of powder and nails, capable of doing terrible damage, was found in the bourse here. The fuse had been lighted, but it had burned out.

Brought In Shipwrecked Crew.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Captain S. S. Hewitt and seven men rescued from the schooner D. K. Baker, which was abandoned in a sinking condition, were brought to port.

The cod fisheries of Newfoundland have been followed for nearly 400 years. They greatly exceed those of any other country in the world. The average export of cod is about 1,350,000 cwt. per annum.

NUMBERS OF VICTIMS.

More Known Ships and Lives Lost.

DEADLY COAST OF CAPE COD.

Offices and Miles Piled High With Wreckage—In Vineyard Haven Hulls Are Piled Upon Shore—Wreck of the Portland Overshadows All.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Reports of wrecks and loss of life up and down the New England coast, as the outcome of Sunday's terrific storm, continued. From Cape Cod the most terrible accounts of ruin and death came, and of these the loss of the steamer Portland, a sidewheel, plying between Boston and Portland, with all on board, nearly 100 souls, overshadows all. The graveyard of the coast, the treacherous bars and reefs on the outside of Cape Cod, have claimed victims without number.

Miles and miles of coast line are piled high with wreckage, most of which is ground so fine by the waves that identification of hapless craft is impossible. As the fury of the wind was as great on the bleak sand hills which make up the cape it will be some hours before all places are heard from. Telegraph wires are down and railroads cannot break out the snow drifts, and this feature is distressing, as much suffering from cold and hunger must ensue among the poorer people in the near by hamlets.

The only means of reaching Cape Cod was by steamer across Massachusetts Bay, a disagreeable voyage, as the sea was yet boisterous. Word from Provincetown told of nearly 30 total wrecks, with the number of lives lost unknown. Matters are improving slightly along Vineyard sound, so far as means of communication are concerned. The best summing up of the disasters in that section is made by Captain Hard, Jr., of the revenue cutter Dexter, who has cruised along shore all day.

He says that in Vineyard Haven hulls are piled upon shore and those vessels which are adrift seem mere shells. The Dexter reports possible additions to the wreck list, in two schooners sunk off Menemsha light, and two big ones sunk abreast of Presque Isle. The fate of their crews is unknown. Three wrecking steamers are around the Fairfax ashore on Sow and Figs reef.

BODIES CAME ASHORE.

Life Belt on One Was Marked From the Portland—It Is Probable That Over 100 Lives Were Lost.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., Nov. 28.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The steamer Portland of the Boston and Portland line has been lost on Cape Cod with all on board. The life saving men, through a blinding storm yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, heard the distress whistle of a steamer and last night, at midnight, the body of a man was found on shore. On the body of the man was a life belt marked "Steamer Portland of Portland." A gold watch in his pocket had stopped at 10 o'clock. This man was well-dressed, wore black clothes and tan shoes and had light hair and moustache and a piece of card in his pocket bore the words "John W., Congress street, Portland."

The body of a large woman, without covering of any kind, washed ashore at Panet river, but there was no means of identifying it. It is believed that the steamer Portland was disabled by the storm about 10 o'clock last night, being unable to longer hold up against the gale and drifted on to Peaked Hill bars and went to pieces. No part of the ship has drifted ashore, and it is not known just where she struck.

Boston, Nov. 30.—Figures obtained at the office of the Boston and Portland Steamship company, whose steamer Portland was dashed to pieces on the treacherous Cape Cod coast Sunday morning, show that the ill-fated vessel carried 101 persons, 52 passengers and a crew of 49 men. Every soul aboard is supposed to have perished, not one being left to tell the story of the disaster. Thirty-four bodies were recovered from the surf by the life savers at Highland station.

The complete list of passengers follows:

M. L. Sewell, Portland; Fred Sherwood, Portland; Charles H. Thompson, wife and child, Woodsford, Me.; William L. Chase, Master Philip Chase, Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. Kate Coy, East Boston; Arthur F. Heron and wife, Chelsea, Mass.; Miss Alice Swift, Portland; Harry Smith, East Boston; Mrs. Cornelia N. Mitchell, North Easton, Mass.; Miss Jennie C. Hoyt, North Easton, Mass.; Mrs. J. A. Carroll, Lowell, Mass.; Miss Jennie Edmunds, East Boston; Mrs. Anna Rounds, Portland; George E. CONTEMPT CITATION.

A Cashier Refused to Testify on a Bank Tax Case Being Heard at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—Thomas Wilson, cashier of the First National bank of this city, was cited to appear before the United States circuit court for contempt, for refusing to answer a question put to him by Attorney General Monnett in the bank tax hearing.

Several bank cashiers were summoned to appear before Special Examiner Belford, the object being to compel the bankers to explain the variation of the figures given in their reports to the comptroller of currency and their returns to the auditor for taxation. While Mr. Wilson was being examined by Attorney General Monnett he made the statement that there was not a taxpayer in the county that returned his property for taxation at more than 60 per cent of its true value.

"Can you name one person who makes his tax return at 60 per cent of the true value of his property?" asked Mr. Monnett.

"I can, but I do not wish to be the cause of other people being involved in this matter, and I refuse to mention any names," replied the witness.

Mr. Monnett had Mr. Wilson certified to the United States court for contempt.

Johnson Defense Rests.

AKRON, Nov. 30.—The defense in the Johnson murder trial caused a sensation by resting its case after one witness had been examined. The signed confession of the accused man was introduced. The defense offered no objection, contrary to expectation. Johnson claimed that he was attacked by Osborne with a cane before he ever struck him, and on this point the defense dwelt in cross-examining the officers who had taken Johnson's confession. Attorney Ed Voris of the defense was put on the stand and testified as to bruises which he had seen on Johnson's legs, and which he claimed had been inflicted by Osborne.

Burke Case Practically Decided.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—The trial committee of the Bar association will not meet again until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when its report on the charges against Senator Vernon H. Burke will be drawn up and signed. The committee is practically agreed upon the verdict, but has not yet reached a decision upon the wording of the report. Judge Dellenbaugh was in Chicago on matters pertaining to the Burke case, and it is reported that he has gone to secure additional evidence.

Want a Mission Building.

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 30.—A petition signed by 500 representative citizens has been presented to the city council requesting that it lease for a long term of years at a nominal rental the city markethouse lot to the City mission, which desires to erect thereon a building for the carrying out of its charitable and benevolent work. It is probable a portion of the lot will be given for the worthy cause.

Elected President of Oberlin.

OVERLIN, O., Nov. 30.—The trustees of Oberlin college elected Rev. John Henry Barrows of Chicago as president of that institution. It is understood he will accept and assume the position on Jan. 4, 1899, when the winter terms begins.

TO COMBINE SUGAR REFINERIES.

A Move to Unite Different Companies, With Large Capitalization.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An attempt is being made to consolidate the American Sugar Refining company, the Doscher sugar plant, the Arbuckle concern and all of the other independent refineries and the Glucose Sugar Refining company of Chicago.

Whether the scheme will succeed depends upon Mr. Havemeyer and certain interests in the Glucose company.

It is proposed to capitalize the organization at $150,000,000, half preferred and half common stock.

Choate Called on McKinley.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Among the visitors at the White House was Mr. Joseph Choate of New York, who is in Washington on business before the United States supreme court. Mr. Choate called to pay his respects to the president and remained only a few minutes. His presence here, however, has revived the rumor that he may be appointed ambassador to London.

PEACE ARTICLES READY.

Prepared to Submit to Peace Commissions Today.

AGUINALDO IS SOMEWHAT FEARED.

Apprehension Not Entirely Disappeared, Though the Administration Believes Insurgents Will Accept the Situation Without a Conflict.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—As the result of the work of Mr. Moore and Senor Ojeda the draft of the articles embodying the protocol agreements was completed last evening and are expected to be presented to the two commissions today at their separate sessions and at the joint session, when it will receive final consideration. There will be little delay on these articles.

Mr. Moore will also submit to the United States commissioners the subjects to be presented to the Spaniards for negotiations. These for convenience and greater dispatch are being drafted into the form of articles.

The release of the insurgent prisoners held by Spain will go into the protocol agreements, it having been already agreed that Spain is to release them upon the United States undertaking to secure the release of Spanish prisoners in the hands of Aguinaldo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The apprehension which manifested itself some time ago over the attitude of Aguinaldo and the Philippine insurgents has not entirely disappeared, though the administration believes they will accept the situation without any conflict with the United States. The matter was discussed at the cabinet meeting and some of the views expressed indicated a possibility that the insurgents may yet have to be dealt with. On the whole, however, the president expects that serious trouble with Aguinaldo will be avoided, but at the same time has guarded against an outbreak by taking precautionary measures.

The American force already in occupancy of part of the Philippines is regarded as altogether adequate to cope with any emergency that may arise. The future government of the islands came up incidentally and Secretary Alger made some suggestions as to details of a military government of the islands.

The government has been officially advised of the successful termination of the peace negotiations with Spain. A cablegram to this effect, which had been received from Chairman Day, was read at the cabinet meeting by the secretary of state.

Before returning to the United States our Paris commissioners will secure from the Spanish representatives, if possible, a proposition for the sale to the United States of Strong island, one of the Caroline group, some distance east and south of Luzon, for a cable station. Should Spain, however, decline to sell the island for a reasonable sum the matter will be dropped for the present at least. The possible cession of this island is not involved in the pending treaty and no pressure will be brought to bear to induce Spain to part with it.

A large part of the time of the cabinet meeting was consumed in the discussion of the new customs tariff which is to be put into operation in all parts of Cuba as soon as the United States takes formal possession.

STRIFE AMONG REBELS.

Hostilities Between Rival Republics in Philippines—Loyal Legion Banquet, at Manila.

MANILA, Nov. 30.—At the Loyal Legion banquet here 64 guests were present.

General Anderson presided and Rear Admiral Dewey was received by a guard of honor from the Oregonian.

The speakers were Generals Anderson, Harrison, Grey, Otis, Reeve, King and McArthur, Captains Glass and Coglian and Colonel Hawkins.

The transport Zealandia has arrived here with reinforcements. There are other transports expected daily.

It is reported that a section of the insurgents called the guards of honor, who are opposed to Aguinaldo, have captured San Ignacio, in the province of Pangasinan, island of Luzon, at the instance of the Spanish priests.

Charles McKinnon, a member of an Oregon regiment, died of smallpox.

Advices from Iloilo say the natives of the Visayas islands have established a republic, independent of Luzon.

In some of the islands hostilities are proceeding between rival republics.

THE SPANISH EVACUATION.

General Butler Spoke of It—Praised Spanish Soldiers and Cubans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Major General M. C. Butler had another conference with the president concerning affairs in Cuba. In an interview he said:

"Since the American commissioners have been in Havana about 20,000 soldiers have been sent back to Spain. Thirty-two transports will soon arrive there and take away from 50,000 to 60,000 more. The remainder will depart about Jan. 1 or soon afterward."

General Butler said that it was hard to tell how many Spanish soldiers will remain on the island to become citizens. He said he had never seen a more orderly or better behaved lot of men.

General Butler said that nobody could approximate the time when this country could turn things over to the Cubans. He had found them bright and well-educated.

SOME VOLUNTEERS MAY RETURN.

A Rumor That 5,000 Regulars Will Be Sent to the Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—A rumor was current at army headquarters that between now and Jan. 1 5,000 soldiers will be concentrated here to embark for the Philippines.

It is said that the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Thirteenth and Twentieth infantry will be assigned to duty on the islands, and that some of the volunteers stationed there will be returned to this country for mustering out.

FATAL FACTIONAL FIGHT.

One Man Killed and Others Hurt in a Row Among Republicans, at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An attempt to break up the annual meeting of the Eighteenth Ward Republican club at Bricklayers' hall, at Peoria and West Monroe streets, resulted in the death of one of the attacking party and the wounding of several of those who participated in the fight.

The dead man is Charles Lattimer, a bricklayer, instantly killed.

The wounded are William Mahoney, policeman at the Desplains Street station, shot in both arms and in the side; will recover. John W. Landers, laborer, finger shot off. John Prince, janitor of the building; shot in the left leg; not serious.

The club held its annual election last night, and there was much rivalry between factions headed by Coroner Berg and John Rodgers, an ex member of the city council, over the offices.

Some of the Rogers faction tried to enter the hall where some of the Berg people were holding a meeting.

Coroner Berg was one of the first to fire.

GREAT LAKES DISPUTES.

Taken Up by Special Committees of the Anglo-American Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Anglo-American commission had expected to resume the consideration of the reciprocity discussion, but as the Bering sea question had not been disposed of the consideration of that branch of work was continued. While considerable progress has been made, a final agreement on the sealing question is not yet assured. Besides the present valuation of the Canadian sealing fleet it is said that the relinquishment of the right of sealing is another factor, which the Canadians consider quite as important as the value of the present fleet.

Questions relating to the great lakes were taken up by a special committee. These include controversies over the number of warships which are to be maintained or built on the lakes; fishing rights; navigation and wrecking privileges, and various questions arising out of the treaty of 1817. This branch of work was partly considered at Quebec.

A CHANCE FOR CORBETT.

Sharkey Willing to Fight For Charity, Within Two Weeks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—In a published interview Corbett was quoted as saying that he was willing to fight Sharkey again for nothing providing he was allowed his training expenses. Tom O'Rourke, Sharkey's manager, issued the following card:

"Corbett has stated that he will fight Sharkey for nothing, if allowed training expenses. Sharkey accepts, providing the proceeds go to the poor as a Christmas gift, the press to form a committee, who will distribute the money. Let Corbett name the time, which must not be later than two weeks hence."

Bismarck's Memoirs Issued.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The memoirs of the late Prince Bismarck were issued, but the papers are disappointing to those who expected a sensation and have evidently been well blue penciled. It is also evident that the author left much to be supplied by the editors who have impressed the writings with their own style. The memoirs contain few of Bismarck's characteristic derogations, but are, however, of vast literary and political interest.

Kasson Gave a Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Hon. John A. Kasson, special reciprocity commissioner of the United States, entertained at dinner the British American joint high commission, now in session here. Toasts to the president, the queen and the emperor of Russia were drunk standing. The response to the toasts to the queen was made by the British ambassador and that to the emperor of Russia by the Russian ambassador.

Saved a Schooner's Crew.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Captain Dobbin of the schooner Maynard Sumner and his crew of five men were brought here by the steamer Mackinaw, from London, which picked them up off Montauk Point. The schooner was abandoned and will prove a total loss.

A ROBBER ENGINEER.

Caught Trying to Hold Up Missouri Pacific Train.

COMPANION REPORTED WOUNDED.

A Posse Out After the Two Fellow Bandits of the Railway Employee—Superintendent of the Road Had Been Informed—Had Armed Men on Train.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 30.—Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 74, which left St. Joe, via Kansas City, over the Lexington branch, was held up four and a half miles west of Sedalia, by three masked men, one of whom, Jim West, an engineer, in the company's employ, was captured, while a second is believed to have been wounded, and the third escaped. Originally the holdup was to have occurred last Friday night, but one of the men implicated weakened and the attempt was postponed.

Superintendent L. D. Hopkins was apprised that the holdup was arranged for and he prepared for it. When the train left Kansas City six secret service men in the company's employ were also on board.

One half mile west of Georgetown, at Muddy creek, Engineer Daniels was signaled to stop and aid so.

At once the three robbers opened fire, which was returned by the company's posse of six men. Fully 20 shots were exchanged, when the robbers realized that they were trapped and began to retreat. The officers gave pursuit, and Engineer Jim West, a freightman, was captured. The officers fired a number of shots, and it was reported that the second robber was wounded, but this was not corroborated.

The train then came on to Sedalia and West was committed to jail. As quickly as possible a posse was organized and proceeded to the scene of the holdup in the hope of capturing the other two robbers.

NEGLECTED FOR DAYS.

Wound of Man Hurt at El Caney Not Dressed Until He Reached Long Island.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The war investigation commission began its hearings in Boston, all the members being present except Colonel Denby. General McCook acted as president.

Leonard W. Johnson of North Cambridge, a contract nurse, testified that no one was taken on board the City of Berlin, from Porto Rico, who was not able to take care of himself, but in spite of that he and a Mr. Sanderson were ordered to look after 12 men who were sick, though the witness was sick himself. Their orders were to keep all at work under penalty of being themselves, as well as the delinquents, placed in irons.

Dr. Bracket of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid association thought there were medicines enough on the Segura. There were, however, almost no prepared food or any kind of food for convalescents. He and Captain McCook bought supplies from the ship's steward and gave them to the men. There was ice on board, to be had once a day by paying for it.

Corporal William Kentinda, Seventh infantry, testified to being wounded in three places at the battle of El Caney. He remained under a tree and it was two days before he was discovered. Eight days afterwards he went aboard the Olivette. He did not get his wounds dressed until he reached Long Island.

Private B. F. Houston, Seventh infantry, who was wounded in the action at El Caney, told of his experiences in a hospital at Siboney. The wounded suffered on the way, owing to the springless wagons having no straw in the bottoms. In the hospital the greatest difficulty was in getting food of a proper nature for men in their condition. Canned food could be bought, but those who had no money had to go without. The only food issued was the canned beef and tomatoes. These were issued as rations, but delicacies and oranges had to be purchased. He described a visit of Miss Mills and an unpleasant controversy between her and the doctor, after which the men had better treatment. Witness testified to hearing the men call out for water and then hearing the nurses in the adjacent tents shout "shut up," for reply. One of the wounded died after calling for water in this way.

A Dinner to Iglesias.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Iglesias of Costa Rica had a long conference with Senator Morgan, who has been the manager of the Nicaraguan canal legislation in the senate, relative to canal affairs. Last night President Iglesias was the guest of honor at a dinner given by President McKinley.

Deaths Reported by Wood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—General Wood reported from Santiago the following deaths: Private M. Thomas, Company K, Eighth Illinois, dysentery; Private Arthur Smith, Company M, Ninth volunteers, pneumonia; Private Bennett M. Clemens, Fourth volunteers, apoplexy.

NO SOUTHSIDE MILL

Mr. Banfield Says He Knows
of No Project.

PLANT WILL STAY IN IRONDALE

The Company's Property Has Been Ab-
sorbed by the Trust, and There Will Be No Change—Refused to Talk on the Branch Extension.

W. H. Banfield, of Irondale, passed through the city this morning going to his home from Pittsburgh where he has been for several days attending to some
business connected with the tin plate
combination. In speaking to a reporter
he said:

"It was never the intention of the company to erect a mill on the Virginia
side and the land in which
I am interested was purchased
for speculative purposes only.
There are no prospects at present for
any factory of any description being
erected on the other side of the river,
and if there is I don't know of it. The Irondale mill will remain where it is,
and neither the old company or the new
owners ever had any intention of moving."

When Mr. Banfield was asked if the Panhandle road would soon begin work
on the extension of the Cumberland
branch, he said that was out of his line,
and he could not give any information
on the subject.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Will the Funeral of the Late Mrs. Bulger
Take Place.

Mrs. Julia A. Bulger, who died yesterday at her home in Sixth street, was born in Plymouth, N. H., in 1815, and
her maiden name was Miss Julia A.
Worcester. When she was quite young
her parents moved to Brownsville, and
in 1835 she was married to Henry Bul-
ger, and they made their home in Brownsville until the death of Mr. Bul-
ger, which occurred in 1885. Mrs. Bul-
ger a short time afterward moved to this
city and has since resided here.

Deceased has been an invalid for a
number of years, and her death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was an earnest member of the Cumberland
Presbyterian church of Brownsville.
She was beloved and respected by all
who knew her and had many friends in
the city who will be pained to hear of
her death.

Seven children are left to mourn her
loss: J. W. Bulger, Akron; Miss Ada
Bulger, A. H. Bulger, this city; Mrs.
R. P. Thistlethwaite, Erie, Pa.; William F. Bulger, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs.
Alfred Myers, Toronto; L. M. Bulger,
Bellevue, Pa.

The funeral will take place tomorrow
afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late
residence in Sixth street, Dr. Clark Crawford, officiating. Interment at Riverview.

A CLEVER RUSSIAN.

He Found a Method of Beating His Persian Creditor.

In Persia, when a creditor fails to get
his money in any other way, he appears
in the debtor's house and sits down.
Then he does not move away till the
delinquent pays up. He enters the debt-
or's sleeping apartments, if possible, and
has his meals brought in. A few years
ago a Persian held an unsatisfied claim
against the British government, and he
presented himself before the British
minister one day and camped out in his
private office. The minister did not see
the joke, and sent for a policeman. That
made a lot of noise and trouble, and the Russian representative in Teheran evidently learned a lesson from it, for he
managed a case of the same kind much
differently.

The Persian who demanded money
from the Russian (Count Kolomeisow)
was a holy man, a dervish, and when he
sat down in the Russian's anteroom to
wait till the latter paid his disputed
claim Count Kolomeisow knew that he could not get rid of him without much
fuss and explanation. It is against the
laws, or at least the custom, which is
just as firm, to touch a creditor who
takes this means of collecting money,
so the count could not throw him out.
He thought over the matter, and one
morning he sent for a lot of masons.
Then he ordered them to build a wall
around the dervish, who was sitting in
the middle of the room. The dervish
watched them placidly at first, but
when the wall grew and it became apparent that it would be completed soon
he jumped over it, ran away and has not been seen since. They say that the count is the first man in Teheran who
has beaten a creditor of this kind without recourse to the police.—New York

DEEP SEA WATER.

At One Thousand Fathoms Its Pres-
sure Is a Ton to the Square Inch.

When marine life began to command
notice, the question of the depth to
which life could extend divided scientific thought into warring camps. About 1840, it was generally believed that the
bathymetric limit was about 300 fath-
oms, and some strange ideas were current as to the physical condition of water when under a pressure such as a
depth of two miles would produce. It
was thought that skeletons of drowned
men, or even heavy cannon and the
"wedges of gold" that popular imagination places in the sea, floated at certain
levels, beneath which is water so com-
pressed as to be impenetrable. In fact,
water is almost incompressible, and the
weight of a cubic inch of it at the depth
of a mile is very little more than at the
surface, but it was assumed that no living being could survive a pressure
which at 1,000 fathoms is about a ton
to the square inch.

We ourselves live under a pressure of
about 15 pounds per inch, and are unaware of it. Indeed we sometimes waken on a morning when the barometer has risen, say, half an inch during
the night, and consequently find ourselves sustaining an increased pressure
of several tons not only without suffering, but with a positive feeling of buoyancy and good spirits. On the other hand, if the tremendous pressure under which we live be relieved as by a surgical "cup," severe injury may follow.
Aeronauts suffer from this cause, and
marine animals dredged from great
depth often reach the surface in a most
lamentable condition, with eyes protrud-
ing and viscera distended.—Dr. C. M.
view.

Not Reassuring.

That an answer may be cheerful and
yet far from reassuring is once more
proved out of the mouth of a young Irishman.

He was acting as guide to a party of Americans who, in the course of a day's
excursion during their visit to Ireland,
were wandering over a picturesque, des-
erted castle.

"It seems very unsafe," said one of
the party, as they groped and stumbled
along a dark passage. "These floors are
loose, I know."

"Yes," said another timid person,
"and I wish I could see the blue sky
above me. This seems like a dungeon,
not a ruin!"

"Is it the blue sky ye'd be seein',
miss?" said the voice of the guide, some
feet in advance. "Why, may the saints
preserve ye for an innocent! It's the
roof, an' nowt else, that kapes the walls
together, miss!"—Youth's Companion.

He Could Get Them.

When he was a Harvard student, the
late Sherman Hoar became famous as a
maker of epigrams. One evening he had been indulging in his usual style of
conversation in the rooms of Professor
D., a man after his own heart, but too
apt to interlard his lectures with apparently original witticisms taken, after
the manner of Moliere, wherever he
found them. When Hoar and a fellow
student had left the academic presence,
the latter enthusiastically cried: "By Jove, Sherman, how do you manage
it? I wish I could remember all the
bright things you said just now."
"Go to D.'s lecture tomorrow and
take notes," said Hoar. "You'll get
them then."—Exchange.

THE TOBACCO HABIT.

HAVE YOU GOT IT, AND DO YOU
WANT TO LOSE IT?

A Chicago Specialist Says That a
Sure Cure For "My Lady Nicotine"
Can Be Found in the Plentiful Use
of the Humble Peanut.

However fantastic my particular
method of dealing with the tobacco hab-
it may seem on paper it will effect a cure if faithfully carried out. In the first place, be sure that your patient
really desires to break off the habit of
using tobacco. In the second place, remember that your patient will react according to the impression your manner
makes upon his mind. If you speak
lightly of your method of treating him,
he will hold that method in small esteem. Therefore, speak impressively,
and if he smiles at your modus operandi
frown him into a decent humility.

Suggestion alone is not sufficient to
hold the average tobacco user, and you
will therefore add a material medicine
in the shape of—peanuts! Yes, my friend, ludicrous as the idea seems, there
lies in the vulgar peanut a charm to sap
the power of "My Lady Nicotine" and
free the fettered slave.

In all drug habits there are two conditions to combat—physical and mental, or physiological and psychological.
I use peanuts to offset the physical crav-
ing and suggestion to calm the mind.

What is the condition of the user of
tobacco if the weed is withdrawn? It is important to understand this, because
there is but a slight variation in one
dozen cases from the average.

The condition is one of mental un-
rest, some physical sensations and nervousness. The withdrawal of tobacco
acts as a withdrawal of a powerful
nerve tonic, because this weed, used
first as a nerve sedative, becomes by
force of usage a nerve stimulant. Let
us take the mental condition first under consideration. I do not try to put a tobacco user to sleep, because it is an un-
necessary performance, but give him
positive suggestions while he is sitting
opposite me to the following effect:

That it will be easy to break him of
the habit.

That he will not suffer, despite the fact that he has tried to break off previously, but has failed on account of
the discomfort ensuing.

That he is not a hero or a being to be pitied or sympathized with, because he
will not be called upon to display any
heroic qualities of endurance.

That if he follows directions he will
not suffer from nervousness or "sink-
ings" at the pit of the stomach.

That he will begin at once to gain in weight; that his memory will be sharper and more tenacious, and that his digestive organs will regain tone; that
his nerves will be as steel, his muscles
as iron and his complexion will lose the
muddy hue which mars its comeliness.

That the habit is uncleanly—in fact,
degrading—and that its gratification
entails a gross waste of money. What
right has he to literally burn his income
when his wife is compelled to wear a
gown that is out of date?

Thus, then, do I prepare the patient's
mind for the lightness of the task before him, laying special stress upon the fact that he will at no time consider
himself an object of compassion or self
pity, for if he believe himself to be performing a deed of no small heroism he
will suffer agonies, whereas if his abneg-
ation is ignored and taken as a matter
of course he will react accordingly.

Now, as to the physical symptoms,
they will be but slight if the above
preparation of the mind is properly
done and will show themselves in occasional pains about the region of the
heart, sinking at the pit of the stomach,
a lassitude, weak and accelerated pulse
and muscular twitchings. Nervousness,
jumping at a sudden noise and irrita-
bility of temper will be in evidence, but
will be greatly modified by suggestion.

Prescribe peanuts, to be eaten slowly,
constantly and continually. He must be occupied. Busy him therefore with peanuts. He would, if left alone, think
tobacco. He must, on the contrary,
think peanuts. Has he a loathing for peanuts? All the better. He will learn
to love them for their nutritious qualities and intrinsic flavor. Does his stomach rebel on the second or third day?
Has he biliousness or colic? It is still
well, because no man when bilious desires tobacco.

Observe that you are supplying him
with material for his digestive organs
to work upon, and that his jaws are
not idle. There is no vacuum, and there
will be under this regimen no sinking
at the pit of the stomach. A feeling of
fullness perhaps, a plethoric condition,
a sense of satiety, but this is exactly
what we desire to bring about. Keep
the system busy and at work; keep the
mind at rest.

Ah, my friends, how true it is that
the mouse may gnaw the ropes that
bind the lion! Even the plebeian peanut
may be the means of restoring harmony
to an afflicted household. I have known
this humble agent, taken according to
directions, stretch strong men upon beds
of sickness from which they rose in the course of a day or two clean of heart
and purged of the craving for tobacco.
I have known of others whose stomachs
were not upset and who went their way
rejoicing and waxed fat speedily.

I have never known of a failure if
the above directions were carried out.

The tobacco habit is not worthy to be
classed as a drug habit.—Sydney Flower, LL. D., in New York Herald.

MICA MINES OF INDIA.

The Methods of Hundreds of Years
Ago Still in Use.

The mica mines of India are in the interior of the country and very inaccessible. The Abruher mine, it is stated,
produces the finest mica that has ever
been mined, both for lamination and
color. It has been sunk about 200 feet,
following the pitch of the vein, and all
this mica and refuse have been raised
and carried away by the natives. No
machinery of any kind except drill and
hammers is used in their mining operations.

The refuse and the mica are placed
in baskets each holding ten pounds, the
baskets being passed up from hand to
hand by women, who stand in a line on ladders. The contents of the baskets are deposited at the top, and the baskets are
returned down the ladder in the same manner as they went up, but by another
line of women. Water is taken out of the mines by means of jugs. It is supposed that this method of operation
has been carried on for many hundreds
of years, except that there is more care
to protect the miners.

After the crude mica is taken from
the mines it is first roughly trimmed
and then sorted into different grades,
according to sizes and quality. It is
then taken to the mica workers, who
split it up and scribe out the size for it
to be cut into by the shearers, the cut
pieces then being cleaned, weighed and
packed ready for shipment. The mica
is then transported to general ware-
houses in baskets on the backs of bul-
locks and in bullock carts. In this way
it is carried hundreds of miles to shipping points at a speed of about ten
miles a day.

The mica can be split down to .0003
of an inch in thickness. Being both
fireproof and transparent, it is very useful for many purposes in the arts, besides being an excellent insulator.—

COLOR BLIND PAINTERS.

A London Oculist Asserts That There
Are Such Artists.

To speak of a color blind artist sounds
like joking, said a noted oculist; but,
strange as it seems, there are several
persons so affected who can nevertheless
paint extremely well. Numbers of color
blind people there are, of course, who
draw perfectly in pencil, ink and cray-
ons, but I myself know a scene painter
attached to a provincial theater who,
though "color blind," paints all its
scenery, and has quite a local name,
not only for his "interiors" and oak
chambers, but even for landscapes.

I can tell you also of two London ladies who consulted me for color blind-
ness who paint really beautiful pictures.
One is the daughter of a late famous
artist and was taught painting by her
father. She is quite unable to distinguish red from green, but her colors are
all labeled with the names, and she
has been taught which to use for certain effects. Possibly her painting may
seem to her eyes, as it were, drawing
with a brush and "shading" with the
colors.

The other is a lady artist of some
celebrity, who has for years exhibited
annually in London. The public is not aware that she is color blind. She painted the "Wedding Group" for a
certain noble bridegroom a year or two
ago and also several public men's por-
traits and one of an eminent physician
fetched 500 guineas.

There is a gentleman residing at Kensington who, having years ago left
the navy through finding his advancement hopelessly barred by his color
blindness, is at present making several
hundreds a year by his brush as an artist, designing most artistic and
brightly colored picture posters for advertisement hoardings.—London Answers.

Carved His Epitaph and Died.

"John Harmon died here from the
bite of a rattlesnake."

This is an inscription on a beech tree
standing on the knobs, in Monroe township, back of Jeffersonville. A date
once followed the words, but it is now
indistinct. There is a strange story connected with the inscription. An old
resident relates it.

"Years ago, when that section of Indiana was little explored and when
the heavy bush was the dwelling place
of the wild turkey, deer and rattlesnake,
John Harmon started to Charlestown
to attend court. He was armed with an old fashioned rifle. A rattler bit Harmon's leg. Harmon killed the reptile.
Then he began to prepare for death. It
was he who carved the words in lighter
lines on the tree, with the request beneath, long since obliterated by the
tree's growth, to bury him on the spot.
A few days later Harmon's body was found. A grave was dug by the tree and
there it can be seen today."—Louisville

Kipling's Response.

The Cantab, the Cambridge university weekly, asked Mr. Rudyard Kip-
ling to contribute to its columns. In response came the following reply:

There once was a writer who wrote:
"Dear Sir—In reply to your note
of yesterday's date,
I am sorry to state
it's no good at the price you quote."

If your health is not strong
and vigorous it is a simple
and sensible thing to write to
Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain from
him and his staff of eminent specialists,
without charge, professional advice which
will enable you to put your constitution on
a solid basis of health and strength forth-
with, before these ailments have a chance
to reduce you to a physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is
acknowledged as the most wonderful medicine ever devised for those diseases which
are caused by imperfect action of the liver
and digestive organs.

Mr. F. M. Robinson, of Xenophon, Hancock
Co., Tenn., says in a letter to Dr. Pierce: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and torpid liver. I tried different doctors with but little result. I could scarcely eat anything—it would put me in
such dreadful distress in my stomach. I had a dull aching pain in my stomach, and continual
hurting behind my shoulders, bad taste in my
mouth, tongue coated brown, had faint spells
with a tired worn-out feeling. I took eleven
bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and received great benefit. I am now able to work, I
it had not been for this wonderful remedy I believe I would not be living to-day."

The most difficult diseases to cure are those which are aggravated by constipation.
In such cases Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken in conjunction with the "Discovery." They never gripe. All good dealers sell them.

WHAT IT MEANS.

To An East Liverpool Citizen.
No Experiment Required.

People with bad backs are always looking for relief.

Plasters helped at first, but their effect
lessened with use.

Liniments acted the same way.
They didn't reach the cause.
The kidneys can't be plastered.
Can't be rubbed with liniment.
And in most cases the kidneys are the cause.

Doan's Kidney Pills do it all.
They reach the kidney's action.
Do you realize what that means?
It means no more backache.
If you take Doan's Kidney Pills.
No more urinary troubles.
It means well kidney's and health.
No need to experiment to find relief.
Doan's Kidney Pills Cure.

East Liverpool people say so.
Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, printer at the D. E. McNicol pottery and a resident of East Liverpool for the past forty-five years, says: "During my campaign experience between the years of 61 and 64, contracted a weakness of the kidneys which bothered me more or less ever since. I had a constant aching pain across the small of my back and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp or changeable weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down, and, in fact, could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies in an endeavor to get rid of my trouble, but found nothing that seemed suited to my case until I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy.
They filled the bill exactly, giving me almost immediate relief and warded off the last attack. I do not hesitate to give Doan's Kidney Pills my earnest endorsement, believing they will be a great source of benefit to those troubled as I was."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents or mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and

His Feelings Were Hurt.

"I used to think these mother-in-law jokes were fiction," said a young man with a fancy vest and a receding chin.
"but I guess they're justifiable."

"Has yours been cruel to you?"

"Yes. I told two or three of these stories about a man's being glad to be rid of his wife's mother, and she said that if I kept on talking in that manner she'd stop paying the house rent and the coal bill and the taxes, and that she'd take her furniture to fix up a home of her own. The idea of threatening a man in that way, in cold blood!"
—Washington Star.

Two Extremes.

"My ambition," said a French writer,
"is to condense a book into a chapter,
a chapter into a paragraph, a paragraph into a phrase." A teacher in one of our colleges said of Richardson, "His ambition was to expand a phrase into a paragraph, a paragraph into a page, a page into a chapter and a chapter into a volume."—New York Commercial

WELLSVILLE.

CALLED THE ELECTION

Councilman Will Be Chosen
In the Fourth Ward

THREE WEEKS FROM YESTERDAY

Mayor Dennis Has Issued the Proclamation, and Candidates Are Now Being Discussed--Town In Darkness Last Night. All the News.

Mayor Dennis has issued a proclamation ordering a special election to be held in the Fourth ward, Dec. 20, for the purpose of filling the vacancy in council created by the resignation of Bernard Rand.

A number of candidates have been mentioned in connection with the vacancy, and it is said that others will be in the field within a very few days. It is not believed, however, that the campaign will be particularly lively.

No Light.

Our town was in darkness last night owing to an accident at the electric light plant. Yesterday morning a cylinder was blown out, and though the men worked hard it could not be repaired in time for use last night.

The News of Wellsville.

Master Mechanic Sweeley, A. Smith and J. W. Menough are in Allegheny on business for the railroad company.

Miss Ruby Sheets is on the sick list.

Louis McCreary, of the shops, is unable for duty on account of grip.

Rev. H. Newton Miller is visiting friends in Pennsylvania. He will return on Saturday.

The teachers of the West End school were entertained at dinner at 5 o'clock last evening at Rev. C. L. V. McKee's residence.

Joseph Wehmer, machinist at the railroad shops, has accepted a similar position in Allegheny and will move his family there.

Miss Mary Bright is in Pittsburg today on business.

Clarence Stahl has accepted a position in the office of the rolling mill. He assumed his new duties today.

John Nixon, Cass Orr and three other bricklayers went out to Hudson today where they will lay a brick platform at the station similar to the one at our upper depot.

Fireman E. J. Aseby caught an owl at Bayard on Thanksgiving and kept it until last evening. The bird carried such a forlorn aspect that it touched the heart of its captor, and it was set at liberty.

There was a meeting of the Young Men's Jolly Athletic association held last evening at the residence of J. W. Myers on Seventh street.

The meetings of the M. E. quarterly conference are now in progress at the First M. E. church. Dr. H. S. Jackson, presiding elder, is present. Thursday evening a sermon from Dr. Jackson will be followed by a grand conference session.

E. R. Riddle and J. M. McBride, of Lisbon, are in town today. They came over in the hack yesterday and went from here to Liverpool.

W. J. Bartholomew, of Indianapolis, is in town on business today.

George P. Wilson, of Steubenville, is in town today.

The case of Allman against the city of Wellsville will be heard in Lisbon tomorrow. Attorney Lones will represent the city. In the case of Edward Bunting versus the city of East Liverpool, Lones and Ingram will represent the plaintiff.

Mrs. J. M. Leclere, who has been ill with grip for the past three weeks, had been improving, but she has again suffered a relapse and is quite ill.

D. F. Steiner went out to Salineville on business today.

Miss Hallock was a guest of N. Chamney last night. She was on her way home after visiting friends in Wheeling.

The pop corn social conducted by the church of the Immaculate Conception last night was most successful. Michael Dalton received the house and lot, Mrs. W. L. Fogo the jardieniers, Chas. Ewing the turkey and Mrs. O'Grady the picture painted by Sister Evangelista.

Miss Ellen Fitzgerald died yesterday after a brief illness. Her brother, Daniel Fitzgerald, was buried last Monday. Funeral services will be held at the church of the Immaculate Conception Thursday at 9 o'clock.

MANILA STREET SCENES.

Barefooted Milkmen and Human Drays Which Move Planos.

Manila cannot be said to be up with the rest of the world as regards milk carts and express wagons. True, a milk service is there, and it is no trouble for a family to have their household furniture moved, but no horses figure in the operation. The milkman carries his stock in trade, generally the milk of the water buffalo, in a jar hung on a stick over his shoulder. On the other end of the stick is the pitcher with which to dole the milk out to his customers. When passing from one house to the other the milkman, barefooted and barelegged, assumes a regular dog trot and reminds one of the small boy playing stick horse, except that the stick is over his shoulder.

The "drays" of the city are mostly Chinese. Whether it is a grand piano or an office safe that is to be moved, the man who has the placing of the job falls in one or a dozen of these powerfully built and scantily clad fellows, who always seem to be going some place, either with a load on their shoulders or carrying a smooth bamboo pole with some bits of rope or bamboo slings upon it. When the burden is divisible, the Chinaman puts half on each end of the pole and placing his shoulder, which seems to be of pure gristle, in the center of the pole, works his legs until the load arrives at its consignment place. When the burden is cumbersome, it is slung on the center of the pole and one man shoulders each end. The pace assumed reminds one of the person who has swung on to a too heavy load and has resolved to cover as much ground as possible with it before he drops it. The Manila express wagon never drops his load. He even changes shoulders as he glides along. These fellows are perfect specimens of manhood, and never fail to elicit admiration from the American soldier boys as they hustle past, shoulders bared and glistening in the hot sun, barefooted and clad in short pyjamas or breechclout. It is safe to say each one can carry a burden several times his own weight. The muscles in their backs are wonderfully developed, and as to their legs—they would make wonderful bicycle propellers.—Cor. Rocky Mountain News.

QUEEN AMONG SAVAGES.

Two White Women In New Zealand Refuse to Return to Civilization.

A party of explorers in New Zealand say that while traveling the wilds of the colony, where men seldom penetrate and where the natives know no law but that of their own making, they discovered two white women about 40 years old, clothed, like savage Maoris, in extremely scanty attire. They spent a week endeavoring to induce the women to return, but they had become so accustomed to life among savages that they refused the aid of the explorers. They said they had been stolen when young women, had taken Maori husbands and had grown to like their untrammelled existence and were fond of their black husbands.

They were fairly worshiped by the natives and said they would not exchange their lot for that of society belles in an Australian city. They were once English college girls of good families. They refused to give their maiden names, but were known among their adopted people as the Chief's White Plume and Sunshine on Rippling Water.

UNION PAPERS.
 All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of
 the city by the printing of the above
 Union Labels at the head of their columns

HAS any Democrat ever given any
 good reason why the Philippines should
 not come under the protection of the Stars and Stripes?

LITTLE surprise will be expressed at the announcement of Mr. Baufeld that he knows of no tin mill project for the Virginia side. Capitalists are not now
 putting their money in tin. The supply
 seems to have reached the demand.

THE matter of paying private soldiers
 more than $13 a month is receiving consideration from men high in the government. Whether they will gauge the
 valor and efficiency of the American soldier at that amount remains to be
 seen.

Now that East Liverpool will
 take up the tramp nuisance and deal
 with it as some other towns have done
 something interesting can be expected.
 East Liverpool is known far and
 wide among the fraternity as an open
 town so far as tramps are concerned,
 and the fraternity never miss an opportunity to avail themselves of the

ANDREW CARNEGIE has done some
 above the heads of ordinary humanity,
 but he has never done anything to warrant the presumptuous utterances he
 seems so anxious to make since he announced his policy of fighting President
 McKinley. However, if he can find
 amusement in a cause so unwarranted,
 Andrew should not be interrupted, for he
 certainly can do the President no harm.

A MORMON IN CONGRESS.

The election to congress of B. H.
 Roberts, a prominent polygamist of the church of Latter Day Saints, will doubtless cause more commotion than a similar event in many years, as it shows the power of the Mormon priesthood in
 politics.

Roberts is perhaps the best example
 of Mormon influence seen in public life
 during late years. When the territory
 was admitted to statehood he manfully
 stood by the promise that church and
 politics should not go hand in hand. He
 was deprived of his high position in the
 church, but continued his fight through
 a Salt Lake newspaper. The elders,
 who, it seems, had never seriously intended to obey the law or keep their
 promises regarding polygamy, had been
 regaining their influence and preparing
 to control every political power in Utah.
 They needed Roberts and he was sum-
 moned before the high church officials
 who wept and prayed with him for
 weeks. At length he saw the "error"
 of his way, and renounced his former
 position. For this he was rewarded
 with the election to congress, the church
 using every means at its command to
 bring about the desired result.

The seat in congress will be contested
 by the Populist candidate, and the Mormon church will fight hard to keep him
 from Washington. Then the country will know what a descendant of Brigham
 Young has already said, "Mormonism
 has thrown down the gauntlet to the nation."

WAS QUICKLY SETTLED

Albert Dinerstein Was Not Tried by Squire Hill

BECAUSE OF GREEN'S LOST MONEY

The Parties Held a Conference After All
 the Witnesses Had Assembled, and Decided to Keep It Out of Court—Terms of
 the Settlement.

The case of Philip J. Green against Albert Dinerstein, to have been heard
 yesterday afternoon in the court of Squire Hill, was settled out of court and
 the charge withdrawn.

Green lost a pocketbook a short time
 ago, and heard that Dinerstein had found
 it and confiscated the money to his own
 use. Dinerstein was arrested by Constable Miller, plead not guilty and gave
 bail in the sum of $150 for his appearance at court.

Yesterday afternoon at the time set
 for the trial a number of witnesses were present, but Mr. Dinerstein and his attorney and Mr. Green retired to another part of the room and talked the
 matter over, and the charge was withdrawn and the witnesses dismissed.

It is understood that the case was
 settled by Dinerstein paying Green $50
 and giving his note for the balance of the $96. He also paid the costs in the case.

COMING HOME FROM MANILA.

His Papers Finally Reached the Right
 Source.

Just before the writer left Manila,
 Frank B. Hargrave, Quartermaster Mc-
 Cormick's clerk in the Tenth Pennsylvania Infantry, received a cable telegram
 from the United States, informing him
 that his mother had been stricken with
 apoplexy and would probably die. Har-
 grave made application for a furlough.
 Col. A. L. Hawkins did everything in his power to win a favorable response
 from division headquarters, but all in
 vain, as the imperative order from corps
 headquarters, was that no furloughs
 would be granted and no resignations
 accepted until further orders. Hargrave
 was the nominee of the Republican party for the berth of legislator, and he
 has since been elected. He told his sad story to the writer as the latter was about starting for the wharf in order to go aboard the Peru, bound for the United States, and placed in his care a letter to be delivered to relatives of Hargrave in Homestead, Pa., and that letter was delivered promptly. Private Hargrave has been practicing law in Greensburg, Westmoreland county, Pa.
 He is a bright and brainy young fellow,
 deservedly popular in the community
 in which he resides and has a host of friends in the gallant Tenth Pennsylvania Infantry. The writer has not yet heard the result of his mother's sickness, but sincerely hopes that the lady has fully recovered and that she will be able to meet and greet and love her brave and patriotic son.

McKINNON IS A WINNER

In His Suit Against G.B.Harvey and E. M. Knowles.

TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT

Were Such, According to the Decision of Judge Smith, as to Give Him Advantage and They Must Pay--News Gathered About the Courthouse.

LISBON, Nov. 30 —[Special]—In the case of M. R. McKinnon against George B. Harvey and Edwin M. Knowles, Judge Smith rendered a decision today. The defendants purchased land in East Liverpool from the plaintiff on a land contract with a clause reading as follows: "If the said parties of the second part (the defendants) shall fail to make any of the payments, either of principal, interest or taxes, then this contract shall be forfeited or the parties of the second part, and the party of the first part may retain in his hands the amount paid and possess all improvements on land." The defendants failed in making certain payments and contended their failure to pay broke the contract, and the plaintiff was bound to take back the land.

The court held that the defendants were liable under the contract; that it was discretionary with the plaintiff whether he should take advantage of the default of the defendants. They were ordered to pay the amount claimed by McKinnon, $1,000. While giving his decision, Judge Smith said the contract was written unskillfully or very skillfully.

COUNCIL AFTER BUMS

Mr. Peach Called Attention to the Ordinance.

MAYOR BOUGH TO ENFORCE IT

A Motion Was Passed Calling Upon Him to Arrest All Tramps as Vagrants and Put Them to Work on the Streets Until Fines and Costs Are Paid.

Council met last evening in special session.

The contract for paving Jethro street, from Division street to the West End bridge, was awarded to Harrison Rinehart at 94 cents per square yard. He was the only bidder, and was given 30 days in which to complete the contract, and a penalty of $5 per day was attached.

Mr. Peach called attention to the number of tramps that infest the city, and said that it had become so that parties living in the suburbs were not safe. He stated that the city had justly earned a reputation for being the most lenient in the state in regard to tramps, and that they came here in large numbers in the fall and many of them remained all winter. The reason for this was they were treated too well by the citizens and he thought it was time the practice was broken up.

A motion was unanimously passed requesting Mayor Bough to enforce the vagrant law, and the tramps will be put to work on the streets until their fines and costs are paid. Council, if necessary, will employ a man to look after them and see that they do the work.

FORFEITED HIS BOND

John Snodgrass Did Not Appear at City Hall

TO ANSWER TO THE CHARGE

Placed Against Him Yesterday of Assault With Intent to Rob--The Witnesses Were Paid and the Police Are Looking For Him.

A charge of assault with intent to rob has been placed against John Snodgrass, the young man who was arrested Saturday night by Officer Woods. It was the intention of the mayor yesterday after consulting with other parties to increase his bond of $50, but that was not done at a late hour this morning. Snodgrass, with his wife, was at city hall for almost two hours yesterday afternoon, but did not see the mayor who was out at that time.

Snodgrass failed to appear at city hall this afternoon at the time set for his hearing, and forfeited his bond of $50. A diligent search for him failed to reveal his whereabouts, and it is thought he has left for other parts.

The witnesses present were William Louthan, Robert Faulkner, Mrs. Alice J. Hunt, George Freeman and Edward McHenry. They were paid their fees and permitted to go.

The police will keep on the lookout for Snodgrass, and he will be arrested should he return to the city.

Last evening a peculiar incident occurred at city hall.

About 9 o'clock a colored man, working in a saloon opposite city hall, came in the mayor's office and said an unknown man had been robbed of a watch and the party who took it was now in the saloon. Officer Mahony, who was there, responded to the call, and when he came back he had a man named Wilson in custody.

"What shall I do with him" inquired the officer of an individual who was there.

"Lock him up until the mayor or Chief Johnson comes" was the reply.

Wilson was put in jail and at a late hour no charge except suspicion was against him.

Wilson went in the saloon about half an hour previous to the occurrence and noticed a man lying on the floor in a stupor. He remarked that he should be given some air, and he, with another man, carried him to a tent used as a stable in the yard. He came back to the bar, and shortly afterward the man came in and said his watch was missing. He then went out and nothing has been seen of him since.

Colonel Dick's Name Was Not Mentioned, but Adjutant Maynes and Quartermaster Kuhns Are Included in the List—Statement From Bucyrus.

So much has been said concerning the troubles in the Eighth Ohio and an alleged round robin prepared for presentation to Colonel Hard that the following from the Bucyrus Forum is interesting to soldiers and citizens alike. It is the statement of Captain Charlton, commanding A company:

"The fact of the matter is that there was never a petition of any kind in writing, from the officers or men of the Eighth. The dissatisfaction with Colonel Hard's administration dates back to the beginning of service as U. S. volunteers, and had grown to such an extent, that the men demanded their discharges from the O. N. G. If Colonel Hard was going to remain, they were not. The officers, desiring to maintain the regiment, called a meeting and discussed the situation. It was unanimously decided that it was to the best interests of the regiment that Colonel Hard, together with his adjutant, Captain Maynes, and Quartermaster Kuhns retire for the O. N. G. service. According to the officers' wishes Major Chas. Weybrecht was selected to wait upon the colonel and inform him of the situation in the regiment.

"Colonel's Dick's name was not mentioned in connection with Colonel Hard's as there is no complaint of any kind against the former. He is one of the best officers in the regiment and will be elected colonel when Colonel Hard retires. Colonel Dick was one of the most faithful workers with the sick in Cuba and at Montauk Point. His ability was recognized by General Shafter when he selected him to come north and make an appeal to the president to get our army out of Cuba.

"The reasons of the officers and men for Colonel Hard's retirement are many and they are not the outgrowth of ambitious officers desiring promotion; in fact, promotions were not talked of, as it has always been the custom in our regiment to promote in order of rank. In the event Colonel Hard retires the colonelcy would fall to Colonel Dick and the senior major, Edward Vollrath, would be elected lieutenant-colonel. This would promote Captain Critchfield to a majorship.

M. A. CHARLTON,
Captain Company A."

LEWIS MAY LOSE

Because He Has Been Dubbing Too Freely in Politics.

The political man of the Columbus Journal writes the following of interest to union men:

"It is understood that Tom L. Lewis, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, will have considerable opposition to his re-election at the meeting of that body to be held in Zanesville on the 6th of December. It is charged that Mr. Lewis has been paying too much attention to politics, and that his activity in that line has injured his influence as president of the organization."

On the River.

Another rise is looked for on the Ohio before many days. Rain is predicted, and the present fall in the river may be checked by tomorrow afternoon.

Most of the towboats which went out on the last rise have returned to the Pittsburgh harbor, but those that went through to New Orleans will not get back until Christmas.

The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 53 feet, only a slight fall since yesterday.

The Queen City and Avalon will be down tonight, and the Ben Har is due up late tonight.

Unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft.

Conspicuous among the brilliant and beautiful women of her time was the lovely and every way unfortunate Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin, the first agitator of the question of "woman's rights." No woman, with the exception of Mme. de Staël, made so great an impression on the public mind. Her new and startling doctrines were seized with an avidity scarcely credible at this day, and her famous book, "The Vindication of the Rights of Women," was the theme of the most universal praise and abuse.

Thomas Paine, the author of "The Rights of Man," was one of her familiar acquaintances, but their intercourse was an argument, their views neither on this subject nor any other coinciding. In these arguments Paine either lost his temper or became sulky, and the woman champion won an easy victory.

Until her marriage with Mr. Godwin she was the friend of Mrs. Siddons, but she, with the majority of her admirers, declined to sanction this union, for she had married some years before an American called Imlay, to whom she had been a most devoted wife. The man, however, took advantage of the fact that the marriage was only a civil one, performed in Paris, and deserted her. She then married Mr. Godwin, but this act placed her in a position no charity could explain away. Death, however, soon covered her faults with a pitiful oblivion. She left an infant daughter a few hours old, who afterward became the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley.—Exchange.

Excessive Precaution.

A southwest Georgia couple going to be married, the prospective husband said:

"Molly, the last time I was married I lost the ring fore I got to the parson's. But I'm shore of it this time."

"Whar is it, John?" she asked.

"I've got it in my mouth," he said.

"Im shore of it now."

But when they stood before the preacher the latter asked:

"Where is the ring?"

The groom gulped—choked—stuttered, and finally exclaimed in despair:

"Fore de Lord, I done swallered it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Feeder.

Bandin—Killumkwick, the reading editor of The Asterisk, is a busy fellow. I saw him at the office today with a wastebasket beside him filled to the brim.

Tetlow—Yes, confound him! But I'll bet I furnished the most of the material. He couldn't fill the basket if he didn't have the stuff to fill it, could he?—Boston Transcript.

Willful Blindness.

As we look through a telescope and obtain a glimpse of the wonders it reveals or as we study the results which have been attained by experts in its use the mind is naturally impressed with the grandeur and power of the Creator of the heavenly bodies. When we learn something of their movements through space, movements so absolutely accurate that their phases and positions can be foretold with perfect certainty long centuries in advance, defying competition by the most perfect instruments of human devising, it is impossible with any show of reason to deny the controlling presence of an infinite mind.—Episcopal Recorder.

After Long Years.

After long years work is visible. In agriculture you cannot see the growth. Pass that country two months after and there is a difference. We acquire firmness and experience incessantly. Every action, every word, every meal, is part of our trial and our discipline. We are assuredly ripening or else blighting. We are not conscious of those changes which go on quietly and gradually in the soul. We only count the shocks in our journey. Ambitions die, grace grows, as life goes on.—Frederick W. Robertson.

Up to the Light.

Hold your dull life up to the light and see how it will be transfigured. Life is not meant to be a path of ease, but steep and rugged, and it is only through self denial, discouragement, discipline and trial that you may attain the higher life. Believe me, you can no more develop the spiritual powers without use and exercise than you can the physical.—"Light on the Hidden Way."

No Other Refuge.

You will never find rest except in God. There is no refuge but in Him. Oh, what rest and composure there are in Him! It is more than sleep, more than calm, more than quiet; deeper than the dead stillness of the noiseless sea in its utmost depths, where it is undisturbed by the slightest ripple.—Episcopal Recorder.

My Portion.

To count no cost in time or will.
To simply try my place to fill.
To do because the act is right,
To live as living in His sight.
To try each day His will to know,
To tread the way His will may show,
To regulate each plan I make,
Each hope I build or hope I break,
To please the heart which pleases me
Through daily tireless ministry,
To live for Him who gave me life,
To strive for Him who suffered strife
And sacrifice through death for me—
Let this my joy, my portion be.
—George Kilgus.

A CITY NIGHT.

Come, let us forth and wander the rich,
The murmuring night.
The sky blue dusk of summer trembles
above the street.
On either side uprising glimmer houses
pale.
But me the turbulent bubble and voice of crowds delight.
For me the wheels make music, the mingled cries are sweet.
Motion and laughter call; we hear, we will not fail.

For see, in secret vista, with soft, retiring stars.
With clustered suns, that stare upon
the throng below.
With pendant dazzling moons, that cast a nocturnal white.
The full streets beckon. Come, for toil has burst his bars.
And idle eyes rejoice, and feet unheaving
go.
Oh, let us out and wander the gay and golden night.
—Lawrence Binyon in New York Tribune.

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

What Can Flit Through a Man's Brain in One Minute.

It is very certain that the majority of dreams are only of momentary duration, though extended occasionally to the length of a minute.

In proof of this Dr. Sholz tells the following story from his experience: "After excessive bodily fatigue and a day of mental strain of a not disagreeable kind I betook myself to bed after I had wound my watch and placed it on the night table. Then I lay down beside a burning lamp. Soon I found myself on the high sea on board a well known ship. I was again young and stood on the lookout. I heard the roar of water, and golden clouds floated around me. How long I stood so I did not know, but it seemed a very long time.

"Then the scene changed. I was in the country, and my long lost parents came to greet me. They sent me to church, where the loud organ sounded. I was delighted, but at the same time wondered to see my wife and children there. The priest mounted the pulpit and preached, but I could not understand what he said for the sound of the organ, which continued to play. I took my son by the hand, and with him ascended the church tower, but again the scene changed. Instead of being near my son I stood near an early known but long dead officer. I ought to explain that I was an army surgeon during the maneuvers. I was wondering why the major should look so young, when quite close to my ears a cannon sounded.

"Terrified, I was hurrying off, when I woke up and noticed that the supposed cannon shot had its cause in the opening of the bedroom door, through some one entering. It was as if I had lived through an eternity in my dream, but when I looked at my watch I saw that since I had fallen asleep not more than one minute had elapsed—a much shorter time than it takes to relate the occurrence."—St. Louis Republic.

The Ghost in "Hamlet."

Not many years ago at the Queen's theater, Dublin, during one of the late T. C. King's engagements, "Hamlet" was being played to a densely crowded house. The actor portraying the part of the Ghost solaced himself during his long wait from the first to the third act by perusing the evening paper, using his spectacles in so doing. Being interested in some article (probably the "weights" for an important handicap), he delayed leaving the greenroom until the moment of hearing his cue, when, hastily snatching up his truncheon, he rushed upon the stage without his beard of "sable silvered" or removing his spectacles.

A titter greeted his appearance, but still the solemnity of the darkened stage and the fine acting of King as Hamlet prevented any great outburst until the Queen, replying to Hamlet's question, "Do you see nothing there?" answered, "Nothing at all. Yet all that I see," when a voice from aloft exclaimed, "Lend her your specs, old boy," followed by another: "Hould your row. Sure he's put them on to see to shave himself."—Cornhill Magazine.

A Lawyer's Retort.

The greater number of cases are tried before judges without juries, and the occupants of the bench are accustomed to resent an eloquent appeal as something in the nature of an insult to their mental powers.

"Do you think to soften my heart," sarcastically asked a well known chancery judge when a member of the equity bar, making a rare attempt at rhetoric, drew a pathetic picture of his client's wrongs.

"My lord," replied the counsel, who who at once recognized the failure of his appeal, but was quick to find success in his retort, "I know it is impossible."—London Globe.

He Wasn't a Gormand.

That wary old fellow, Bailie Macdoff, was enticed into a friend's house the other night, and his host managed to win 50 shillings from him at "nap." What is more remarkable, when the bailie had parted with his last shilling he rose, full of wrath.

"Won't you stay to supper?" pressed his host. "We have a fine bit of ham waiting."

"No, not I. Dae ye think I eat 50 shillings' worth of ham?"—London Answers.

A Trifling Change.

"I guess I'm willing to go," said the

farmer, when they told him his hours would be but few. "It is just a change from havin my nose to the grindstone to havin it to the tombstone."—Indianapolis Journal.

Be Still and Know That I Am God.

God takes no pleasure in pain or sorrow, but He will impose both if thereby He may bring us to love Him or make us more like Himself. At such a time it is selfish, unbelieving, to complain and murmur—very wicked to find fault with God. There are medicines which, taken with wisdom and in moderation, baffle disease and restore health; but abused, they weaken and destroy. So with sickness and sorrow, as we please to use them. To some they are what God means them for all, a savor of life unto life; to others, a savor of death unto death. At such a time it is only wise to be very considerate, very humble, very submissive.—Lutheran Observer.

No Sure Sign.

Prominence in the church is no sure sign of personal piety and certain safety. Christ denominated the heads of the ecclesiastical departments of His day as a "generation of vipers," whose warning to flee from the wrath to come was as daring, and their heeding that warning was as astonishing as its worthlessness would be proved unless they "brought forth fruits meet for repentance." Hypocrisy will save no man because he happens to be the head of some ecclesiastical department.—Church Standard.

No Reason.

Because you are not of the most impious class of transgressors is no sufficient reason to despise others nor to boast before God how good you are, so that your prayer does not need to ask for the Divine mercy. Some have prayed for grace just because they have been so dreadfully wicked. Others in this age rather boast of their extra degree of sinfulness, thinking to make them apparently more fit for redemption.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Bagpipe Music.

A Glasgow paper thus analyzes the music of the bagpipe: "Big flies on window, 72 per cent; cats on midnight tiles, 11½ per cent; voices of infant puppies, 6 per cent; grunting hungry pigs in the morning, 5½ per cent; steam whistles, 8 per cent; chant of cricket, 2 per cent."

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

Captain Palmer Was Tendered a Reception.

VERY PLEASANT EVENING SPENT

For the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Were Also There to Add to the Occasion—Speeches of Welcome, and an Address by the Captain.

The reception tendered Captain Palmer at Grand Army hall last evening was indeed a pleasant affair. The hall was filled with veterans, their wives, sons and daughters, and all who were present enjoyed every minute of the time.

Soon after it was announced that the captain had been honorably discharged from further duty with the Tenth Pennsylvania, committees were appointed by the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief corps for the purpose of tendering him a reception as soon as possible after his return. The meeting last evening was the result of the committees' labors.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Abrams, who stated briefly the object of the meeting and introduced Mrs. Calhoun, who represented the Woman's Relief corps. In a happy little speech the lady welcomed the captain home, and recalled the days when mothers, wives and sweethearts longed for news of their soldier boys, battling bravely at the front that the Union might be preserved. She also paid a splendid tribute to Mrs. Palmer for the manner in which she bore up under the strain of her husband's absence.

N. T. Ashbaugh spoke on behalf of the Sons of Veterans, acknowledging that, while the boys did not know the horrors of the battlefield and the discomforts of camp life, they did know and could appreciate patriotism and sacrifice for country. He, too, extended to Captain Palmer a hearty welcome on behalf of the organization he represented, adding that every member was glad to see him home.

The address for the Grand Army was made by Prof. O. S. Reed, and eloquently did that gentleman fill the position. He brought back to the mind of many a veteran the day he marched away, and the stirring events which followed the early days of the civil war. Then he touched upon the causes of the late conflict and gloried in the fact that General Lyon post was represented among the army that went forth to conquer, remarking that had there been another call for troops and more men had been needed he would have gladly taken a place among the defenders of the flag, as doubtless many other veterans within the sound of his voice would have done.

He was followed by Mrs. Reed who sang "Down on the Ohio," and after the applause had died away Chairman Abrams introduced Captain Palmer, commending him for the part he had taken in the operations in and around Manila.

Captain Palmer spoke particularly of the battle in which the Tenth was engaged the night of July 31 and the two days following. He described minutely the operations of the regiment, and related a number of instances which showed the pluck of American soldiers under the most trying circumstances. He also referred to an article libeling Colonel Hawkins, which appeared in a Pittsburg paper of last Sunday, and said it was untrue since he had been near the colonel during the time mentioned, and noted his splendid bravery, "recklessness" he styled it. So pronounced was it that the colonel's men begged him to move to a place of at least comparative safety. The captain's talk was the most interesting he has made since his return from Manila, and was loudly applauded.

An appetizing lunch was served by the Sons of Veterans, and the remainder of the evening was spent delightfully. It was without question among the most pleasant events ever held in Grand Army hall.

NEW NATIONAL SOCIETY.

Organized to Foster True Patriotism and Honor Heroes of the War.

The National Society of the Spanish-American war, an outgrowth of the relief work done by some of the patriotic women during the late war, has been organized. Before the peace protocol was signed the women of Carlisle, Pa.; Grand Rapids and Baltimore started a movement to found local memorial societies, which has resulted in the organization of the National society with the following officers: President, Clara Barton; vice presidents, Mrs. John A. Logan, Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and Major General Nelson A. Miles; secretary, Dr. Hildegard H. Langsdorff of Carlisle, Pa.; chairman of the executive committee, Professor Guy Carleton Lee, Johns Hopkins university. The National advisory council is composed of the governors of the various states, together with other prominent Americans. The headquarters of the society are at Baltimore, and local councils of the society may, upon approval of the executive council, be formed in any community.

Membership in the society is open to all patriotic white Americans. Applications for membership must be approved by the executive council. Men and women share equally in the honors and duties of membership. The badge is a circular field of dark blue enamel, the edge of the field being worked into 13 points. On the field are 13 golden stars encircling the letters "L. W. F.," which stand for the motto of the society. This is, "Lest We Forget."

The executive officers wear signet rings in the form of eagles' claws grasping a card, upon which are engraved the letters "L. W. F." and the insignia of the rank of the wearer. The membership fee, payable to the National society, is $1 yearly. Patrons and patronesses pay $5 each year, and life members pay $100 in one payment. The local fees are regulated by the local councils. The local councils have great freedom of action. All that is required of them is unswerving fidelity to the purposes of the National society, the payment of the dues and certain work on Memorial day. All other work is left to the local authorities.

The purposes of the society are the building of a battle monument to the heroic dead of the Spanish-American war and the creation of a fund from which to provide memorial lectures commemorating the brave deeds of both the fallen heroes and courageous survivors of the last war. By means of these examples the society hopes to inculcate and foster true patriotism. It will issue from time to time to the press copy for readable articles of a patriotic nature. The main object of the society is "to train the youth of the land, by the examples of the last war, in good citizenship and earnest patriotism."—New York Tribune.

MILITARY NOSTALGIA CURE.

Colored Soldiers in Cuba Are Taking It, and Their Sweethearts Mourn.

Dr. Harrison, a colored physician of Wichita, Kan., recently received a letter from one of the Wichita boys with the Twenty-third Kansas volunteers, the colored regiment now at San Luis de Cuba, which has caused consternation among the colored people, and especially the women who had husbands or sweethearts in the company. In that letter the soldier states that six members of the Wichita company are engaged to marry Cuban girls and that many other members of the regiment are in love with Cuban and half breed Spanish women, who are said to be unusually good looking and attractive.

There were a number of married men among the recruits and others who had promised to marry Wichita girls on their return. It is the women who unwillingly allowed their sweethearts to go to Cuba that are most worried. They are afraid their "men" will fall prey to the attractions of the tropical amorettes and never come back to them. The letter says that it is probable that if the colored troops remain there a year almost one-half of them will marry natives and remain there.

The reason assigned for the wholesale slaughter of soldier hearts is that when the troops went there almost all of the boys were homesick and downhearted, and about the only relief they could find was in the smiles and charms of the beautiful native women. Then they learned something of the language love's charms were working and soon the soldier boys (some of them) forgot all about being homesick, so much were they enamored with their new sweethearts.—Topeka Capital.

Peace.

There is a peace that cometh after sorrow. Of hope surrendered, not of hope fulfilled;

A peace that looketh not upon tomorrow, But calmly on a tempest that is stilled;

A peace that lives not now in joy's excesses Nor in the happy life of love secure, But in the unerring strength the heart possesses Of conflicts won while learning to endure;

A peace there is in sacrifice secluded, A life subdued, from will and passion free. 'Tis not the peace that over Eden brooded, But that which triumphed in Gethsemane.

A DIPLOMATIC TRICK.

AN INCIDENT THAT PROVED THE CUNNING OF BISMARCK.

The Roundabout Manner in Which He Secured the Safe Transmission of His Official Correspondence to the Foreign Office.

Stepping to the counter, Herr von Bismarck asked a grinning young shop-boy in shirt sleeves, a blue linen apron, not of maiden freshness, and blessed with a pair of large, red, greasy paws, engaged in weighing some Dutch cheese, to oblige him with a sheet of writing paper, some sealing wax and a pen to direct a letter.

On the boy producing the needful with the traditional "What else, sir?" Bismarck said: "My hands are rather cold. You had better do it for me." And he handed the boy a couple of letters wrapped in the sheet of bluish paper forming an envelope, for in those days made up envelopes were still unknown in Germany. Evidently flattered by the request of such an imposing looking client, for Herr von Bismarck's tall hat was almost touching the ceiling of the squalid little shop, the greasy handed youth took the parcel, and, having closed it skillfully with some brown sealing wax and indorsed it with the initials of the firm, he returned it to its owner to write the address.

"Sorry, my friend, to give you more trouble," said the future chancellor in his jovial way, "but I can't manage to write with my gloves on, so just address it for me." And he handed him a penciled slip with the name of Herr Fritz Piepenbrink or some such name, oil and colonial warehouseman, No. 000 Friedrichs strasse, Berlin.

"Thank you, young man; that'll do capitally," and paying for the paper, etc., with a small tip to the oily boy with the stereotyped grin, he pocketed his letter, and we left the place to continue our walk.

"I dare say you are wondering why I treat my correspondents to such greasy, evil smelling missives?" And he showed me the cheesy finger marks of the boy on both sides of the improvised envelope. "I'll tell you a secret, and teach you a useful lesson for future times. You may some day thank me for the hint," exclaimed Herr von Bismarck, laughing heartily.

"You know we are blessed here in Frankfurt, as throughout all south Germany, with the Thurn and Taxis postal administration, a mine of wealth to that fortunate family, but the most wretchedly managed concern under the sun. As you may imagine, it is under the thumb of Austria, hence slow and the triumph of red tape, with a pronounced weakness for diving into other people's business and skimming, of course, the correspondence of all German and foreign envoys, accredited to the diet, with a preference for mine, the ever suspected Prussian culprit and traitor.

"They have established a regular black cabinet in the princely postoffice, where specially trained imperial and royal wisecracks peruse our prose with critical eye, transmitting copies of extracts of all 'treasonable' matter, or particularly interesting reports, to the august Ballplatz, where Gentand and after him Klindworth have established a lynch eye system of political espionage (politisches schnuffeln) extending all over Europe, and comprising eo ipso all German courts and chancelleries.

"Not being particularly anxious to gratify the morbid curiosity of our Austrian ally, I have thought it advisable to send important reports to the Berlin foreign office, as well as all my letters to the king, to Herr von Manteuffel, and to my sister and some particular friends, under cover to some mercantile firm in Berlin, changing frequently and usually asking a counter jumper in a cheesemonger's or oilman's shop to address them for me—and you can easily understand that the imperial and royal sniffers (schnuffler) don't manage to guess the correspondent of the Prussian representative under a greasy, ill smelling cover, such as you have seen.

"It stands to reason that the smell of cheese or herring and the scribbling of a shopboy must deceive sharper men than the Thurn and Taxis post officials and the specially delegated Austrian postoffice clerks. The only precaution I have to take is to go to different shops in quarters of the town where I am not known and to vary the Berlin address from time to time. Thus I'm perfectly safe.

"Le tour est joué, and I snap my fingers at the Ballplatz. It is simple enough, as you have seen, yet it wouldn't do to send everything through that channel, as they would otherwise get suspicious, so I treat my Austrian friends at least once a week to some of my diplomatic prose—unimportant stuff, and occasionally something I want them to know—or to believe," and he indulged in a boisterous laugh.—Baron de Malortie in Cornhill Magazine.

A Close Shave.

A circus paid a flying visit to a small country town, and the price of admission was sixpence, children under 10 years of age half price. It was Edith's tenth birthday, and her brother Tom, aged 13, took her in the afternoon to see the show. Arrived at the door, he put down ninepence and asked for two front seats.

"How old is the little girl?" asked the money taker doubtfully.

"Well," replied Master Tom, "this is her tenth birthday, but she was not born until rather late in the afternoon."

The money taker accepted the statement and handed him the tickets. But it was a close shave.—London Tit-Bits.

FEATHERED BAROMETERS.

Sailors Warned by Them of a Coming Storm.

While a British brig was gliding smoothly along before a good breeze in the south Pacific a flock of small birds about the size, shape and color of parakeets settled down in the rigging and passed an hour or more of resting. The second mate was so anxious to find out the species to which the visiting strangers belonged that he tried to entrap a specimen, but the birds were too shy to be thus caught and too spry to be seized by the quick hands of the sailors. At the end of about an hour the birds took the brig's course and disappeared, but toward nightfall they came back and passed the night in the maintop.

The next morning the birds flew off again, and when they returned at noon the sailors scattered some food about the decks. By this time the birds had become so tame that they hopped about the decks, picking up the crumbs. That afternoon an astonishing thing happened. The flock came flying swiftly toward the brig. Every bird seemed to be piping as if pursued by some little invisible enemy on wings, and they at once huddled down behind the deck-house. The superstitious sailors at once called the captain of the brig, who rubbed his eyes and looked at the barometer. A glance showed that something was wrong with the elements, and the brig was put in shape to outride a storm.

The storm came about 20 minutes after the birds had reached the vessel. For a few minutes the sky was like the waterless bottom of a lake—a vast arch of yellowish mud—and torrents of rain fell. Why it did not blow very hard no one knows, but on reaching port two days later the captain learned that a great tornado had swept across that part of the sea. The birds left the vessel on the morning after the storm and were not seen again.—Maryland Bulletin.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

The Widower Made Plans For His Fourth Honeymoon.

Included in the wide membership of the Pacific Union club is a middle aged man whom everybody knows simply as the Widower. He has been so fortunate as to outlive three consorts without getting tired of any of them. His many bereavements have given him a sort of professional standing in the world of sorrow, and he is rather proud of his reputation for constant mourning.

The Widower, whose grief is interesting to ladies, is never ostentatious in his sighings. On the contrary, he cultivates an air of patient resignation, beautiful to behold. A peculiarity about his case is his habit of associating the memory of each dear, departed spouse with some spot or resort about the city or the suburban towns.

He was recently showing San Francisco and its environs to a friend from New York. Over in Berkeley, he remarked, sighingly:

"Here I once walked on flowers, for my Elizabeth was with me then."

Out in the park he was careful to indicate the exact spot where poor Katharine had sketched the landscape with her right hand, while her left was clasped in his. At Sutro Heights he dropped a single tear, developed with great difficulty, as he gazed on the beach, where, not so very long ago, he sat with his arm around his sainted Caroline.

"If I ever marry again," he remarked musingly, "I think I shall bring her here."—San Francisco News Letter.

Irish Pronunciation.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archaeologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. The summons of course referred to the dean.

In ancient Egypt when a cat died in a private house the inmates shaved their eyebrows. The killing of a cat, even accidentally, was considered a capital offense.

The psaltery of Spain is supposed to have been introduced into that country by the Moors. It is still in common use among the peasants.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Trades council will hold a special meeting this evening.

Dr. W. N. Bailey is ill at his home in East Market street, threatened with fever.

Fireman Terrence, who has charge of the East End station, moved his effects to that part of the city yesterday.

J. H. Brookes left this morning for Lisbon where he will remain during the week attending to court business.

Private Andrews, who has been spending several days in Pittsburg visiting friends, returned to the city last evening.

A number of young people will tomorrow evening attend a reception to be given in the Masonic hall, Smith's Ferry.

A drunken man caused considerable excitement in Sixth street last evening by falling down the Grand Opera House stairs. He was not injured.

There is little change in the condition of Miss Maggie House who has been ill at the home of her mother in Fifth street since last Friday.

Justice Rose, who badly injured his back by falling Saturday night, is steadily improving. The injury is not keeping him from his office.

Samuel Lee and Miss Mamie Johnson, well known colored people of the city, last evening were united in marriage by Reverend Carson at his residence.

The work of paving Division street will be commenced as soon as the weather permits. Bradshaw avenue will also be completed the first good day.

This morning J. C. McCain and Will Vodrey left for Millport where they spent the day rabbit hunting. They will return home on the late train this evening.

Charles A. Smith, Al Mason and Captain W. M. Hill have returned from a two days' hunt. They brought with them 61 rabbits and 39 quail as a result of their labors.

The three residences now being erected in Mulberry street, East End, by Dr. R. J. Marshall are almost completed. These are the first houses to be built on this street for over a year.

An evening city paper says that the Washington team is willing to trade Mercer and McGuire for Steinfeldt or Irwin of the Cincinnati club. It is probably another fake rumor.

Mrs. Platts, mother of Secretary Platts, of the Young Men's Christian association, arrived in the city yesterday, coming from Utica. She will make her home with her son.

Clarence Thompson, aged 18, this morning was sent to the infirmary by the township trustees. He has no home and was unable to work. The young man was born in the infirmary.

Woman's home missionary tea will be held at the residence of Mrs. John Gardner, Southside, Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. Every member requested to be present and bring some friend with them.

The work of whitewashing the parlor of the Young Men's Christian association is completed, and the improvement is noticeable. It is possible other improvements will be made on the building in the near future.

The Epworth league of the First M. E. church will hold their regular monthly business session tomorrow night in the lecture room of the church. It will be the last business meeting the society will hold this year.

Lisbon's council is considering the matter of creating the office of solicitor. Heretofore the council has employed its attorney. Mayor Martin has been instructed to draw up an ordinance. The candidates are John Elliott, George P. Ferrell and C. O. Connell, all well known in this city.

IN BLOCKADED SANTIAGO.

A Spanish Naval Officer's Impressions.
Spanish Fleet Badly Prepared—American Soldiers Fight Admirably.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The bureau of naval intelligence issued another of its war series, this time the "Battles and Capitulation of Santiago de Cuba," by Lieutenant Jose Muller y Tejero, the second in command of the naval forces of the province of Santiago de Cuba.

The publication begins with a chapter entitled "The Two Fleets," telling of the arrival of Cervera's squadron on the 19th of May and of the disappointment of the people, who expected no less than eight battleships instead of five. He makes a comparison very carefully and accurately of the vessels of the two squadrons. The lieutenant mentioned the fact that provisions were very short, also that the military element of the province was nine or ten months' in arrears in the payment of consignments, and had been living on credit for some time. Everything was lacking—food, money, credit—and purchasing resources were exhausted.

The Spanish ships did not have to give battle in order to obtain results, and says that if provisions had not been wanting in Santiago and the Spanish fleet had remained there no one could tell to what extremes impatience and despair might have carried Admiral Sampson. Speaking of the Merrimac, he said the real object of the exploit was unknown in Santiago.

The arrival of the army created considerable consternation in Santiago. Provisions were running short, and it is stated that if El Caney and San Juan had not been taken, the Spaniards would not have lost communication with the cultivated region nor would the aqueduct have been cut. The small number of the Spanish forces made it impossible to save these positions. He speaks of the destructive work of the Vesuvius whenever the bombs fell upon any point where there were works or guns.

Speaking of the battles of El Caney and San Juan, he says, the Americans, it must be acknowledged, fought with truly admirable courage and spirit. While the battles were going on at El Caney and San Juan, the enemy sent forces against the whole Spanish line, for the purpose no doubt of harassing and making the attack more general. The casualties of the Spanish side are stated to be 60 officers and 533 men. He claimed that only 520 men defeated El Caney for ten hours, and that 250 defended San Juan for four hours. He speaks of the lively bombardment by sea and land on July 2, and the sortie of the Spanish fleet on July 3. The commanders of the ships were opposed to the movement, but were ordered to go.

At the time of the surrender there were 2,100 sick and wounded soldiers of the Spanish army. The total losses in all the attacks on Santiago are given as follows:

Officers killed, 16; men killed, 107; officers wounded, 59; men wounded, 536; prisoners and missing, 7 officers and 116 men.

REARRANGED SUB-COMMISSIONS.

Some of the Members of the Industrial Commission Held a Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The session of some of the members of the United States industrial commission was devoted to consideration of the reports of the several sub-commissions, which are to be acted upon by the full commission before being promulgated. Rearrangement was made of the personnel of the sub-commissions, so that they now stand as follows:

On transportation—Phillips, Mallory, Lorimer, Harris and Kennedy.

On statistics—North, Farquhar, Conger and Harris.

On agriculture and agricultural labor—Harris, Kyle, Mantle, Gardner and Conger.

On conditions of labor and capital employed in manufacturing and general business—Smyth, Penrose, Livingston, North and Farquhar.

On conditions of labor and capital employed in mining—Daniel, Otjen, Bell, Kennedy and Ratchford.

An Appreciative Reader.

Thomas Scott, the celebrated commentator on the Bible, published an edition of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" with explanatory notes. A copy of this work he benevolently presented to one of his poor parishioners. Meeting him soon after, Mr. Scott inquired whether he had read it.

"Yes, sir," was the enthusiastic reply.

"Do you think you understand it?"

"Oh, yes, sir," the parishioner answered, with the unexpected and disappointing addition, "and I hope before long I shall understand the notes."

George Gould a Witness.

ALBANY, Nov. 30.—George Gould was a witness in the trial of Mrs. Margaret Cody, charged with blackmailing him and his sister Helen by means of alleged valuable information calculated to effect a compromise of Mrs. Angel's suit for dower rights on the ground that she was Jay Gould's first wife. Mrs. Angel, who has confessed that her claim was baseless, will also testify in the trial.
